Regeneration.

ACCLAIM SLAV PREMIER THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

Five Parties Hold Most Momentous Conference in Three Centuries.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Aug. 5.—Premier Kerensky has returned to Petrograd and withdrawn his resignation. He attended a ministerial meeting on Saturday evening, and afterwards conferred with various political leaders.

M. Kerensky has issued a manifesto in which he declares that he considers it impossible when the country is threatened with defeat without and disintegration within, to refuse the heavy task again entrusted to him, which he regards as an express order to carry the country to construct a strong revolutionary government and carry out the principles already laid down.

"At the same time," said the manifesto, "I consider it impossible to introduce changes in the order and distribution of government work without allowing myself to be influenced by the thought that these changes will increase my responsibility in the supreme direction of the affairs of state."

PETROGRAD, Aug. 4 (via London, Aug. 5.)—The all-night political conference at the Winter Palace, which was concluded this morning, with the passage of a resolution in which confidence in Premier Kerensky was expressed by each of the five parties represented, and in which he was invited to form his own Cabinet, was conducted in the strictest secrecy, but with intense emotion. All the participants were obviously convinced that the decision, which was finally reached, meant Russia's regeneration or her ruin.

In conversation with the Associated Press correspondent, who was permitted to be present, the Ministers declared the conference to be the most momentous event in the history of the empire since 1613, when, during the troublous times of the Polish war and internal anarchy, the election of the first Romanoff by a similar conference of notables at Moscow saved the country from dissolution.

The debate resolved itself into a series of panegyrics of the absent Kerensky, who was acclaimed the only man invested with the qualities necessary to restore order while preserving liberty. Foreign Minister Tereshchenko declared that peace was inconceivable, that Russia must prepare to fight throughout the winter and that Premier Kerensky alone possessed the confidence of the nation.

M. Tseretelli, the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, in an emotional speech, echoed the view that Kerensky was the only man who could save the country. In order to alleviate his task, declared the speaker, the government would abstain from forcing through the party programme.

After these men had spoken, the procurator of the Holy Synod, M. Lvoff, rose and said, that he, too, considered the Premier the man destined to be Russia's savior. Minister of Justice Efremoff, said almost the same words in turn, describing the Premier as an indispensable man.

Paul N. Milukoff, leader of the Constitutional Democrats, stated that his party was still ready to attempt the formation of a coalition government with M. Kerensky as a chief who had all the qualifications for success.

After an interval the debate was resumed, and Vice-Premier Nekrasoff announced the demands that had been made by Gen. Korniloff for assurances from Petrograd that he would have drastic powers, without which he would not take over the chief command of the Russian armies.

A counter-revolution exists, added M. Nekrasoff, and is growing day by day. Therefore, the restoration of a strong government, he declared, must be immediate.

The only matter on which there is not unanimity in the councils of the leaders is the status of the Councils of Deputies. A representative of the Council of Soldiers and Workmen gave warning that in his opinion the proposed exclusion of the councils from influence over the government would prove the consummation of the existing anarchy.

"The councils," according to his expressed view, "are the only creative force so far produced by the revolution."

By a vote of 147 to 46, a joint meeting of the executives of the Workmen's and Soldiers' and Peasant's councils confirmed the decision of the all-night political conference of continued confidence in Premier Kerensky.

The Maximalists strongly protested and forty-two of the members of this party abstained from voting.

The Duma Committee also has confirmed the vote of confidence in M. Kerensky.

REPORT FROM FRONT.

Col. Karatkoff, a member of the Executive Committee of the soldiers on the southwestern front, has described in a report before the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates, the exemplary heroism of the "Invalid Corps"—a detachment of crippled soldiers recently organized in Petrograd and sent to the front at their own request. While the corps commander was attempting unsuccessfully to persuade the officers and men to advance, the crippled soldiers took the matter in their own hands, seized two of the reluctant officers and forced them to conduct the advance. The crippled men advanced into the enemy trenches and took a considerable number of prisoners. The other soldiers, shamed by the example, followed the lead of the invalids and invaded the enemy trenches.

Col. Karatkoff added that his observation was that the disorganization of the army was due primarily, not to a lack of spirit in the front line, but to the large number of criminals, deserters and former policemen among the reserves, who spent their entire time in spreading mischievous propaganda in the army.

PHILIPPINE CABLE CUT?

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Communication with the Philippines and China, including Hongkong, by way of San Francisco over the Commercial Pacific cable, has been interrupted, the Commercial Cable Company announced here today, and cablegrams "can be forwarded only via Europe." The cable broke somewhere between Guam and the Philippines. Several days will elapse before communication can be restored, it was stated. Officers of the company said they did not know the cause of the break.

FULL SPEED FOR WAR.

Free Rein is Given the President.

Congress Votes Tremendous Power to Use Men, Money and Munitions.

Authority Conferred on the Executive is Greatest in Country's History.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 5.—War and Congress have made Woodrow Wilson the virtual dictator of the United States and the most powerful ruler in the world of nations.

Slowly and cumulatively Congress has been piling power and responsibility upon the Chief Executive since the European war began, increasing the speed and the load of authority in the last few months since the United States entered the conflict.

The stress of the time and the demands of the hour have kept the public too busy to watch the development of this tremendous growth of executive powers.

Even members of Congress who participated in the grants were surprised when Representative Medill McCormick submitted today a summary of extraordinary authority which the legislative branch has bestowed on President Wilson during the present session and the last few days of the preceding Congress.

Congressman McCormick made public his summary of the more important grants of power, without comment.

LIST OF POWERS.

Here are some of them:

Under the food bill the President is given practically absolute control over the transportation and disposition of foodstuffs; he is given power to fix prices, to fix standards and grades of certain foodstuffs; to commandeer supplies and even take over plants, either for the armed forces or for the public's good; to license the importation, exportation, manufacture, storage or distribution of necessaries; to prevent waste and to prevent hoarding; to purchase, store and sell necessaries at reasonable prices; to prohibit the use of foods, fruits, food materials, or feeds in the production of distilled liquors except for governmental, industrial, manufacturing or medicinal purposes; to control the making of beer and wine and to prevent it if he sees fit during the period of the war.

Under the bond issue law, Mr. Wilson was given power to issue $7,000,000,000 in bonds and to loan not to exceed $3,000,000,000 to the Allies. Under this loaning power the President can exercise great control over Allied purchases and Allied diplomacy. Congress gave him an absolutely free hand in the distribution of the $3,000,000,000 to the various Allied nations. The Secretary of the Treasury was given the immediate handling of the bond issue but provision was made that he should exercise it only with the approval of the President.

THE ESPIONAGE ACT.

Under the provisions of the espionage act approved June 15, the President was given broad embargo powers as well as absolute power over the clearance of ships.

Under the urgency deficiency bill the President was given power to commandeer ships and ship plants and shipbuilding material needed by the country during the war; to modify, suspend, cancel or requisition contracts for the building, purchase or production of ships and material for ships; to commandeer ships now being constructed; to fix the compensation for all ships, either constructed or under construction, that are taken over; and to expend $750,000,000 to carry out the purpose of the act.

Under public law No. 2 the President was given the right to take over vessels within the jurisdiction of the United States, owned wholly or in part by any citizen, corporation or subject of any nation at war with the United States.

Under Public Law No. 12 the President was given the right to raise, organize and equip the regular army; to draft the National Guard into the Federal service and to raise an additional army of men by selective conscription and to fill the National Guard to its war strength. The President was also given almost absolute control of exemptions under the selective conscription feature.

AS TO APPROPRIATIONS.

In the matter of appropriations, President Wilson was given $100,000,000 to spend in his own discretion and without report to Congress, for the prosecution of the war.

The naval appropriation bill, passed in the closing minutes of the last session of Congress, appropriated $115,000,000 for the speeding of construction, deliberately delayed by Secretary Daniels during the first

I. W. W. Agitator Lynched at Butte.

Frank H. Little,

The man whose fulminations against the United States army and denunciations of law and order resulted in his hanging a few days ago at the hands of "Vigilantes." His funeral yesterday was attended by thousands of his constituents who dropped red flags and handkerchiefs into the grave.

Ceremony.

AGITATORS OF BUTTE ATTEND LITTLE FUNERAL.

BUTTE (Mont.) Aug. 5.—With the entire police force of the city on duty, scores of special deputy sheriffs on guard and 400 members of the Federalized State Guard in readiness for instant call, Frank H. Little, member of the general executive board of the Industrial Workers of the World, lynched by vigilantes last Wednesday, was buried here this afternoon.

Approximately 3000 men took part in a funeral procession which marched in orderly fashion from the Duggan undertaking parlors, opposite Miners' Union Hall, to Mountain View Cemetery, a distance of four miles. Speeches and protests against the hanging of Little constituted the only service.

Little's body, in a gray casket, covered with deep red carnations, which were bound to the casket with bright red ribbons, the color of the I.W.W., was carried to the cemetery by members of the I.W.W., who wore huge sashes of red from their shoulders to their hips. Twenty men working relays of six carried the body on their shoulders, and acting as an escort were 100 other members of the I.W.W., who with heads bared and red sashes, followed the casket. The procession on its long march to the cemetery was viewed by thousands. It was headed by Tom Campbell, leader of the Metal Mine Workers' Union, and R. F. Dunne, chairman of the strike committee of the electricians during their recent walkout. Between the two was a standard bearer carrying an American flag.

Following a band came several hundred women, after which came the Pearce Connolly Club, an organization formed for Irish independence. The electrical workers and members of the various metal trades came next. The members of the Metal Mine Workers' Union, the organization before whom Little delivered his alleged seditious speeches, was the best represented in line. The casket with the members of the I.W.W. ended the procession.

With the exception of the American flag the only banner in the procession was that of the electrical workers.

The greater part of the mourners dropped out of the procession before it reached the cemetery. The services there were as orderly as the procession. After the members of the I.W.W. formed a circle around the grave, Tom Rimmer delivered a eulogy of Little, declaring that he died for the solidarity of the working class and that he was a victim of the "class struggle."

After several other persons, among them William Sullivan, attorney for the Metal Mine Workers' Union, made short speeches, the ceremonies ended by the members of the I.W.W. dropping bright red handkerchiefs and carnations into the grave.

ROUND UP DRAFT DEFIERS; ONE KILLED, TWO WOUNDED

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Aug. 5.—A gun fight resulting in one slain and two wounded marked the man hunt today in Central Oklahoma of two posses searching for armed bands of objectors to the selective draft. Twelve miles southeast of Holdenville tonight a posse clashed with an outlaw band. Ed Bialock, a draft objector, was killed; Posseman Jack Paige wounded in the leg, and Posseman Henry Johnson wounded in the head.

Another large posse was formed in the district and has gone to Paige's rescue.

Captures of the objectors, members of the so-called "Working-Class Union," "The Jones Family," and other organizations of kindred beliefs, have numbered 193, according to the best count available at Sasakwa, in Seminole county, the base of operations of the various posses. Of this number, thirty were taken today.

Two deaths thus far have resulted from the man hunt, the other being that of Wallace M. Cargill, an alleged leader, late yesterday.

Representatives of the Federal Marshal's office and of the Federal District Attorney's office will arrive there tomorrow to aid in running down and prosecuting the renegades.

Twenty-six of the outlaws are reported to be camping on Salt Creek, eight miles northwest of here, tonight, and another, smaller band was reported lodged about ten miles east.

Rumors of trouble near Lamar, in Hughes county, tonight could not be traced to any reliable source.

The trailing of the objectors was made easy for the posses in numerous cases by the aid of fullblood Indians, whose unerring woodcraft effected many captures.

Caring for the large number of captives is causing the officers much worry. The jails at Konawa, Holdenville and Wewoka are full and the little bastile at Sasakwa offers accommodations to but few prisoners. Some are housed in a lodge hall there tonight.

The capture of "Bud" Manealey early today, by Che Parney Fixico, a Seminole Indian, presented a humorous feature of the grim happen-

TWO FIRES LAID TO INCENDIARIES. (30)

Attempts were made early this morning to destroy by fire the homes of two families.

REGULARS WILL GUARD AIRPLANE-ENGINE PLANT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] (30)

OAKLAND, Aug. 5.—The Hall-Scott airplane engine factory here, closed recently by a strike, will reopen tomorrow with a cordon of Federal troops guarding the plant, said company officials tonight.

Word was received today from Brig.-Gen. Squier, chief signal officer of the United States Army, that "this necessary work positively cannot be interfered with; the plant must not be shut down again because of labor trouble."

Company officials and labor leaders disclaimed knowledge of the source of the order calling upon the men to walk out. Investigation into the mystery was of no avail.

POLITICAL RUMORS IN BERLIN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (30)

BERLIN (via London) Aug. 5.—Since Chancellor Michaelis returned from his official visits to Munich, Dresden and Vienna, there is much speculation in the press and political circles concerning the identity of the new men who will be called to governmental and ministerial posts. No official confirmation is expected until the Chancellor has submitted the list for approval. This is expected early in the week upon the return to Berlin of Emperor William from his trip to the eastern front.

On the basis of unconfirmed forecasts it may be assumed that the Prussian Ministry soon will include many new faces. Other innovations in governmental and administrative departments permit the deduction that the appointments will foreshadow in a large measure the direction in which the work of the new orientation will be undertaken. Parliamentarization is likely to assert itself in the appointment of Reichstag leaders or undersecretaries.

IMPERIAL VALLEY MEN IN SERVICE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.] (30)

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 5.—Battery D of California Field Artillery, composed of men from San Diego and Imperial Valley, and the Regimental Supply Company were called into the Federal service today. Later in the day the company were presented colors by citizens of Brawley and addresses made by citizens from Imperial Valley and San Diego.

Intensive training will be begun tomorrow morning by the companies, with a three-quarters-of-an-hour hike as a starter. The companies will both be on European soil before the coming winter, it is said.

CATCH TWO MEXICAN THIEVES. (30)

Two Mexicans who had stolen an auto truck loaded with sacks and copper were captured early this morning after a chase lasting many hours. They were taken at gun points. They gave their names as R. Cruz and Lazaro Fernandez.

PLAN TO BUILD U-BOAT CHASERS IS ABANDONED.

War Shows Enemy has Little Chance With Yankee Speed and Brains.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 5.—Plans for the construction of a fleet of 1000 submarine chasers have been abandoned by the Navy Department. Instead, the navy will concentrate on the construction of destroyers, the most formidable foe of submarines, and extend its plans of arming merchant ships traveling the war zone. The department will complete construction of some small boats now under contract, and they will be shipped to England to assist the British patrol, but the present plan is to stop the construction of wooden chasers there.

This change of attitude toward the little craft and their value in fighting submarines is considered the first step in a new general policy which this government is expected to pursue in fighting the German sub-sea menace.

Vice-Admiral Sims is understood to have reported in favor of the change because he has become convinced that the present policy followed by the British navy will never dispose of the submarines.

BRITISH ONLY CHECK.

Great Britain literally has thousands of these boats patrolling the war zone. The records of shipping destroyed by submarines shows that they have assisted in holding the destruction campaign in check, but have not reduced it to any considerable degree, and that there is no reason for believing they ever can eliminate the submarine.

As a result of the experience of the British navy, it is believed that the Navy Department has decided that this government must take more drastic measures, and that it is unwise to use thousands of men and millions of dollars worth of material in following a policy which has not been a success.

The first effect of the discontinuance of the original chaser building programme will be to release thousands of shipbuilders for other work and to divert construction material to other tonnage.

TO BUILD DESTROYERS.

The department will continue building destroyers as rapidly as possible. The navy is satisfied that this type of ship is of infinitely more value in fighting submarines than the fast wooden chasers. The men who have been employed on the first batch of chasers will be used wherever possible on constructing the new fleet of wooden merchantmen. The smaller yards will be used to make standardized sections of these new cargo-carrying ships. In this way is is believed no construction facilities will be lost to the government.

Instead of continuing to build chasers to look for submarines the government is expected to place as much armament as possible upon every American merchant ship, and where possible to avail itself of the new batch of destroyers to act as convoys.

SAFETY IN SPEED.

The Navy Department is satisfied that the German submarines will never be effective against ships which have a fair rate of speed and which are properly armed. The most expert men in the department believe that if Great Britain would change its policy in this line shrinkage in the loss of tonnage there by submarine attack would be noted overnight.

The department has repeatedly called attention to the fact that German submarines have never managed to sink American armed ships which have a tolerable speed rate. This fact is attributed to the department's policy of putting plenty of good gunners with crack crews on every American ship that crosses the war zone.

FEW BRITISH SHIPS ARMED.

An official announcement made in London recently admitted that only 200 British ships were armed. Relatively, the United States has a much greater number of armed ships. The results are shown in the relative loss of shipping flying the British and the American flags.

Experience has taught the American naval commanders that no German submarine is willing to take a chance on coming close to an American ship in daylight because the German commanders have had a few tastes of American metal, and they do not like it. On the other hand, they show no fear in boldly attacking British ships because they realize the danger is relatively small.

Effective.

TANKS GREAT FACTOR IN BELGIAN FIGHTING.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Aug. 5.—The great squadron of tanks which went into action with the British infantry at dawn Tuesday proved their right to a place among the modern engines of war. The battle of Flanders furnished the most comprehensive worth of these monsters as fighting machines which has yet been given and they came through the ordeal with flying colors notwithstanding they were operating under the most trying conditions of terrain.

Opening of the conflict saw a considerable concentration of tanks. Fewer tanks proportionately were knocked out by a direct hit than in any previous engagement. The total of the casualties among the tank crews was remarkably low and most of these were among men who deliberately left off the cover of their iron fort and worked in the open under machine gun fire.

The material damage the tanks did to the enemy defenses was enormous and prisoners state that very heavy casualties were inflicted on the Germans.

AFRAID OF TANKS.

That the enemy is extremely afraid of the tanks is without question and on numerous instances the Germans surrendered freely on the mere appearance of one of these engines, which truly are of terror-inspiring appearance. At one place eight German officers surrendered without question when a tank crawled up and threatened to open fire and sixty soldiers were captured by a single tank near St. Julien.

There were accidents which, though regrettable, were not without touches of humor. One tank, which was trundling in the dark toward the front some time before the battle, encountered railway wagons standing at a crossing. The operator of the tank did not see the obstacle, and the engineer of the train could not hear the approach of the tank because of the noise made by his machinery. The tank went through the train as if it were made of pasteboard, and continued its lumbering, but ruthless, way, leaving one of the railway wagons much the worse for wear.

DO MUCH FIGHTING.

The tanks did much fighting in the difficult country about St. Julien and Frezenberg and in the territory lying directly east of Zillebeke. At the defenses near Frezenberg a spectacular battle occurred. These consisted of two strong redoubts, one of which was known as the Castle. In front of them flows the Hanebeek, and the surrounding ground was marsh-like and difficult for heavy bodies to move across. The attacking tanks advanced over the stream and sodden ground under a heavy fire from the machine guns in the redoubts and the anti-tank guns hidden behind the fortifications.

One tank worked its way around the Castle, and, opening fire, drove all the defenders into the other redoubt. It then forced its way to the rear of the occupied redoubt and compelled all the enemy to flee back to the Castle, where, in a frenzy of fear, the Germans took refuge. At this point other tanks joined in the fray, and, after surrounding the Castle, delivered a concerted assault, clearing the Castle for the second time, as well as all the outlying defenses.

Special Order.

HAIG SAYS BRITISH ARMS VINDICATED IN FRANCE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Aug. 5.—Yesterday, the third anniversary of Great Britain's entrance into the war, Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, commanding the British armies on the western front, issued a special order of the day, filled with the spirit of confidence in ultimate victory and complete faith in the people of the empire and its forces, which only this week in the battle in Flanders added another link to their steadily-growing chain of successes over the Germans. The order follows:

"Today we stand at the beginning of the fourth year of the war. Twelve months ago, the power of the British Empire to undertake an offensive operation on a great scale and to carry it through to success was still on its first trial. That power stands fully proved today—to the armies themselves, to the enemy, and to the world.

"We enter the fourth year of the war with a steady confidence based securely upon all that already has been achieved by ourselves and our gallant allies. The record of the past three years leaves no room for doubt that the British armies in France and the workers at home, upon whom they depend, have both the power and the will to complete the task they have undertaken and will press on until their labor is crowned with ultimate and certain victory."

The rain set in again at noon, after a let-up of only a few hours. Friday the French continued their success in the Kortekeer cabaret and during the night they repulsed a local counter-attack on the right flank.

The Germans yesterday concentrated a heavy fire on the left of the French line and employed high-velocity shells to search out the districts lying behind. Bixschoote also was heavily shelled. Strong artillery duels continued at various points along the British portion of the front.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 5.—Silver statues and antiques to the value of 1,500,000 rubles were stolen from the Senate building early yesterday morning by six armed robbers, who declared that the statues of the Romanoff family offended their revolutionary sentiments.

The robbers, three of whom were disguised as soldiers, went to the Senate building, in which a vast collection of historic valuables is kept, in an automobile. The porter at the door was knocked down and tied with ropes and a sack was placed over his head.

The loot included a silver statue of the Empress Catherine II, valued at 500,000 rubles; a statue representing Russia at Prayer, the famous statue of Minerva, presented to the Senate by Empress Catherine, and many big candlesticks and equestrian statuettes.

The automobile carrying the robbers and their booty was driven away from the building a half-hour before the guards arrived and discovered the robbery.

ENGLISH FINANCES STAND WAR STRAIN.

THIRD ANNIVERSARY FINDS MONEY SITUATION GOOD.

Government Still Depending on Short-term Borrowing and Additions to the Floating Debt to Meet Current Outlays, but New Loan Bill will be Passed.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Today is the third anniversary of the declaration of the war by Great Britain and the authorities consider the country has borne well the financial strain. National expenditure from August, 1914, to Saturday last, was approximately £5,136,000,000, of which the revenue has contributed approximately £1,243,000,000, or a little short of one-fourth, the balance coming from loan operations of various kinds.

The government is still depending on short-term borrowing and additions to the floating debt to meet current war outlays, but the Chancellor announced Thursday the intention to pass a new war loan bill before Parliamentary adjournment. The measure needed chiefly to provide for the issue to the American government of long-term notes against advances made.

High-class investment securities are steady or higher and there is some demand for the 4½ per cent. war loan, which carries conversion rights into any new issue.

British railways are still unaffected by dividend announcements, but Grank Trunk and Canadian Northern securities rose briskly in consequence of the announcement of the Canadian Finance Minister that the latter system was to come under immediate government control and that further financial support would be extended to the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Scandinavian government securities have reached remarkable prices, Swedish 3½ per cents. touching 112, owing to the pronounced movements in exchange in favor of those countries.

Court-line shipping shares were flattened by a reduction in the interim dividend from 8 per cent. to 3 per cent., which is attributed to the changed conditions following government control of the company's steamers. Marconi's are reactionary, but explosive shares showed improvement.

There is no new feature in the money market and the situation favors borrowers, bankers having a fair volume of surplus funds. Discount business is narrow, with purchases still largely restricted to short bills.

RED CROSS DISBURSEMENTS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Appropriations from the $100,000,000 Red Cross war fund up to August 1 amounted to $6,175,752, of which $2,872,598 actually had been spent. It was announced last night by Henry P. Davison, chairman of the War Council. About $20,000,000 of the $100,000,000 subscriptions had been paid.

GERMANS DISLIKE FAKE TOBACCO.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

AMSTERDAM (Netherlands) July 15.—The recognized standard substitute for pipe tobacco, placed on the market in Germany, is a blend of strawberry leaves, lavender, fennel and woodruff, and it sells at a price equivalent to about 75 cents a pound. Smokers say it is "passable but apt to bite the tongue." On the other hand, a soldier in the trenches who received a packet of the mixture from his brother wrote to the sender that "he would take the first chance to wring his neck for foisting such abominable stuff on him as tobacco."

FIVE HUNDRED PERSONS VICTIMS OF THE HEAT.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 5.—While the backbone of the recent deadly heat may not be broken, it has been wrenched and bent to an extent that brought general relief to all parts of the country today. Of the hundreds prostrated in the five-day siege that killed outright more than 500 persons in the East, including Pennsylvania, and more than 200 east of Pittsburgh, chiefly in Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago, are succumbing in hospitals, and it is estimated that he total toll of the heat wave, counting those who will expire of heat prostration within the next week will not be far from 1000 persons. This does not include the hundreds of infants who perished of various complaints all due to the smothering weather.

There were sohe hot spots today. Texas and Arizona reported maximum of 102, while Central California led the torid list with 104. There were indications early in the day that Chicago and vicinity was in for another siege when the temperature rose to 90 deg., but a fortunate shift of the wind brought breezes off the lake which speedily

"HANDS OFF! OBEY ME," KORNILOFF'S CONDITION.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 5.—Gen. L. G. Korniloff, in accepting the position of commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, has telegraphed to Premier and War Minister Kerensky the conditions under which he is willing to take the supreme command.

"First, I wish to be responsible only to my conscience and to the people," says the general.

"Second, no one shall intervene in my fighting orders and appointments.

"Third, the measures adopted during the last few days at the front also shall be applied at the depots in the rear."

CONFERENCE SUMMED UP.

M. Terestchenko, the Foreign Minister, in summing up the debate at the political conference, said that he was convinced that the zealous desire displayed by all parties at the conference was a pledge that the safety of the country would be secured.

The conference was then suspended in order to give the various parties an opportunity to come to an understanding on the best way of settling their difficulties. The resolution of confidence in Premier Kerensky was adopted soon after the conference was reassembled.

All the declarations were permeated by a spirit of general confidence in Premier Kerensky, as being the only man of sufficient authority to assure a strong government for the country.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The arrest of Gen. Gurko, former commander of the Russian armies on the southwestern front, says a Reuter dispatch from Petrograd, took place in the Russian capital and newspapers there say was brought about by political charges made against him. LONDON, Aug. 5.—The executive council of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, according to Reuter's Petrograd correspondent, has resolved to issue a proclamation to the peoples of the whole world, pointing out the tragic situation in which the continuation of the war would place them. ## DISSOLVE FINN LANDTAG; NAME GENERAL ELECTION.

HELSINGFORS, Aug. 5. — The Senate, under the Presidency of the Governor-General decided by seven votes against six to publish the manifesto issued by the provisional government dissolving the landtag and appointing a general election on October 1. The decision was communicated to the landtag which then adjourned. Reassembling ten hours later, the President declared the landtag suspended sine die. The deputies immediately quit the house. The Governor-General with the commanders of the Baltic fleet and the Sveaborg garrison attended a joint meeting of the naval and regimental committees. The Governor-General explained the reasons for the dissolution of the landtag and said the opening of the new body coincides with the meeting of the constituent assembly, when both bodies will be able legitimately to pronounce upon the political future of Finland. He added that if the diet refused to dissolve, force would be used.

At a joint meeting of the Senate and landtag in the presence of the Governor-General of Finland, the following resolutions were adopted:

"First—All Russian citizens must obey the orders of the provisional government which is the legitimate organ of Russian social democracy.

"Second—The Finnish democracy made a mistake in proclaiming autonomy without a preliminary agreement with the Russian democracy.

"The only solution of the situation is a mixed commission consisting of an equal number of representatives of the democracies of Russia and Finland for a settlement of the conflict."

CANADIANS CLOSE NET ABOUT CENTER OF LENS

Troops from the Dominion Fighting Fiercely to Capture Coal City.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug. 5.—(By the Canadian Press, Ltd.) Another forward movement to the southwest of Lens has been made with a minimum loss. For the best part of two weeks in the Cite du Moulin our patrols and those of the enemy have been living an uneasy life almost side by side, with only a few tumble-down walls between them. Yesterday afternoon small attacking parties set out from that part of the Cite du Moulin already in our hands and drove in the enemy's patrols along a front of over 1000 yards. The Germans for the most part scuttled back toward Lens, but a number were caught under our fire and killed. A new outpost line was established and prepared for a counter-attack. No counter-attack had been made up to the time of filing this dispatch.

This advance carries the Canadians well within 1000 yards of the center of Lens on the western front of the city. At Avion and Leauvitte, on the south front, our outposts are now about a mile from the center, and in the northwest sector, opposite St. Laurent, our line is a scant 1500 yards from the heart of Lens. The net is fast closing.

A remarkable story is told concerning the cool bravery of one of our artillery observation officers at his post from which he had been observing the effect of our guns—an excellent one for the purpose. The German gunners, knowing he was being put to use as an observation post, determined to destroy the building. They began shelling at it early in the morning and continued firing on the structure throughout the day, using it as a target for considerably over 300 rounds at a cost of many thousands of dollars.

The building rocked and swayed under the impact of bursting shells, but only twice during the day did the observer leave his post. Each time he did so to report that the vibration of his periscope had been carried away by a bursting shell. On the second occasion, he told his battery commander over the telegraph system that the Boches had forced him, for a few minutes by threatening fire of an adjacent building upon which his post was located, to devotion to duty under such peril enabled gunners to continue their work on a day when aerial observation was impossible.

TURCO-GERMANS TO TRY TO RETAKE BAGDAD SOON

GENEVA (Switzerland) Aug. 5.—The Germans and Turks are preparing to make a great effort to regain Bagdad, according to the Secolo of Rome.

Gen. Von Falkenhayn, who commanded the Austro-German armies in Rumania last year, has arrived at Constantinople to take command of the forces now being assembled. Four Turkish divisions from Serbia and Turkish troops from Thrace are being concentrated at the Turkish capital. Austria is furnishing the heavy artillery and Germany is furnishing the officers.

The offensive, the paper says, will take place in the middle of September.

The bill proposed by Secretary McAdoo for government insurance of American troops sent abroad also will be presented this week.

MORE PEACE TALK DUE.

Further Senate discussion of peace is promised. Senator Stone, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, will tonight that he expects to deliver this week a speech on the peace situation, but probably will not offer any concrete proposals in the form of a resolution. Woman suffrage is another subject scheduled for continued agitation. Senator Cummins plans to renew the effort to have the suffrage amendment to the national constitution reported by the Senate Woman Suffrage Committee. Senator Chamberlain hopes to secure consideration of his resolution to draft all aliens except Asiatics and enemies who reside in this country. The Military Committee also is scheduled to soon report a War Department bill to create a board of aircraft production.

"TEAR OUT KAISER!" IS CRY IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 5.—The school children of Chicago may be mobilized to pull the Kaiser from his stronghold in the public school speller. In spite of numerous attacks on his position the Kaiser has maintained possession of page 62 in the speller and there are indications that he will be there still when school opens. At the meeting of the school board Tuesday, however, Trustee Anthony Czarnecki will request that Supt. Shoop and the board designate the first day of school as the time when every page eulogizing the Kaiser be torn from the books.

There will be, if Mayor Thompson's school board approves the plan, a designated hour when all the children will rise and tear. A patriotic demonstration will follow at which the pages will be torn and the ashes cast to the winds.

Mr. Czarnecki was in Washington when Mr. Shoop announced the old speller would be in use in September. A new speller was being prepared, but the superintendent turned it down as being unsatisfactory. It will take months more before another can be prepared.

Mr. Shoop sidestepped when asked if the Kaiser was to stick it out in stronghold. When Mr. Czarnecki returned to Chicago he found that the old speller was to go in use. He said that he would insist on the removing at the next meeting of the Kaiser is in the Chicago school system.

The page was prepared by a former teacher of German descent who married a German soldier and who was educated in Germany. Groups of citizens of foreign birth tried to have the page removed when the Lusitania was sunk and later when the United States declared a state of war existed.

WAR TAX BILL UP THIS WEEK.

Final Enactment of Food Measure Scheduled.

House to Begin Series of Recesses Tomorrow.

Stone Promises Speech on "Peace Situation."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5. — Final enactment of the administration food control bill is the principal task ahead of Congress this week. When this long-contested measure is out of the way the Senate will begin debate on the $2,006,000,000 war tax bill, with the leaders hoping for a vacation recess in September.

The entire war legislative programme is again congested in the Senate, where debate on the conference report of the food control bill will be resumed tomorrow. Tuesday, the House will begin a series of three-day recesses to consider for several weeks under the parliamentarian's agreement to transact important business until the war bill is ready for conference.

Administration leaders expressed confidence tonight that the food legislation will be sent to the President before the week-end, though not until after another bitter fight in the Senate. Action on the conference report of the first administration food bill, for a food survey and stimulation of production, will follow.

WAR TAX BILL TODAY.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the Finance Committee, tomorrow will present the war tax bill and the bipartisan committee report to the Senate. It is to be taken up after disposal of the food legislation. The leaders hope to limit discussion so that the bill can be passed within two weeks, completed in conference within another two weeks and finally passed early in September.

Upon passage of the revenue measure and other minor legislation the recess of six weeks or more may be arranged.

The administration trading-with-the-enemy bill, passed by the House, will be considered tomorrow by the Senate Commerce Committee, but action on the same may be postponed until after the Congressional recess planned for September. The Commerce Committee will seek consideration this week of Bainbridge Colby of New York as a member of the Shipping Board. Some opposition is promised by Senator Elkins.

GERMAN SUBMARINE WELL DISGUISED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

GULF PORT, Aug. 5.—German submarine commanders are still making effective use of the ruse of disguising their craft with sails to resemble trawlers during hazy weather, according to Capt. H. B. Thompson of the tank steamer John D. Archbold, which was sunk June 14. Capt. Thompson is now master of a vessel now docked here.

The Archbold sighted a vessel of the trawler class and one sail about six miles away on the afternoon the Archbold was sunk. Although suspicious of the vessel, Capt. Thompson said he was not certain of its identity until the craft submerged within 200 yards of his vessel. Thereupon the Archbold changed her course, but was sunk about two hours later by a torpedo that killed three of her crew.

GUARD CANTONMENTS TO SURVIVE THE WAR.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Provision for building semi-permanent cantonments at National Guard training camp sites, it was learned today, is included in the army deficiency bill recently submitted to Congress. Whether all present camps are to be continued in this way is not known, and presumably has not been decided.

The items covering the building of sixteen additional cantonments, bringing up the thirty-two such cantonment cities originally planned, are included in the estimates of more than $33,000,000 for barracks and quarters and more than $17,000,000 for such purposes as roads and piers.

Wilson administration. President Wilson was given the right to suspend the eight-hour law, to commandeer shipbuilding plants and materials in order to expedite the production of ships.

The aviation law recently passed by Congress appropriated $240,000,000 for an increased air force. This money is to be spent under the direction of the President, who is authorized to increase the strength of the Signal Corps of the army; to appoint all officers not above the grade of colonel, to obtain enlisted men, either voluntarily or by draft; to organize the personnel of the aviation section; to purchase or manufacture airships, supplies, aerial machines of other character, appliances, etc., etc., of every description; to purchase necessary buildings, acquire necessary land by any means he sees fit, such as purchase, lease, donation, condemnation; to increase plants, factories and other airplane establishments and to aid the operation of technical schools and colleges where aviation is taught.

TRADING WITH ENEMY.

The trading with the enemy act gives the President almost absolute powers in the matter of determining what is trading with the enemy, and in the prevention of such business.

At the outset, of course, Congress granted the President the power to use the armed forces of the United States, both land and sea, as he deems proper for the successful prosecution of the war.

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP STORMBOUND.

RAINSTORM IN FLANDERS IS WIDESPREAD.

Overseas Forces Effect Wonderful Transformation in French Villages, Which Never Before Were so Clean—Our Soldiers Rapidly Learn Art of Disguise.

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, Aug. 5.—The rain, which has done so much to hold up the offensive in Flanders, has spread to the American training camp. For almost a solid week the only dry day has been Wednesday, when Maj.-Gen. Pershing paid his first flying visit.

There has been a distinct touch of winter in the weather, and the men have had a foretaste of what is to come in November, December, January and February, when the comparatively few hours of daylight generally will be shrouded in deep gray mists. The rains have been a good test for the housing accommodations of the troops, all of whom, however, have been dry and happy.

It is wonderful to see the transformations that have taken place in the French village, barns and farmhouses, where the soldiers are billeted. These places are cleaner than was ever known before.

The American area in France is constantly spreading and barracks are springing up in many places.

The Americans are already learning the art which the French and British call camouflage—the art of disguise. The tents and the roofs of some of the smaller barracks are covered by branches of trees and twigs so that they will not be distinguishable readily from airplanes.

The rain has not interfered seriously with the training of those soldiers whose camps are located on high ground. However, it has compelled the abandonment of some of the low-lying camps, but the men are being drilled on the paved streets.

Yesterday there was bomb throwing and automatic rifle contests between picked French and American teams. The scores were close, but the decision was given to the Americans.

A French interpreter attached to the camp was wounded Thursday by the accidental explosion of a grenade. He may lose his sight.

USING X-RAY TO FIND TUBERCULAR SOLDIERS

ALBANY (N. Y.) Aug. 5.—One of the most advanced steps known to science for the detection of pulmonary tuberculosis among soldiers has been taken by New York State in a series of X-ray photos of 1030 members of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, the object being to demonstrate the usefulness of this method as applied to large bodies of troops whose examinations for this disease must of necessity be thorough if the United States is to avoid the experience of the Canadian and French armies with the disease.

A report on the New York tests was made yesterday by a group of lung specialists and Roentgenologists. In the first 600 plates inspected today twenty-two men were found with definite tuberculosis sufficient to disqualify them for military service. In addition, there were eighteen who showed old pulmonary lesions, indicating arrested tuberculosis.

The twenty-two definite patients, taking Canada's figures as a basis, if exposed to the strain of life in the trenches, would inevitably break down.

MINEOLA (L. I.) Aug. 5.—Garbed in a plain white little gingham dress and with her jet-black hair parted and drawn closely over her white temples, the beautiful Blanca de Saulles, in her cell in Nassau County Jail today related her story of what caused the tragedy of Friday night, when she entered the home of her divorced husband, John L. de Saulles, on Hempstead Plain, and shot him to death. She spoke to her lawyer, Henry A. Uterhart.

This story, a resume of which made public by Mr. Uterhart, is given as the mother's justification of her only previous comment on her act, which was:

"It had to be done. It just had to—that's all."

Into a long recital of infidelity and neglect on the part of De Saulles, Mr. Uterhart weaves the story of how he alleges his client was systematically despoiled of her private fortune by her husband. Instead of the millions she popularly was supposed to have possessed, Senorita Errazuris had in her own right but a scant $100,000 when wooed and won by the ex-Yale athlete in 1911. Of this it is charged De Saulles has squandered $47,000.

"CAMPAIGN OF NEGLECT."

Almost from the day De Saulles learned of the true extent of his wife's fortune, it is charged, he began his campaign of neglect of his wife, which ultimately won her a divorce. After the separation and subsequent agreements in and out of court as to the divided custody of little Jack, the child, Mr. Uterhart asserts, the De Saulles family endeavored to poison the mind of the boy against his mother.

On Friday night the lawyer says that Mrs. De Saulles motored from her home at Rosslyn to her former husband's home with no intention of killing or harming anyone. She went to get her boy, who, by the terms of a pact agreed to by De Saulles, was to have been returned to her at 8 o'clock. When 8 o'clock passed and the boy was not brought back to Rosslyn, Mrs. De Saulles telephoned her husband's place. The butler answered and said the little fellow had been put to bed and that De Saulles and the family were at the Meadowbrook Hunt Club for dinner.

FEARS CONSPIRACY.

With the family absent Mrs. De Saulles, whose mind already had been fired with fears of conspiracy, decided it would be an excellent time to regain the child herself. First, according to Mr. Uterhart's story, she telephoned D. Stewart Inglehart, a well-known resident of East Williston, asking him to accompany her on the long ride. Mr. Inglehart declined and then it was, the lawyer states, that Mrs. De Saulles resolved to take the revolver, one her former husband had given her and taught her to use, as a measure of protection to herself.

Instead of finding the John de Saulles home deserted and its occupants at the Meadowbrook Club, the place was ablaze with lights when Mrs. De Saulles and her maid motored up in a public taxicab. She asked the driver to wait a little way from the entrance, while with the maid she crept up to investigate. Through the windows she saw and recognized those inside the house—De Saulles, his father, his sister, his friends—all of whom had been arrayed against her, in sympathy at least, in the legal battle she had waged for her boy.

FRANTIC AT DECEPTION.

Frantic at the deception that had been practiced upon her she rushed into the house and demanded her boy.

The De Saulles family's accounts of the affair do not pretend to deny that she was refused. It was more than Latin pride and spirit could bear. Reason gave way and fumbling in the left-hand pocket of her white sweater—an awkward place to carry a weapon, Mr. Uterhart points out—the niece of a former President of Chile brought forth the nickel-plated pistol and fired at her ex-husband, again and again.

Such is the lawyer's first brief for his client.

"When she had finished that heart-rending story," said Mr. Uterhart, "I said to her: 'Mrs. De Saulles, if you are not liberated of the charge against you, if any jury of American men does not set you free I will walk up to the judge's bench and turn in my certificate to practice law.' I told her that and I mean it."

BOY'S PICTURE IN CELL.

While Mrs. De Saulles bared her woes to her counsel she glanced at times, as if for inspiration, toward a photograph propped on the little dressing table (a gift of the Sheriff's wife) which adorns her cell. It was a picture of a boy whose eyes are as black and whose hair is as jet as the fair prisoner's. It was a picture of little Jack—the innocent cause of everything.

And whatever the outcome of the murder trial, it was learned today from representatives of the mother's family, there will be waged independently an unrelenting legal warfare to wring custody of the child from the family of John de Saulles. All the wealth, power and influence that can be wielded by Chilean relatives of the bride has been pledged in the fight to take the boy from his father's people.

ARGENTINE STOPS PARLEY WITH GERMANY OVER SHIPS.

BUENOS AIRES (Argentina) Aug. 5.—Dissatisfied with the progress of negotiations with Germany growing out of the sinking of the Argentine steamer Toro, the Argentine government has broken off the discussions that were being conducted with the German Minister here and has sent a final, categorical note to Berlin requiring a clear and final reply to the Argentine demands within a reasonable time. The reply is expected within eight days. During this time it will be decided if relations with Germany shall be broken if the response from the German Foreign Office is a negative one. The Foreign Minister and the German Minister here have been discussing for the last few days the question of the sinking of the Toro. The reply from Germany had led Argentina to believe that Germany was disposed to agree not to sink any more Argentine vessels even in the war zone. When it came to a discussion of the details of the conditions, however, it began to appear that Germany was not willing to give complete satisfaction and pledge herself to respect Argentine vessels in the future. The breaking off of the discussion and the sending of the new note followed.

PARIS STATEMENT.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—The official communication tonight reads:

"In Belgium the artillery fighting was rather violent, especially near Bixschoote. Our patrols west of the road from Steenstraete to Wumen occupied two farms in front of our lines.

"Our artillery carried out effective fires east of Gauchy on the enemy's trenches. East of Cerny two German attacks were shattered by our fires before they were able to reach our lines. The artillery was especially active in the sectors of Avacourt and Douaumont.

"Belgian communication: 'Owing to bad weather artillery activity was restricted on the whole front.'

"Army of the East, Aug. 3.—East of the Vardar the enemy attempted a surprise attack near Roselli which failed. British aviators bombed Jeniko."

Early today a heavy attack was made by the Germans on the French front to the south of Juvincourt, northwest of Rheims. The French line was preserved intact, the Germans being ejected from the single trench element which they had succeeded in entering, the War Office announces.

The artillery activity in Belgium is described as intermittent. It was somewhat more violent at points in the Verdun region. Minor attacks on the Casemates plateau, on the Aisne front were readily warded off.

FROM PETROGRAD.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 5.—Russian troops operating east of Czernowitz, Bukowina, attacked the Austro-German forces and captured a wood near Baian, together with more than 500 prisoners and three machine guns, the War Office announced today. Southwest of this region the Russians are continuing to retire, as they also are doing in the vicinity of Kimpolung.

FROM BERLIN.

BERLIN (via London) Aug. 5.—There was no infantry activity on the Flanders front yesterday, Army headquarters announced today. The weather in the Aisne region and in the Champagne was unfavorable for operations and only one action was reported, nearly 100 prisoners being taken in a raid on the French lines near Juvincourt.

FROM ROME.

ROME, Aug. 5.—Numerous aircraft activities, during one of which a hostile seaplane was brought down by the Italian guns, falling into the river Po, are reported in today's War Office statement.

PROGRESS IN FLANDERS.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Further progress has been made by the French northwest of Bixschoote on the Flanders battle front, says today's British official report.

The Germans worked up a heavy bombardment of the Entente lines last night in the Hollebeke region.

Only raiding operations are reported from other sections of the front.

EASTERN FRONT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via London) Aug. 5.—The Austro-German armies on the eastern front are continuing their advances between the Dniester and the Pruth and in Bukowina east and south of Czernowitz, taking several additional towns, according to today's army headquarters' report.

There have been violent artillery duels near Brody, northeastern Galicia, and along the Zbrocz, the eastern boundary of Galicia. Artillery activity is also reported from the Russian northern front.

Further Rumanian attacks on Casinuluf were repulsed.

Draft Defiers.

lings of the last few days. Manealey, dressed as a woman, accompanied by two women members of his family was discovered on the road to Sasakwa by the Seminole. Suspicious of the coarse timbre of Manealey's voice, he shoved his rifle into his ribs so violently that his bonnet was knocked off, disclosing a bald head. Marching his prisoners to town and failing to find a place in the jail, Fixico placed a log chain around his neck, and, fastening him to a post, stood guard over him until relieved.

Officers returning from the brush tonight reported that many of the homes of the malcontents had been deserted. Whether the objectors were gathering with their families at Salt Creek, the supposed gathering place of the largest group, still was undetermined.

No report had been received late tonight from the two large posses which left early in the evening, one of them to the Salt Creek neighborhood.

J. F. Moose of Okemah was shot and killed a mile north of Holdenville tonight when he disregarded the order of a guard line flung around that city to halt.

It is believed he was ignorant of the conditions which had caused citizens to protect their city from armed objectors to the selective draft.

Jack Page, a posseman, was wounded in the leg, and first reports had it that he had been carried off by the objectors. This later was denied at Holdenville. Henry Johnson, another member of the citizens' forces, was shot in the head. The country where the fighting occurred is very wild and communication is possible only by courier.

The situation in Seminole county tonight virtually remained unchanged.

Nothing has been heard from the posses still out after the recalcitrants. The number of prisoners tonight mounted well over the 200 mark and they were being sent to the larger towns for safe-keeping.

AFFIDAVITS FRAUD FOR BEATING DRAFT

SAN FRANCISCANS TRY TO PUT PREMIUM UPON TREASON.

Chairman McNab of Exemption Board Lays Evidence of Crooked Practice Before United States Attorney Preston and Asks Claimants be Held.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—John L. McNab, chairman of the exemption board in San Francisco, today addressed a letter to John W. Preston, United States District Attorney, urging the later to take official cognizance of what he alleged to be a concerted plan to hinder the progress of the selective draft.

Mr. McNab, writing for the board which he heads, invited the attention of the District Attorney to certain affidavits presented in support of exemption claims. The affidavits, he said, were in similar form, and indicated the existence of a plan to combat the selective draft. He told the Federal official that the board had refused to file the papers, and by unanimous vote had directed that they be forwarded for attention. His reasons he stated as follows:

"To tolerate such vicious utterances made under the guise of an exemption claim, is to encourage disloyalty and place a premium upon treason."

He said that the board had delivered the papers with recommendations that the claimants and the person who drafted their affidavits be held to the Federal grand jury for indictment for conspiracy to violate the selective service and other statutes.

Desperate Attempt is Made to Regain Important Positions Lost in the Early Stages of the Battle in Flanders—Onslaught on Hollebeke Preceded by a Tremendous Artillery Fire.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Aug. 5.—The Germans at 5 o'clock this morning launched a heavy attack against Hollebeke and the British post just north of the Ypres-Comines Canal in an attempt to regain these important positions, which they lost in the opening day of the battle in Flanders. The latest reports concerning the fighting indicate that the British are holding out strongly against the onslaught.

This attack with the advance of the Canadians along a thousand-yard front before Lens, which took them into the environs of the town, are the outstanding features of the most recent activity along the British front.

In the operations at Lens last night the Canadians pushed forward to a depth of about 200 yards to a line between the Lens-Grenay Railway and the Cite dus Moulin, directly south, and since have consolidated their positions among the buildings.

The deluge of rain, which had lasted since Tuesday evening ceased during the night and by noon the sun was shining brightly, making observation work and the movement of troops much easier.

ATTACK ON HOLLEBEKE.

The attack on Hollebeke and vicinity was preceded by a tremendous artillery fire from the enemy batteries. The Germans began to shell Battlewood and the canal zone just north of Hollebeke last evening, and continued a concentrated fire throughout the night. The British guns replied vigorously and at times the duel assumed the intensity of drum fire. It shook the country for miles about and sent great waves of deafening thunder rolling far back of the British lines under the confining cover of the low-hanging, water-laden clouds.

The British coup which resulted in the further tightening of the lines about Lens was carried out with only slight opposition from the enemy. The Canadians advanced in parties toward their objectives among the houses on the outskirts of the town.

SOME RESISTANCE.

Some resistance was encountered from machine guns concealed in buildings, but the Canadians advanced steadily until they had acquired the entire line sought. Here they installed themselves in buildings and cellars suitable for defense and set up machine guns. No counter-attacks followed from the Germans and the Canadians continued their consolidations until this morning, when they had linked up the whole line with barbed wire and were prepared to meet any enemy advance.

The German artillery was active along most of the front last night, shelling the forward areas newly occupied by the Allied troops. There also was considerable shelling of the back areas with gas shells, Wytschaete and the section south of Messines especially being selected for this work of hate.

The British continued to make progress on the left flank and pushed their posts forward to the east side of the Steenbeeke River along a front of approximately a mile, beginning in the neighborhood of St. Julien and running northwest. The ground in this section has been among the most hotly contested places in the zone of the new offensive.

FRENCH PROGRESS.

North of Bixschoote, the French, too, made further progress under heavy fire from the enemy guns, which have been pounding the French positions steadily since the first day of the push.

The lifting of the clouds brought large numbers of German airplanes, which were very active last night at low altitudes over the British lines.

Special religious services on the occasion of the beginning of the fourth year of the war were held today throughout the British army camps. Wherever possible, large bodies of troops and officers gathered to give thanks and reconsecrate themselves to the task they have undertaken. In one place 15,000 soldiers collected for the open-air service.

JAPAN AND AMERICA MAY FINISH THE WAR.

United States on the Western and Nipponese on the Eastern with Tremendous Armies Relied Upon by Experts to Become Deciding Factors—Allies Realize that Russia Must Receive Help to Rehabilitate Herself.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 5.—The amazing changes of three years of warfare come now to the point where many careful observers believe that the United States and Japan are to strike the deciding blows, the one upon the western and the other on the eastern battle-front.

Each of these countries has millions of men in reserve. Each is thousands of miles away from the scene of conflict, but the statesmen of both nations have realized that, with Germany aiming at world domination, their own security is threatened. The United States already has begun to throw its forces across the sea, and the recent dispatch of Japanese destroyers to European waters marked the beginning of the island empire's participation in a large way.

The Entente Allies first gave Japan the task of conquering Kiao Chau, the only German possession in Asia. They did not care to urge Japan to greater endeavor at that time, nor was Japan over-anxious for it, as the empire was under financial stress, and needed time to recuperate.

HOPED TO CRUSH GERMANY.

The Entente hoped it could force a decision this year by united pressure on all the fronts. That chance failed when Russia's army came to a halt, and the eastern front became a matter of daily doubt. But the Allies never had a thought of allowing Russia to sink, even if Russia became impotent. Japan was to be called upon, in good time, if she was needed.

Recently Japanese troops have been concentrating in Manchuria. This has been done quietly, and without apparent relation to the far-away war. The reasons given by the diplomats, when they said anything at all, were Asiatic reasons, but the fact stands that Japan has taken the pulse of the Manchurian railroad system, and is gathering forces within striking distance. The extent of this movement the cables have not told, and presumably will not tell until the time comes for action.

What may be accomplished with 1,000,000 or 2,000,000 Japanese thrown against the Austro-German lines between Galicia and the Baltic, and what by 1,000,000 or 2,000,000 Americans between Switzerland and Belgium? The future historian may tell.

The moral effect is great. America's contribution in troops may weigh less heavily than in other ways, which scarcely need to be detailed. The financial strength which pours out billions in loans to the Allies, while carrying out an immense war programme on its own account, is one great factor. The construction of a great air fleet is another, and the cutting off of supplies to the enemy through the embargo is the third.

PRESENCE OF JAPS.

Just as American troops on the western front give new courage and assurance to the French and British, the presence of a Japanese force on the eastern front may be relied upon to provide a stabilizing influence and give flavor for a great offensive. For more than a year the other Allies have never known what to expect from Russia, and enough man power to win the war has been lost through inefficiency on the eastern front.

Men like Kerensky in Russia are presumed to understand what Russia will do. The war will not go on indefinitely with such uncertainty on the eastern battle line. Russia will have a chance this fall and winter to reorganize and become efficient. Unless there is promise of definite results, it may be expected that the little brown men of Japan will be heard in the deciding struggle which the world seems likely to witness next year.

NEW KING OF GREECE TAKES OATH OF OFFICE.

ATHENS (Saturday) Aug. 4.—King Alexander today took the oath of office amid great pomp and ceremony.

Preceded by a troop of soldiers, the King, in a carriage drawn by four horses, proceeded from the Palace to the hall of the Chamber of Deputies, through streets lined with cheering citizens.

Reaching the chamber at 10:30 o'clock, the King was met by a Parliamentary committee, the council of ministers and clergy and escorted to the legislative hall, which was profusely decorated with flowers and national flags. The diplomatic corps was present in full dress and the chamber was filled with Deputies and Ministers and guests.

The King wore the white uniform of a general, with numerous decorations. His entrance was the signal for hearty cheers, which he acknowledged with graceful bows. As he remained standing to take the oath, Premier Venizelos was at his right and the president of the chamber at his left. The oath was taken upon a Bible, handed him by the officiating bishop of the Greek church. As this portion of the ceremony was concluded the hall rang with cries of "Long Live Alexander," "Long live the Constitution," and "Long live Venizelos."

King Alexander then read the speech from the throne on the future attitude of Greece towards the belligerent powers. He was again cheered at the conclusion of his speech and as he left the chamber.

FILMS TO RECORD FIGHTING YANKS

Photos to Form Historical Chronicle of Our Participation in War.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 5.—The signal corps of the United States Army has perfected plans for the establishment in France of a huge plant for developing and printing motion and still pictures. From the plant, which is expected eventually to become one of the largest of its kind in the world, will be issued the photos which are to form a historical record of America's participation in the war.

Within a week it will begin giving out photos for use in American newspapers. The photos will be censored in France.

cut down the torridity. Tonight the temperature is 75 and still falling. Cincinnati showed four degrees higher than Chicago. Cleveland was up to 92, the same figure as Detroit, while lower Indiana ran up to 96, ten degrees hotter than New Orleans, or the same temperature as that shown in Oklahoma.

In Chicago the official count at the municipal beaches showed more than 100,000 bathers for the day, with no serious accidents. Only two drownings were recorded in Chicago. Joseph Burdelak, who could not swim, assayed to navigate a flimsy canoe on Lake Calumet, but it capsized, and he drowned immediately. Stevens Dravena, a companion, swam a half mile to safety. Joseph Tooher, 14 years old, slipped and fell into the lake at the foot of Erie street and was drowned. He had been peddling fruit and candy along the shore.

Substantial rains fell in several of the East Cenaral and West Central States and parts of the South. Westrn Canada and the Northwestern States do not show any excess of temperature, which diminishes the fear that another hot wave is due for the present.

BERLIN OBSERVES WAR'S ANNIVERSARY

"WE ALL KNOW WHAT WE WANT," SAYS CHANCELLOR.

President of the Reichstag Says Germany's Enemies are Responsible for Rejecting Her Peace Offerings (Strange)—Now Fight will go on.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 5. — Emperor William and Empress Augusta Victoria arrived in the capital this morning, according to a dispatch received here from Berlin. The Emperor received reports from the Chancellor and the chief of the General Staff.

An informal reception was held in the Reichstag building Saturday, the anniversary of the sitting of August 4, 1914, when Emperor William opened the Imperial Parliament and informed the members of the declaration of war by Great Britain and France on Germany.

The President of the Reichstag, Dr. Johannes Kaempff, reviewed Germany's war efforts and declared that the country's enemies were responsible for rejecting Germany's peace offering. He said Germany would now fight until she obtained a peace guaranteeing the security of the empire.

The Imperial Chancellor, Dr. Michaelis, then arose and said:

"We all know what we want. We will hand our patrimony intact to the future generations. We will guarantee our children and grandchildren against the misfortune of a war like this. We will preserve our country by a strong and wise peace, in order that the German race may retain sure ground for its healthy and vigorous development. Let us swear fidelity to the Emperor. Long live the Fatherland, the Emperor and the empire."

The entire assembly arose and cheered enthusiastically, while the band played the national anthem.

At the close of the proceedings, a telegram was dispatched to Emperor William, expressing hope for an honorable peace.

LI YUAN HUNG IS BACK IN PEKING.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PEKING, Wednesday, Aug. 1 (delayed.)—Li Yuan Hung, the former President, who has been in the French hospital since the time of the recent crisis, left the hospital today and returned to his private residence in the Chinese city. Acting President Feng Kwo Chang, who arrived in Peking today, called upon Li Yuan Hung after the latter reached his home and urged him to reassume the Presidency.

Li Yuan Hung declined, however, to comply with the request of the acting President, expressing the desire to retire permanently from public life. His hope was, he said, that Feng Kwo Chang would have a successful administration.

A Peking dispatch Saturday night, in reporting the arrival of Feng Kwo Chang in the capital, indicated the conference he was expected to have with Li Yuan Hung was regarded as a formality, as there was no expectation that Gen. Li would resume the Presidency, to which office the immediate inauguration of Feng Kwo Chang was looked for.

HIST! BOOZE! COMING BY AUTO

Especially-fitted Cars Now Carry in Wet Goods.

Sleuths Kept Busy Chasing Elusive Bootleggers.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Aug. 4.—Operation of the prohibition law still is attended with the interest that attaches to the hunt for a needle in a hay stack. Most of the booze is coming in by automobile, some of the cars being especially fitted for conveyance of the liquor.

Near Duncan watching officers were tricked by a wild-eyed man who led them away from the road with a story that a woman had been murdered nearby. When they returned, after a futile expedition, they learned that a car had passed, presumably driven by bootleggers.

Near Apache officers lay in wait by the roadside when prairie grass was set on fire by lightning that struck nearby. But their vigilance through the whole night was rewarded by the capture of wagons with $300 pints of beer and $24 pints of whisky. The drivers fled in the darkness and the deputy sheriffs broke the bottles on the road, leaving a pile of broken glass, believed a bar of sufficient size to prevent the passage of more bootlegging machines.

In the same locality Harry Beaver, a young negro, was arrested with five barrels of beer and two cases of whisky. His case was transferred to the Federal Court under the new law that prohibits the bringing of liquor from a wet State into a dry one.

There was some humor in the action of three bootleggers, who rented a garage from the wife of the Tucson fire chief, in which to store a machine loaded with whisky. When the chief came home most of the whisky was on the floor of the garage, but the three men disappeared with the machine after a pistol duel with their enraged landlord. Liquor has been dropped outside railroad stations, one case by a freight brakeman in the presence of an automobile driver, George Landers, who forthwith picked up the two suit cases in which the stuff had been carried and thereby headed directly for jail. Landers hid the liquor at the home of his brother. The brothers' wife forthwith took the stuff out to the roadside and dropped it, to be discovered by a passing deputy Sheriff. So Landers is in jail and the police are looking for the brakeman. At Wilmot station, twenty cases were unloaded from a Southern Pacific freight car by train hands, only to be taken by deputy sheriffs, who thereafter lay in the brush for a night, only to fail in capturing the unnamed consignees.

The latest local capture was of a large Jordan car, abandoned on a Rincon Mountain road at night, after hitting a prostrate tree. The drivers of the time were being pursued by officers, who knew all about the tree and who bided their time. From the wreckage were dug out twenty cases of whisky.

The Sheriff of Pima county alone holds 230 cases of whisky, all captured since June 11. Latterly the stuff has been coming with the bottles wrapped in sacks, instead of boxed. More care is being taken by the runners, who often provide a vanguard in a small car, to investigate all points where officers might be in ambush. Signal codes also have been provided for the use of spies, who patrol the roads and who report on the presence of officers.

Use has been found for the hundreds of barrels in which bottled beer has come to Rodeo, just east of the Arizona State line. A Douglas shipping man has bought all the barrels, finding them ideal containers for canteloupes.

PIONEER MURDERED.

The death of George Stone, whose body was found on a cot in his little ranch home near Vail, has been found due to a murderous attack from behind, his skull crushed by a blow from some blunt instrument. County Physcian Gothelf has found that the man had been choked, as well. He was a pioneer resident of Tucson, a saddlemaker and well esteemed. C. A. Parker of Santa Ana, Cal., is a relative.

That there will be little change in the passenger schedules of the main line roads of Southern Arizona is the news brought back from the Del Monte conference by District Agent Hallmark of the Southern Pacific system. There had been expectation of a rerouting of the Rock Island Limited eastward from Tucson. No trains will be taken off, as traffic has continued heavy.

M. H. Jacobs, a Tucson mining man, has received word of the death in a Manila hospital, of his son, Arthur Martin Jacobs, aged 18, who had been assigned, with the grade of fireman, to the submarine A-47 in Manila Bay. July 24 occurred an explosion of gas, generated in storage batteries used by the craft for underwater electrical propulsion. Five men were killed instantly and three others, including Jacobs, seriously burned. Interment will be in San Francisco. Young Jacobs was educated in Upland, Cal., where his mother still lives.

Only $1000 remains to be raised to pay for the silver service for the dreadnaught Arizona. Following a contribution of former Senator W. A. Clark of $5000, have come donations of $250 from the Calumet and Arizona Mining Company, $500 from Walter Douglas and an added contribution of $200 from the Inspiration Copper Company.

Marcus Ming, a former Arizona University student, son of Dan Ming, one of Arizona's most famous pioneers, has been commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Eighth United States Field Artillery.

NOGALES NOTES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) Aug. 4.—One of the plans of Gov. Calles of Sonora is the revival of Sonoyta, once one of the most important towns of Northwestern Sonora. From Caborca 125 families have been sent to Sonoyta, there to till 1500 acres that may be irrigated from the flow of the river, while 250 soldiers have there been placed in garrison. School and government buildings are being constructed of brick and stone, being made for pumping engines that will add several thousand to the area cultivated.

The Legislature of the State of Sonora, now in session at Mexico City, is said to be divided sharply on the subject of the Calles proposal of bone-dry prohibition. The preparation is a new State constitution and the main question is the attitude on liquor. There is a strong sentiment toward allowance of the sale of light wines and beers. Even Calles has stopped the sale of cognac through which four Mexico City newspapers have protested, and have closed their doors. The two La Montana at Cananea, La Prensa at Nogales, La Palabra at Guaymas and Orientacion at Hermosillo has announced that his equipment needs no organs.

A large number of Mexican borers are being brought into the local port, to work in the oil fields of the Salt River Valley, where they are to be paid $2.25 a day and housing. Married men are preferred. The Mexicans already imported are said to be doing very satisfactory work.

An I.W.W. agitation, lately started at Ruby camp, promptly was suppressed by deputies sent out by Sheriff Earhart. The disturbers were "deported" with scant ceremony.

MADE A FORTUNE FROM FORTY DOLLARS

STOCKTON, Aug. 5. — The inheritance tax report was filed yesterday in the estate of the late Brichette, it was shown that a boy who came to California with a capital of $40, had in forty years accumulated an estate of $215,000.

When Brichette came to California from Italy he opened a small store at Banta in the southwestern part of the county. The business prospered, and, as his finances increased, Brichette invested in lands, thus accumulating a large holding of valuable West Side grain land. The report of Inheritance Tax Appraiser W. W. [BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—Officials of the Southern Pacific company and heads of the four railroad brotherhoods conferred today, prepared for presentation to the federal mediators the differences which a strike of 8500 men was called for last night and was deferred, pending action of the arbitrators.

The Federal mediators, Commissioner L. Chambers, chairman of the federal commission; Martin A. Knight and G. W. W. Hanger, arrived from Washington early this morning. Until their arrival, said W. S. Kline, vice-president and general manager of the road, he and other railroad officials will confer daily with the brotherhood heads in an effort to iron out some of the lesser differences.

The strike was called over various decisions of the company on grievances of employees. These were not satisfactory to the brotherhoods. The strike, if arbitration failed, would affect members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railroad Conductors, on the Pacific division of the road, from El Paso, Tex., to Portland, Ore., and on the Central Pacific line from Ogden to San Francisco to Ogden, Utah.

MRS. LLOYD GEORGE ON HER PROBLEMS

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, July 15.—Little domestic problems which worry the wife of the Premier of England were disclosed by Mrs. Lloyd George in an address she delivered recently before the National Economy Exhibition. She said:

"When we went to No. 11 Downing street, nine years ago, we found a big scullery there without a window, not a gleam of light nor ventilation of any sort or kind. It took me some little time before I could persuade the Board of Works to build me a nice little window. I did not rest till I got it.

"Now there is a nice, modern complete scullery with a glass window which opens and a garden.

"Perhaps you would not believe me if I told you that when Mr. Asquith (formerly Premier) lived at No. 10 Downing street, nine years ago, there was not a bathroom in the place. But I am glad to say it has improved a little since I have been there."

"Work and Live Long."

[Paul Waitt in the Boston Post:] Ben Jeffrey, who lives near Littleton, has proved himself the 96-year-old champion human dynamo of the United States.

He proved, with but four years to go before he reaches the century mark, that he has planted a full acre of potatoes unassisted.

That he mowed with a scythe a quarter of an acre of hay about his farm buildings.

That, needing wood last winter, he went into the woods at the rear of his farm alone and felled five cords of heavy timber, which he sawed and piled up in the woodshed adjoining the house.

That for the last five years he has lived alone in his six-room house with a brown dog by the name of Prince as his sole companion, cooking his own meals, washing his own clothes and has found happiness—much of it.

"There is one inevitable rule in life," Mr. Jeffrey says. "A man must live by the sweat of his brow. I mean that a man must work constantly from early life until the last day is done if he is to find happiness. The man that dodges work is not happy, and he never can be happy until he answers that law.

"I have lived up to that rule, and I am the living example of the truth that I have just uttered."

LEADERS FATTEN MARGIN OF POINTS.

WHITE SOX AND GIANTS MAKE GOOD USE OF TIME.

McGraw's Men Increase Their Lead by Thirty Units While Opponents are Cutting Each Other's Throats—Red Sox Still Hot on Trail of Comiskey's Cohorts.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Although playing away from home, New York in the National and Chicago in the American leagues, increased their leads last week. The Giants gained more than thirty points, while Philadelphia, Cincinnati and St. Louis were fighting among themselves. In the American, Boston continues at Chicago's heels.

The American League leaders were disturbed somewhat early in the week, when they lost two games in succession to Boston and went into second place, while Barry's men occupied first place for a day. The White Sox wound up the series in Boston by taking two games, giving them an even break on the series. Against Philadelphia the last of the week Chicago had little trouble taking three games. Meanwhile Boston was breaking even in two games with Cleveland.

Detroit and Cleveland exchanged places twice during the week, which began with Detro

An extra charge of 25 per cent, is made for the use of capital letters.

Minimum space for classified advertisements ordered for more than one insertion, 14 words.

White spaces and dashes are charged for on the basis of words to a line.

Ads not solid are counted strictly by the word. For paragraphed or lined-up matter set in solid, estimate five (5) average words to the line; not set in caps, estimate five (5) words to the first line and eight (8) average words to the line following. In this kind of advertising the actual number of words set solid is counted, and eight (8) words added for each omitted line.

On and after May 1, 1917, Classified Advertising CHARGED TO ACCOUNTS will be computed on the basis of 8 cents a line daily and 12 cents a line Sunday. Classified rates subject to the prepaid rates of 1 cent per word daily and 1½ cents a word Sunday, and 20 cents a line Sunday under classifications subject to the prepaid rates of 2 cents a word daily and 3 cents a word Sunday, minimum space 3 lines.

The Times reserves the right to classify all advertisements under proper heads.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

Errors not the fault of the advertiser, which greatly lessen the value of an advertisement, will be rectified only by republication without charge, if reported at the business office within five days after insertion. No allowance will be made for errors which do not materially affect the sense or purpose of the advertisement. No adjustment will be made for advertising items omitted, or for any error, which may occur in other items in the same advertisement.

Advertisers should retain receipts given by THE TIMES for their classified orders, as no mistake can be rectified without them.

The Times will not accept phone or verbal orders to discontinue or change "till forbid" advertisements.

Advertisements ordered for insertion in Sunday's Times will be discontinued or changed after 2 o'clock p.m. Saturday.

Telephone orders to discontinue advertising in The Times are numbered in the order of their receipt, and in each instance the number of the order is given to the advertiser, who should use it thereafter in all communications relative to advertising, for which no rebates will be allowed unless "Stop" order number is presented to The Times by the advertiser.

The handy circulation of The Times exceeds 50,000 copies, and more "liners" are regularly printed in its columns than in the five other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times," Main 8200; Home 10691, any time of day or night, and secure prompt and careful attention.

The Times does not knowingly accept objectionable advertisements of any kind or character, medical, whisky, turf, lottery, "get-rich-quick," etc., and it uses every reasonable precaution to keep its advertising columns clean and attractive.

This is a guaranty of protection to its readers, as well as to its legitimate advertising patrons.

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

Takes New Quarters.

The Queen's Daughters' boarding home and club, which make a specialty of providing a comfortable and pleasant home for business women and girls coming to the city, has removed from No. 1026 Sunset boulevard to No. 1620 South Grand avenue.

To Ulstermen.

S. H. Coombs will speak on "Why Germany Cannot Win the War," and Frank Galtis, Jr., will deliver an address, "Woodrow Wilson, the Man of the Hour," at a meeting of the Ulster Society Thursday evening at No. 743 South Figueroa street.

Take Japanese Members.

A twilight communion service was held in the First Congregational Church at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Dr. Van Horn was assisted in administering the sacrament by Dr. Morris H. Turk, former co-pastor here, with Dr. William Horace Day, and now pastor of the Westminster Congregational Church of Kansas City. Seven new members were received and five recognized as members of the Japanese Branch Church.

KILLED BY WOMAN.

Man Who Annoyed a Widow in San Bernardino Rooming-house is Shot when He Fails to Comply with Order to Leave the Place.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 5. — Alexander Bila, a Frenchman, 24 years old, was shot and killed this afternoon by Mrs. Lillian Emerson at the Tourist rooming-house.

Bila was intoxicated, and went to the rooming-house, where he accosted Mrs. Emerson, who resides there. She says he annoyed her with his remarks, and she ordered him out of the place, and that he then began to abuse her. She secured a revolver, and again ordered him away, and in the argument that followed she shot him.

Mrs. Emerson is the widow of Benjamin Emerson, who was shot and killed here about three years ago by Howard A. Davis, then connected with a local newspaper. The trouble was the result of a political controversy.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE NORTHERN GROVES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 5. — According to a letter received by A. A. Jenkins, an orchard owner, from an orange grower of Tehama county, the orange groves of the northern portion of this State suffered little less than a disaster in the very hot weather of early June. The statement is made in the message that groves which have a 10 per cent. crop are rare and that the rule is for even a less production.

During a period of ten days, it is stated, oranges by the thousands of the size of walnuts and larger fell from the trees. In some groves the crop is so small and so scattered it will scarcely pay for picking.

The northern counties ship less than 1000 cars of navels annually and in relation to the State as a whole the failure will, therefore, have comparatively little effect.

AVIATOR MANEUVERS AT SEAL BEACH.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SEAL BEACH, Aug. 5.—By far the largest Sunday crowd of the season, and one of the biggest in the history of this young city, today witnessed the sham air and land battle between a land battery on the end of the pier and Aviator Prest with his machine gun and hand bombs, which he discharged from the clouds. As Prest approached Seal Beach from the south from over the ocean and began dropping bombs that could be heard for miles over the city, a gatling gun on the end of the pier, as an imaginary defense measure, endeavored to drive him back. Tonight Prest entertained several thousand visitors with daring maneuvers with his illuminated airplane.

SUGAR FACTORY OPENS FOR SEASON RUN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CHINO, Aug. 5. — The American Beet Sugar Company's factory opened here yesterday for a 100-day run. There are about 400 men employed, most of which were secured locally and from Pomona and Ontario. Beets have been pouring into the factory for the past few days, and there seems to be nothing to prevent a successful season. The beet growers are well satisfied with the prices received, and the factory is anticipating good prices for the output.

The factory runs day and night for the 100 days without a stop. The men work in two shifts of twelve hours each, seven days a week. The factory consumes about 1000 tons of beets per day, with an output of about 500 sacks of sugar.

Encouraging.

CROP OUTLOOK IS REPORTED GOOD.

SAN LUIS OBISPO OFFICIAL SUBMITS REPORT.

Beet Harvest will be Heaviest in Years, Apricots are Yielding Large Supply, Apple Trees and Peaches are Bearing Well and Only Beans are Poor.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug. 5. — That the local crop outlook is excellent is the gist of a report filed with the Board of Supervisors by S. V. Christiersen, County Horticultural Commissioner. Apricot cutting and drying is in full blast now and there is work for everybody. There is a bumper crop of cots and prices are up, 13 cents for first grade. The hot spell a couple of weeks back retarded the growth of the fruit in a good many instances, but all orchardists report a heavy yield.

The beet harvest will be the heaviest in years, and the largest acreage, probably, ever planted in this valley. Farmers are expecting forty tons to the acre and everybody figures at least thirty tons. Beets will bring $6, and, as it is estimated that it requires seventeen tons to pay for growing an acre of beets, the growers will do well.

What acreage of beans there is in the valley will yield from fifteen to twenty sacks an acre. The hot wave did considerable damage to beans especially where they were quite young, burning the plants to the ground. The greatest damage in this particular was on the hill lands. Hill farmers are figuring on four to seven sacks to the acre and the estimate is that small and large whites should fetch 10 cents and pinks 8 or 9 cents.

Apples and peaches are bearing well, as are walnuts. A good many nuts were injured by being sunburned, but on the whole the crop is good so far.

SANTA MONICA MAN DIES SUDDENLY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Aug. 5.—Ralph Wigner of No. 1519 Third street, Santa Monica, was overcome early this morning while walking along the ocean front. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital and then to St. Catherine's Hospital. He died a few minutes after arriving at the hospital. According to Dr. W. M. Kendall, who attended him, the man was very weak and heart trouble was evident. A post mortem will probably be held.

WOMAN INJURED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Aug. 5.—Mrs. J. C. Bourland of No. 1448 Washington boulevard, Los Angeles, was thrown through the windshield of a machine driven by her husband along the Venice boulevard today. The Bourland car crashed into an auto alongside the road. Mrs. Bourland was badly cut about the face and hands.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, Aug. 5. — Frank Parker brought in from his Orangethorpe ranch yesterday a stock beet which weighs 250 pounds. He believes this is the largest beet ever grown in the United States. The beet is nearly four feet in circumference. Mr. Parker finds by experimenting that he can grow nearly everything here that is produced in the United States. He holds that a man who owns from twenty acres up need not go away from home to buy any fruits, vegetables or other products.

Too Patriotic.

[Kansas City Times:] Eagerness to grow a war crop brought litigation to William R. Keith, who lives near Danville, though he says he expects to appeal from the verdict of a jury in a justice's court that found him guilty of plowing corn on Sunday and fined him $1 and costs. The jury of six men stood four for conviction and two for acquittal, and appeared hung until Squire Val Burgess told them they could bring in a majority verdict.

Dog Dies with Mistress.

[New York Times:] Mrs. Mary Johnson, 79 years old, was burned to death in the kitchen of her home, Lynbrook, L. I., recently, and her pet dog after giving the alarm ran back and perished with his mistress.

Mrs. Johnson had risen to get breakfast for her brother and her dress caught fire from the oil stove she was using. The dog ran into the yard barking and howling, and caused neighbors to run into the house. After going back into the burning house the dog apparently tried to pull the burning clothing from his mistress. He was dead beside her body when the kitchen was entered.

LUTHERANS HOLD A REFORMATION RALLY

ONE OF A SERIES OF NOTABLE UNION MEETINGS.

Representatives of Numerous Churches of the City and Vicinity Gather in St. Paul's Edifice and Hear Address by Rev. Herbert J. Weaver of Riverside.

The major portion of the Lutheran churches of Los Angeles and immediate vicinity were represented in the assemblage at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Euclid avenue and Eagle street, yesterday afternoon, to participate in one of a series of rallies being held in connection with the observance of the 400th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation. Numerous ministers had part in the programme, and the principal speaker was Rev. Herbert J. Weaver, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church of Riverside. He said, in part:

"History sometimes centers in a man, and sometimes in a movement. But the only history of permanent worth and influence is that which centers in men and movements in which in their turn are centered in an omnipotent and eternal God.

"Such men and such movements were manifest 400 years ago in Martin Luther and his co-reformers, and in the great Reformation which resulted. We are accustomed to think only on the religious aspect of the German Reformation, but the influence of the political and social ideals that were then and there expressed is almost equally far-reaching and beneficial to humanity."

The medieval situation, in which there was no distinction between secular and sacred, was presented by the speaker, and he then traced the political and religious movements that finally secured the freedom of governments from the control of the Roman Catholic Church, and noted the swinging of the pendulum in the opposite extreme, wherein the states sought to rule the church.

"The most complete realization of the separation of church and state," said the speaker, "is reserved for the United States of America, where the principles and ideals of the great Reformation have been wrought out.

"The first and greatest message of the Reformation to America is 'Stand fast in the liberty wherein Christ hath made you free.' Religious freedom has been bought at too costly a sacrifice ever to surrender. What God hath separated, through the sacrifice of His servants in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, let no man put together in the twentieth. The church is free; let the state also be free."

MEXICAN WORKERS COME TO SENSES.

BRINGING IN OF OUTSIDERS STOPS AGITATION.

When Laborers of Orange County Discovers that Employers are Able to Get All the Men They Want from Elsewhere There is a Rush to Get Jobs.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Aug. 5.—News that no less than 500 Mexicans are expecting to come to the beet fields of Southern California from El Paso brought recalcitrant Mexicans to their senses with a jolt Friday night, and today ranchers and sugar factories have more labor offered them than they can use.

Stirred up by agitators, local Mexicans refused to go to work at the opening of the season. There was talk of demanding outrageous prices just as soon as the season advanced far enough so that the factories would be at the mercy of the Mexicans.

The sugar factories did not propose to be caught in that fix, and their first move was to bring several dozen negroes from Los Angeles to the beet fields at Talbert. These negroes have been doing good work, and the ranchers are satisfied with them.

Friday, fifty-eight Mexicans arrived at Pomona from El Paso. Half of them went to work on fields for the factory at Chino and the other twenty-nine men were taken in automobiles to fields at Norwalk under the Anaheim Sugar Company. These Mexicans said that there are no less than 500 Mexicans at El Paso who are expecting to arrive in Southern California beet fields within the next two or three weeks. The news has reached there that Southern California Mexicans are demanding such high prices that the sugar factories cannot meet their demands, and since El Paso has had a dry season the El Paso Mexican is anxious to get to work.

News of the arrival of the fifty-eight Mexicans at Pomona seemed to have a quick effect. Friday afternoon ranchers near here were hunting for local Mexicans who would go to work. The Mexican contractors shrugged their shoulders and declined. Yesterday every contractor was out with his men, anxious to go to work.

Sugar beet men say the situation is 100 per cent. better than it was a week or ten days ago.

GUARD IS FEDERALIZED; LAST TROOPS MOBILIZE.

Local Soldiers All upon War Footing. Draft Machinery Grinds On.

MILITARY men here yesterday had no inkling of the steps that will be taken by the government to name a successor to Brig.-Gen. Robert Wankowski, commander of the First California Brigade, who was relieved to private life Saturday because of failure to pass the professional military examinations. It is not known whether the brigade will be retained as a tactical whole or such disposition will be made of California troops, in the organization of the new army, that former National Guard units will be distributed among organizations now fully officered, or new organizations to be formed. However, it is believed the California infantry brigade will probably be commanded by a regular army brigadier or colonel detailed for the purpose.

The National Guard of California ceased to exist yesterday. All troops of the State military establishment were drafted into the federal service by order of President Wilson, and thirteen organizations in this city were mobilized in a new character as part of the United States Army. Simultaneously, the draft exemption board in city district No. 18 was examining scores of men and making a soldier of almost every fourth who appeared before it.

Aside from those Los Angeles organizations already mobilized, the following were yesterday taken into federal service and mobilized at the armory in Exposition Park, or at the Normal Hill Center: Eight companies of Coast Artillery; Troop A, the Squadron of Cavalry; First Field Hospital; Battery F, First Battalion of Field Artillery; Ambulance Company No. 2, and the headquarters company of the First California Brigade.

It is believed the Coast Artillery companies, perhaps without exception, will proceed at once to Fort MacArthur, where tentage has been provided for them. Some other organizations, including the sanitation troops, will remain at the armory several days and may proceed to Camp Santa Anita for a short time before ultimately being concentrated at the Linda Vista cantonment. The movements will be determined by orders from the headquarters of the Western Department, at San Francisco.

ARMORY IS BUSY.

At the Armory yesterday was a busy scene, reminiscent of the early days of the Spanish War. The troops, some fully equipped and some still without uniforms and accoutrements, or even mess kits, were housed and fed there, and the commanding officers established a "closed camp"—no departures without leave, and then for a brief time only.

Wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts laid siege to the Armory throughout he day, feeling the trials of impending good-bys, though most of the men will undoubtedly remain in the city for some days at least. And there were squads and platoons of pretty girls, and not an official chaperon in sight.

The men who yesterday left the National Guard establishment and entered the Federal service may not return to the State jurisdiction, no matter what the duration of the war. It is understood they are in service for the period of the war, and will then be discharged. So the National Guard as it was constituted is probably a thing of the past.

TRYING FOR BOARDS.

Today and tomorrow there will be great activity at the eighteen exemption district headquarters in the city. The work of qualifying drafted men for service is decidedly slow and tedious, and the attitude of some of the men who are called for examination seems to be sorely trying the patience of some of the judges.

The exemption board in District No. 9 at No. 4 Berkeley Square, makes the statement that only about one of every eight men examined is likely to become a soldier. Saturday 192 men were examined and there were but twenty-six who did not claim exemption.

Practically all the claims for exemption are made upon the ground

AUTO COLLISION.

Several Hurt When Car is Turned Over.

The seven-passenger automobile of Maurice A. Rider, of No. 220 West Forty-eighth street, which he was driving last night, was struck by an automobile, driven by Dr. J. T. M. Allen, of No. 2105 Fifth avenue, at Adams street and Vermont avenue, and the car was completely turned over. With Mr. Rider was his wife and little daughter, Harry Weiner of No. 228 West Forty-eighth street, and three other passengers.

Mrs. Rider received lacerations of the scalp and body bruises, and may be injured internally. The child was badly bruised and Mr. Rider sustained severe cuts.

IDLE CARS COST ROAD MILLIONS.

Southern Pacific Official Proposes Movement to Regulate Traffic.

An analysis of car supply and demand on the Southern Pacific, covering the five years past, has just been completed by V. S. Andrus, transportation inspector for the road. It shows that an average of 1700 idle cars has been on hand daily, representing an investment of nearly $2,000,000 on which no return has been received.

According to Mr. Andrus, this shows the necessity for correcting another of the American habits which has, like Topsy, "just growed up." This is the desire of the shipping public to forward the bulk of their year's product during a short period of two or three months, instead of spreading them over the full year.

Mr. Andrus suggests as a corrective that warehouses be located in large centers through the country, and that the government supervise the distribution of production in such a way as to assure a steady traffic movement throughout the year.

TWO CLAIM BOY AS OWN CHILD.

Advertisement Reveals Queer Tale of Contention.

Woman Would Adopt Him with "Father's" Consent.

Kidnaping Attempt Recalled by Court Petition.

Through a simple advertisement advising E. Gilham of Chicago to go to the postoffice for a letter concerning the welfare of his son, the singular story of 5-year-old Eddy Gilham of No. 514 Gladys avenue was yesterday brought to light. It is a story fraught with unusual incidents, in which two men claim to be the father of the boy, and in which the love and devotion of an elderly woman stands out distinctly.

This woman is Mrs. Lila Currier, who has loved and cared for little Eddy since he was 3 months old, and on his mother's death bed, nearly three years ago, promised to protect him and shield him from all harm. Three weeks ago, Mrs. Currier stated yesterday, a man and woman attempted to kidnap the child and take him from her. The woman, she says, held her while the man attempted to leave with the boy, but Eddy kicked and bit and screamed until the man was forced to let him go.

On the day following the attempted kidnaping, Mrs. Currier, through Attorney Clyde E. Cate, filed papers asking for the guardianship of the boy. In this she says that a man named Edward Enos claims to be the boy's father. Mr. Enos could not be located yesterday to give his side of the case.

"In the letter I sent the father," said Mrs. Currier, "I told him what had happened and he is coming home to see that his child and I are protected. He would never let anyone have the boy but me."

Mr. Gilham is expected today. He will join Mrs. Currier. It is expected, in fighting to protect her guardianship of his little son.

Mrs. Currier intends to send Eddy through the public schools and then expects to have him go through college and learn whatever he wants to do. Rather than give him up she says she would give up everything she has and then go to work to earn his living.

LIONS MANGLE MAN WHO RAISED THEM.

WHILE HIS DOG FAITHFULLY TRIES TO AID HIM.

Carpenter at Wild Animal Arena Reaches Through Bars of Cage to Pet Big Cat and is Seized, Clawed and Chewed—Has Good Chance for Recovery.

Three years of care and training were repudiated yesterday afternoon by two lions, while a dog that had been raised with the big cats held true to the man who had cared for the three animals. The lions turned upon the man, and with roars and snarls, mutilated their human friend. The dog, a big St. Bernard, in a cage 100 feet distant raged in a vain effort to aid the man he loved.

Frank Roemer, of No. 214 West Twenty-first street, chief carpenter of the Bostock Arena and Jungle, is the man injured. The attack occurred at the arena, at Washington and Main streets.

Three years ago Mr. Roemer took the lions, then small cubs, and the St. Bernard puppy. He placed them all in one cage and fed them. As the lions matured, they became too big and dangerous to stay with the dog. So Mr. Roemer separated the trio and kept the big cats in a cage, while the dog was allowed the freedom of the inclosure.

It has been customary with Mr. Roemer, on Sundays and holidays, to visit the animals in the arena. Yesterday afternoon he made his rounds.

He put his right hand between the bars to scratch the ears of "Gentle," one of the lions. Instead of submitting to the scratching the feline caught the man's hand between its teeth and snarled.

Across the arena, in a cage, the big St. Bernard barked loudly. Witnesses say he nearly jumped over the steel inclosure, which is ten feet high, to go to the aid of his friend.

Mr. Roemer endeavored to jerk his finger from the cat's mouth, and in so doing lost his footing and fell. Immediately the other lion, "Obstinate," leaped towards the man. As Mr. Roemer fell his left elbow slipped under the bars into the cage, and the second cat seized the arm and rended with tooth and claw. The first lion released its hold on its victim's right hand and joined the other big cat in mutilating the arm.

Mr. Roemer was rescued by James Ellsworth, the night watchman, who shot "Obstinate" in the nose with a revolver.

Mr. Roemer was treated at the Receiving Hospital and then removed to the Angelus Hospital. Unless blood poison sets in he will recover.

All-California Job.

NEARLY TWO MILLIONS IN FREIGHT CARS BUILDING.

H. W. WATKINS, master car builder of the Southern Pacific, announced the completion, yesterday, of twenty-five caboose cars valued at approximately $2100 each, or a total of $52,500, as the first unit of the $1,775,000 freight equipment construction authorized for the Los Angeles shops.

Construction is to be an all-California job. California companies will furnish the wheels, and the lumber will come from California forests.

Mr. Watkins stated yesterday that the remainder of the order will be completed as rapidly as possible, dependent upon labor conditions and the receipt of the necessary materials.

The order yet to be filled includes 525 box cars, worth about $1600 each, or a total of more than $900,000; 450 stock cars, costing approximately $1400 each, or a total of more than $600,000, and 125 flat cars at approximately $1200 each, or a total of $150,000. This makes a total construction item of 1175 cars of a total value of approximately $1,772,500 to be turned out of the Los Angeles Southern Pacific shops under the present order.

Like Father, Like Son.

FOLLOWS IN FOOTSTEPS OF FAMED SOLDIER SIRE.

GUY BOSCHKE, son of the late Gen. Albert Boschke, Civil War veteran and the man who created the first deep water in what is now Los Angeles Harbor, was yesterday commissioned a captain in the Engineering Corps, U.S.A., and assigned to duties in the office of the chief engineer at Washington.

Engineering feats seem to run in the Boschke family. Capt. Boschke is a brother of George W. Boschke, who is now located at San Diego as chief engineer for Twohy Bros., who are building the railroad from San Diego into the Imperial Valley. Before going to San Diego, George Boschke was chief engineer of construction on the Harriman system in the Northwest, where he engineered millions of dollars' worth of railroad extensions. In 1899, while he was constructing $2,000,000 worth of wharves at Galveston, a tidal wave destroyed half the city and the municipal authorities engaged Mr. Boschke to construct the gigantic concrete breakwater, which has since saved the city from disaster at least once.

What Guy Boschke, like his brother, knows about engineering he learned without going to technical school, absorbing much practical information from his father, who worked for the War Department for more than forty years. When others said it couldn't be done, the father created fourteen feet of water at low tide in the bayou that existed at San Pedro about the year 1873 and started the harbor there.

Capt. Boschke is 38 years of age. His mother, Mrs. M. E. Boschke, resides on Terminal Island. Besides the brother George in San Diego, he has a brother, Albert, who resides at No. 727 North Bunker Hill avenue.

WORK RUSHED ON GREAT CHATSWORTH RESERVOIR.

FROM many sources the equipment required for the construction of the great Chatsworth reservoir, at the upper end of the San Fernando Valley, is being assembled. Preliminary work on the site is in progress and gradually the force will be increased, until a large number of men and teams is employed. It is expected the great basin will be ready to conserve surplus aqueduct waters early next spring.

When filled to capacity, this reservoir will provide storage for 27,500 acre-feet, or 8,958,000,000 gallons. Its width will be nearly a mile and it will be almost three miles in length. There will be a series of dams or dykes connecting the hills that will form the bulwarks for this reservoir, and more than 1,000,000 cubic yards of earth will have to be moved in building these dams.

The largest dam will have a length of three-fifths of a mile. Its base will be 325 feet wide and it will

Car Shortage Means We Must Give Railroads More.

Jobbers' Manager Points Out Queer Quirk in Decision.

Because of the car shortage, which threatens to become more serious as the war grows older, jobbers and manufacturers at all points on the Pacific Coast face the possibility of a freight rate advance, according to a statement made yesterday by F. P. Gregson, traffic manager and secretary of the Associated Jobbers. As a concomitant, a sharp advance in all manufactured products will result and living costs will resume their ballooning tendencies.

The increase in freight rates will result, according to Mr. Gregson, from the application of the recent ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which does away with the zone system of establishing terminal rates.

"This most recent decision of the commission," said Mr. Gregson, "does not uphold altogether the tentative decision of the commission, last March, which created a number of zones and established terminal rates by percentages in zones.

"The commission has eliminated the zone feature and has decided that there is no longer any reason for maintaining lower rates to Pacific Coast terminals than to interior points, and carriers must by October 1, adjust their tariffs for long and short hauls.

"Carriers may use their discretion as to what rates they will publish. The only restriction is that the roads must refrain from discrimination and must not be unreasonable, in their demands. The probability is that all rates will be increased to Pacific Coast points and maintained as a maximum to interior points.

"As to less than carloads tariffs, the carriers may cancel all commodity rates, and class rates would then prevail. This will probably be the condition of affairs until water freight service is resumed, and that seems a long way off, because of the present war outlook.

"One good feature of the commission's ruling is that the rates to points in the interior are permanent, and are no longer dependent upon terminal rates. The ruling practically abolished the back haul rate, which used to give carriers the privilege of hauling an interior town's load to the terminal at terminal rate and then charge for the back haul, even though the car were set out at the interior town enroute to the terminal point."

Enrollment of candidates for admission to the free government navigation school to be conducted at direction of the United States Shipping Board will begin this morning at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the office of the local inspector of steam vessels at the harbor.

Only seamen with two years' experience will be admitted to the school, which is to fit officers to serve on the government's new fleet of cargo carriers on the Atlantic trade. The jobs for which men are sought pay from $200 to $275 a month.

Today an advisory committee of Los Angeles business men will be formed to aid in the management of the school. The make-up of this committee will be announced this afternoon by Winfield M. Thompson, special agent of the Shipping Board recruiting service, who is in the city to organize the school, with Farnham P. # INDIAN WIZARD SECRETS TOLD.

Upon Death of Last of Pomo "Bear Doctors."

University Scientist Writes of Queer Beliefs.

And of Municipal Graft in Aboriginal Days.

The death of the last of the Pomo Indian magicians, known as "bear doctors," has released the seal of silence placed on the lips of the only man to whom he had confided his secret. Now Dr. S. A. Barrett has revealed the strange tale told him eleven years ago by this last of the Pomo wizards. The curious story is told in a paper on "Pomo Bear Doctors" just issued in the University of California publications in American Archaeology and Ethnology.

The "bear doctor," so asserted the last adept of this magic craft, by attiring himself in the skin of a grizzly and going through elaborate mystic rites, could acquire extraordinary rapidity of motion and great endurance, which enabled him to kill and plunder his enemies and to glory in magic powers.

Here is the story told by the last of the Pomo magicians as to how the cult of the "bear doctors" first began:

Long, long ago, when there were no Indians on earth, but the birds and the animals were all human, there was a large village on the western slope of a hill overlooking the northern end of Clear Lake, in California. One day the bird-people who lived in this village snared a large grizzly bear. Each of the birds in turn—bluejay, crow, hawk, woodpecker, robin, and all the rest—tried in vain to carry the dead grizzly back to the village. Finally, it was the smallest of all the birds which succeeded in the task, and as a reward he was presented with the bearskin.

As the winner was gloating one day over the possession of the dead grizzly's skin, he grew envious of the huge bear's powers of endurance, his ferocity and his cunning. With his brother's aid he dug a secret cavern at the foot of a precipice, and there after four months of work, they succeeded in making from the grizzly's pelt a ceremonial outfit rich in magic power. He who put on the bearskin with due magic rites could climb the loftiest mountains, through the thickest brush and up the steepest slopes with great speed and as much ease as though in a level, open valley, and could cover a hundred miles in half a day. He could tire out and outdistance the real bears, and kill them with ease.

MURDER AND PLUNDER.

These werewolf powers to tempted the two brothers that a few days later they attacked and killed a hunter, and a few days later still another, despoiling each of his treasure of beads and food. Such murder and plunder went on until at last their secret was suspected. The men of the village ambuscaded the two brothers, attacked them from the rear and jerked the bear-head masks from their faces. They had incurred the supernatural penalty which awaited any magician who should attempt to kill more than four victims in a single year, so now their magic power was gone, and they were powerless to defend themselves from capture.

The two brothers confessed their murders, told how they had dug the cavern, how they had made their ceremonial attire, and how they had performed their magic. The two culprits were stripped; the stolen goods seized; the brothers were tied securely, placed in their own house and the house set on fire. Thus died the first of the "bear doctors," but the knowledge of their magic lived on, handed down from generation to generation of secret wizards ever since that long past age.

WOMEN ALSO "DOCTORS."

Sometimes women became "bear doctors," declared Dr. Barrett's informer. Even a woman so old and feeble that she could hardly walk, he testified, might thus acquire great powers of endurance and swiftness.

The old wizard, said the Pomo narrator, was always given a large share—usually half—of all the spoils obtained by the novice he had trained in his art. The "bear doctor" and his assistant must live a life of celibacy, and must refrain from meat or from food containing blood in any form. Before going forth, he must always sing ritualistic songs invoking the aid of the supernatural Brush-man, Rock-man, Shade-man, Spring-man, Pond-man, Mountain-man and Sun-man. Just as Sun-man rose over the horizon, he must pray: "I am going to do as you do; I shall kill people; you must give me good luck!"

The only persons who were immune from the attacks of the "bear doctors," testified the last of these wizards, were the captain of a village and his immediate family—for the village captains knew all the "bear doctors," and received a share of their spoils in consideration of friendly protection—municipal graft is evidently not a modern invention.

The only way to overcome a "bear doctor" was to seize his head or shoulders and jerk off his helmet. This would completely destroy his magic powers. Once Kamachi, a brave and powerful man who lived long ago at the Yorkville Rancheria, mistook two real bears for "bear doctors." He tried to jerk off their heads and found they were real bears. But none the less this hero killed both the mighty beasts.

Such were the tales of the last of the "bear doctors."

FOOTBALL PLAYER TO TRAIN SOLDIERS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Aug. 5.—Art Lutz, formerly Pomona and Oregon Aggie football star, and for two years the coach of Redlands High, will not return to the school this year for he has been made one of the athletic instructors at the big training camp at the Presidio and has already taken up his work there. He will be there most of the winter.

Lutz resigned as coach here in the spring intending to take up agricultural work, but while on his father's ranch he suffered a sun stroke and decided to return to coaching. He had about agreed to return to Redlands when he was offered the place at the Presidio.

Principal Clement, of the High School, says he has four or five good men in view for the position and that a decision will be made as soon as possible.

Emergency.

MAY CLOSE SCHOOLS IN CASE OF CROP CRISIS.

HOW can the high schools of California aid in solving the food problem? To answer this question, E. Morris Cox, acting chairman of the Committee on Students' Working Reserve appointed by the California State Board of Education to act in co-operation with the Committee on Resources and Food Supply of the California State Council of Defense, yesterday sent a letter to every superintendent of schools and high school principal in California.

This letter points out that the State Board of Education has authority to close the schools when it deems it necessary to do so for planting or harvesting crops—while the war continues.

Boards of school trustees and city boards of education have power, also, to declare a holiday in their schools when good reason exists therefor, this being provided in section 10 of the Political Code. The Attorney-General has rendered the opinion that schools can be officially closed so far as counting attendance is concerned, and yet the teachers be asked by the school authorities to go on offering instruction for those who still wish to be taught. This means that in case of agricultural emergency, the schools may close in part and high school boys may help in harvesting the crops without injuring the record of the school as regards average daily attendance.

It seems to be the consensus of judgment of all who are working on this "food problem" that the high schools of the State have an important potential part to play in this matter; that so far as possible each locality, community or county should solve its own labor problem; that the high school or schools therein should adjust school terms to these local needs (without sacrificing the future welfare of students;) that the centers of population must heed the calls from other sections, so far as is possible; that everyone connected with school work must be deeply interested in both the conservation of foods and the conservation of youth.

Schools may help very much during holidays and vacations. They may adjust their vacations to suit local needs. They may be compelled to close by order of the State board if the cause seems sufficiently urgent. Closing a whole school or a series of schools, however, is a matter of serious moment and should be done as a last resort, as such closing will affect many students who are not serviceable in the fields.

"Co-operation upon the part of everyone should be the watchword," urges this statement.

TWO-DAY JUBILEE FOR COAST TOWN.

FATHER NEPTUNE TO MAKE BOW AT REDONDO BEACH.

Motion Picture and Operatic Headliners Included in the Programme to Celebrate City's Industrial Advance—Plans Made to Entertain Big Crowd.

Preparations for the two-day jubilee at Redondo Beach, Saturday and Sunday, the most pretentious ever planned for the coast city, were completed yesterday by the beach town's Chamber of Commerce.

The affair will have a double significance and purpose, as it will both mark the first anniversary of the completion of the beach city's endless concrete pleasure pier, the only thing of its kind on the Coast, and the inauguration of the new $4,000,000 harbor project, for which Redondo Beach and Hermosa Beach have voted to bond themselves for $400,000.

Assuring the success of the celebration, Mary Pickford, who is the idol of perhaps more women and girls than any other person in America, and Julia Heinrich, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Grand Operahouse of New York, daughter of the famous Max Heinrich, will take part in the programme.

Miss Heinrich is spending the summer at La Jolla, and this will be her first appearance in Southern California in ten years. It will be Mary Pickford's second appearance in public hereabouts in several years. Her part will be to strew some thousands of Redondo-grown carnations on the waves as a return compliment to Father Neptune, who is to present a quit-claim deed to the harbor tidelands to the Mayor of Redondo Beach.

It was the symbolism of this feature that appealed to the motion-picture star and led her to break her custom not to appear in crowds. On two or three occasions she has been in actual peril from crushes of humanity and the Redondo Beach authorities have had to assure her of ample protection from a repetition of such unpleasant experiences. Miss Heinrich will sing three songs with band accompaniment, including "Back to Sunny California." Her father, Max Heinrich, was one of the enthusiasts who developed La Jolla and she is a native of San Francisco.

Gov. Stephens had expected to be the speaker on Saturday, but urgent duties have compelled him to remain at the State capital and another speaker of prominence will take his place.

The two-day celebration will include, among its numerous incidents, open-air dancing on the new pier, a display of fireworks, the scattering of thousands of carnations among the crowds, exhibition diving from a height of thirty feet into the ocean, vaudeville, etc.

Saturday the Advertising Club of Los Angeles will hold its second annual outing and dinner at Redondo, and Miss Pickford and Miss Heinrich have accepted invitations to be honor guests of the club at the Casino that evening.

BOYS IN AUTO DRINK GALLONS OF BEER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug. 5.—Two witnesses, Ferdinand Fluegler and William Benjamin Fitzpatrick, were examined at the hearing of David C. Smith, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. The witnesses testified that the contents of a six-gallon keg of beer had been consumed by the Smith party, which consisted of six boys, but denied that any member was intoxicated. Much interest hinges on the case here, owing to the fact that several persons were injured as a result of an accident to the automobile, which Smith was driving. Hearing of the case will be resumed September 5, at which time O. A. Pegg, now in Los Angeles, will be present. Pegg is expected to throw some light on the source where the beer was obtained.

CAMP REVENUE POINTS PLEA.

San Diego Utility Would Sell Stocks and Bonds.

Wants to Install Service on Linda Vista Site.

Has Poles up and is Laying Pipe to Cantonment.

Calling the attention of the State Railroad Commission to the fact, among others, that the army camp on Linda Vista Mesa, twelve miles from San Diego, needs electricity and gas to serve the 30,000 troops to be trained there, the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric Company filed an application Saturday with the body for authority to sell $119,000 first mortgage 5 per cent. gold bonds and $114,300 preferred stock, and also, from time to time in the next year, to issue additional bonds to the amount of $373,000 and additional preferred stock to total $331,300. These sums are to be expended in bettering and enlarging the company's extensive system.

The company has already erected poles and wires and is laying gas pipe to the Linda Vista site. It states to the commission that it expects to derive a large revenue from furnishing gas and electricity to the army camp.

Among other extensive improvements that will need money or upon which money has been spent recently are the gas and electric plants of Oceanside and Escondido lately acquired by the San Diego company, and to which transmission lines have been constructed. A transmission line has also been laid to Fallbrook and to San Juan Capistrano.

The company has also made a contract with the Southern California Edison Company to buy from that concern hydroelectric power and will build a line for this purpose to a junction with the Edison company's wires near San Juan.

AUTHORIZE SALE.

Authority was granted the Hemet-San Jacinto Gas Company Saturday by the State Railroad Commission to sell its properties, subject to a bonded indebtedness of $25,000, to the Southwestern Gas Company, in exchange for $15,470 capital stock of that company. The commission has also signified that it will authorize the Southwestern Gas Company to operate in Hemet and San Jacinto, under franchises applied for but not yet secured.

MEXICANS LIST TO CALL TO FIELDS.

LABOR CAMPAIGNERS REPORT SOME PROGRESS.

Wilmington Rancher and Spanish Orator Join in Drive to Get Aliens to Return to Beet Fields, Where Their Services are Needed to Save Growing Crop.

Progress is reported by Daniel Mulherron, the Wilmington rancher, and Ralph Domingues, the Spanish orator, who are stumping Los Angeles and adjoining counties in an effort to get the Mexicans to return to the beet fields and rescue crops that need immediate attention. Mr. Mulherron represents the ranchers in the campaign, while Mr. Domingues speaks to the Mexicans in their native tongue and explains to them the necessity of returning to the fields.

The first day was spent in the beet fields and small Mexican settlements of Orange county. An entire week will be consumed in the tour, and not only the beet raising localities, but the areas devoted to the cultivation of English walnuts, oranges and beans will be made a portion of the itinerary.

The point is being brought out in the addresses to the laborers that it is not only the beet fields that need attention, but that the walnut, orange and bean growers are in need of laborers, thus offering a cycle of employment that will continue the whole year round.

It is reported that in many section of the county the families of some of the Mexicans are in actual want, and that the heads of the establishment are in receipt of money from some mysterious source that they are employing in satisfying their own desires, instead of spending the money for the care and sustenance of the family.

Some very direct testimony is at hand as to the source of the funds that are being paid to the Mexicans, and making them independent of manual employment. There may be some interesting disclosures along that line in the very near future, for the office of the United States District Attorney is actively interested in locating the "angel" who is inducing the Mexicans to refuse American employment.

CARELESS CAMPERS FINED AT AZUSA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AZUSA, Aug. 5.—Justice Bouldin of Azusa uses no light hand on careless campers in the San Gabriel Canyon. Five persons were brought before him during the past month, charged with leaving camp fires burning. In every case, following a stiff lecture on the danger they were creating, the justice levied a fine of $50, or a jail sentence of fifty days.

No serious fires have yet started in the San Gabriel Canyon district of the Sierra Madre. A large force of special guards has been on duty all summer and a special patrol has been made along the automobile road which extends for ten miles up the canyon.

Cutting Out Duplicate Operations in Bookkeeping

This chart visualizes the many operations a bookkeeper performs when the bookkeeping department is run on the old pen-and-ink method. It also shows how Elliott-Fisher Bookkeeping Machine cuts out duplication of effort and makes all entries at one operation.

Witness the E. R. Godfrey & Sons Co., Wholesale Grocers, of Milwaukee. This firm has two kinds of accounts to handle—city and country. Before Elliott-Fisher Bookkeeping Machines were installed six bookkeepers were required to keep the accounts in order. They had to get four separate trial balances, keep a separate cash book, write up statements and ledger separately (for both weekly and monthly statements), which meant a great deal of duplicate hand effort.

Since installing Elliott-Fisher Bookkeeping Machines, statements are ready for mailing every Monday morning on perishable goods and on the first of each month on city and country accounts. Trial balances at the same time. No writing up of cash book. Country billing done on Elliott-Fisher with duplicate—addition proved at same time. Here's what Mr. J. D. Godfrey says about Elliott-Fisher:—

"After making use of three of your bookkeeping machines for one year in our business, where service, efficiency and speed are vital factors, especially in our perishable goods department, where we require thousands of weekly statements and in our grocery department, which is on a monthly basis of settlement, we find ourselves as enthusiastic over results obtained as we were a year ago. We feel that a compliment is in order on constructing such a complete and thorough bookkeeping machine.

Yours respectfully,
E. R. GODFREY & SONS CO.
(Signed) J. D. Godfrey."

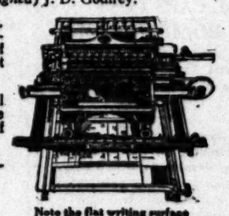
Elliott-Fisher bookkeeping by machinery is a business necessity. It is adapted to every line of business, manufacturing or merchandising, wholesale or retail, big firm or little. From the standpoint of economical results, accurate bookkeeping, correct billing and prompt trial balances, Elliott-Fisher Bookkeeping Machine stands alone.



Note the flat writing surface on which forms are held in the natural way. This makes possible the proof sheet.

At this time when concerns everywhere are making a most careful survey of office conditions, just consider how Elliott-Fisher Machine Bookkeeping will fit in your office, how much time and duplication of effort it will save. Think it over.

We will be glad to answer any question. Don't hesitate to write—or, better still, 'phone—Elliott-Fisher Company,

GO INTO THE HIGHWAYS AND HEDGES SEEKING SINNERS.

"Goodness is grown; neither God nor the neighbors can of themselves make a man good." This is the terse expression of one pastor yesterday, in setting forth the fact that the task of life is for a man to make himself good and then help his neighbor. It was simply one of the many themes presented in the local pulpits yesterday, to point man and woman to higher walks of life, with Christianity as their guiding force. Below are some of the leading thoughts presented in several of the sermons.

DR. CAMPBELL.
FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.
EMPHASIZES THE HIGHEST AND NOBLEST FORMS OF SERVICE TO OUR FELLOW-MAN.

"The Master's Challenge" was the subject of Dr. Edward Campbell yesterday in the First Presbyterian church. He said, in part:

"Jesus has challenged all men to make the best use of their talents and when walking among men He was constantly seeking to lift before them the necessity of taking the view of life that placed a high value on right action and high living. Today the world is influenced more by unselfish consecration of service than it is by any other thing in life. What Jesus would emphasize today is the need of consecration to the highest and noblest forms of service, and no object must keep men and women away from duty that calls to a noble life of service in the name of Him who came 'not to be ministered unto, but to minister.'"

UNIVERSITY METHODIST.
LIFE IS GROWN; NEITHER GOD NOR THE NEIGHBORS CAN OF THEMSELVES MAKE A MAN GOOD.

"The Task of Life" was Dr. W. Tilroe's sermon theme yesterday in the University Methodist Church. In the course of this sermon, he said:

"Even God does not always have His wishes with men. He always has His will with men, for His will that men shall do their own desiring. But the wishes of God are sometimes overturned. The good man, seeing that he cannot always see his brothers hit the trail to better things, should not despair. It is also a part of the burden of the great God. The world is His own, and He made it and He came to it, but it rejected Him not. He was the Word, the Light, the Life, and full of grace and glory, but He could not make a man good. Goodness is service; it is a man's own affair. Neither God nor the neighbors can make a man good.

"The task of life, then, is for a man to make himself good, and then to help his neighbor to be good. The Almighty can do no more. We are not in the earth to toil and moil and sleep and learn and get on and get on, but to get good. The great Sunday campaign is the most notable affair just now Los Angeles can take on. MEN OF SENSE CAN LEARN THEIR DUTY FROM THE BIBLE; STUDY YOUR BIBLE AND OBEY IT.

Before leaving for a three weeks' series of lectures in Texas, Dr. Bruce Brown, yesterday morning, delivered an address to 155 new members who were united with that congregation during his four month's ministry. A report will be given them tomorrow at the church. He said in part:

"We have made the supreme decision of life. To be a Christian is to strive for the highest and seek for the best. Here you will find the home of free thought. There was the time when it was supposed that one who closed his eyes and stop his ears was in order to believe the Bible. Experience has shown that it is a book that will always work. It is the truth that endures when a thousand lies that have struck it have gone to dust. In this church you have liberty.

"I offer you no key to the scriptures. Men of sense can learn their lesson from the Bible and gain life experience from it without the aid of theological wet nurse. Study the Bible for yourself and obey it in the light of your own convictions."

BISHOP NOBLEY.
LATTER DAY SAINTS.
PRIESTHOOD IS AN ENDOWMENT OF POWER BY MAN THAT HE MAY OPERATE IN THIS ORDINANCES.

Bishop C. W. Nobley of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints preached on "The Priesthood" yesterday in the chapel at No. 153 West Second street. He said, in part:

"The priesthood is the power which confers upon man, whereby he is qualified to act as an agent in God, with complete authority to use His holy name. In this way the man holding the Priesthood actually becomes a part of the government of God, which is co-existent with the universe.

"When men possessing the power and have the same in righteousness, their acts are valid in the sight of God. Those who acknowledge God's power in His servants acknowledge Him, while those who reject it reject even the power of God. This was clearly emphasized by the words of the Savior to His disciples: 'He that receiveth you receiveth Me, and he that receiveth Me receiveth Him that sent Me.' Whosoever shall not receive you nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that house or city, shake off the dust of your feet. Verily I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that city.'

"The priesthood is an endowment given man by which He may act in the different ordinances of the Gospel, both spiritual and temporal, by it he can learn the past, understand the present and foretell the future; it will give him a better conception of God, and teach us to live better the gospel of Christ, which is the only true philosophy of life."

THE MASTER'S CHALLENGE ENABLES THE HIGHEST AND NOBLEST FORMS OF SERVICE TO OUR FELLOW-MAN.

If it he can learn the relation of the present and the future; it will give him a conception of God, and of man. There is no true gospel of Christ is the only true philosophy."

DR. KNUDSEN.
CHRISTIAN SCIENCE INSTITUTE.

"THE DIVINE LATENT IN MAN AS IT IS IN GOD, FOR MAN IS THE SON OF GOD.

Dr. Knudsen on "Natural and Supernatural Laws," given by Dean A. Knudsen yesterday afternoon at the Institute of Theosophy, he said:

"We admire in the lawyer that maintains the due relation of our environment is due to authority in the citizen. Is it not that spirituality? It is the patent in God, for man is the son of God, and must slowly grow to the stature of his Father, unfolding one by one His glorious powers. Through many lives on earth he learns to grasp a standard that is a little higher, and when he finally can grasp and hold a truly high standard, he maintains it until there are a sufficient number of egos ready to live in the higher civilization.

"The experiences of many lives teach the soul to adjust itself by self-control and self-suppression, which is self-sacrifice, to the greater good of the greater number. Democracy has to win out because it is the voice not only of numbers of people, but of the very spirit of evolution itself."

DR. VAN HORN.
FIRST CONGREGATIONALIST.

TO BE A REAL CHRISTIAN IS TO LIVE THE LIFE OF CONSTANT THANKFULNESS TO GOD FOR HIS GIFTS.

Dr. Francis J. Van Horn of Oakland in his sermon yesterday morning at the First Congregational Church made answer to the much-mooted question, "What is a Christian?" summing up the final test in the willingness of man to acknowledge God as the visible king; to recognize His supremacy; to see in Him the source of all spiritual blessedness; to thank Him for His gifts—in short to say "Thank you, God," for every blessing that comes into your life.

Taking for his text a passage of scripture from that chapter in Luke descriptive of the healing of the ten lepers, he presented in graphic manner the contrast between the nine who forgot to thank Jesus for what He had done for them and the one who returned and fell at His feet in gratitude for his healing—the one who had in his heart the great grace of thankfulness, and by that act proclaimed that he was a Christian. He said:

"How many men of our own time have the grace of gratitude to acknowledge God and to thank Him for His gifts? To do this is to be a Christian. We live in a world the moral atmosphere of which has been uplifted and purified and carried on by the tide of Christian civilization and yet there is a multitude of men who have not had the vision to see, or the wisdom to comprehend, that God is back of it all. When humanity discovers God as the visible king then we shall know what the Master meant by the coming of His kingdom. To be a real Christian is to live the life of constant thankfulness to God—this is the supreme thing."

REV. JOHN SNAPE.
HOLLYWOOD BAPTIST.

THE FEAR OF FALLING IS THE GREATEST SAFEGUARD AGAINST FALLING; FORGET SELF AND AID OTHERS.

In a sermon on "Judas and His Kiss," in the Hollywood Baptist Church last evening, Rev. John Snape said:

"The kiss of Judas was a kiss of irreverence, of covetousness, of treachery. The attitude of Jesus toward him was courteous, courageous, consistent. Judas is a warning to us. He was a religious leader. In the list of apostles Peter's name always comes first, and the name of Judas last. And the first denied his Master with an oath, and the other betrayed Him with a kiss. The difference was that one of them sought forgiveness, and found it, and the other went out in despair and hanged himself. The fear of falling is the greatest safeguard against falling. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty and of safety. That man is in the least danger who forgets self and works for others."

DR. ANDREWS.
PLYMOUTH CONGREGATIONAL.

THOUSANDS OF MYSTERIES WE SHALL NEVER UNDERSTAND IN THIS WORLD, BUT THERE'S WORK BE TO DONE.

At the Plymouth Congregational Church, Dr. George A. Andrews, recently returned from a month's vacation, preached from the topic, "A Summons to Sky-gazers." He said, in part:

"Christians waste a great deal of precious time trying to understand the mysteries connected with God and with human life. They ask the childish 'why?' and the philosophical 'how?' Why are there sorrow and suffering? Why is there war? How can these things be? How will they eventuate?

"Such sky-gazing brings not only dissatisfaction, but dissention. The church is split up in hundreds of little bodies, not so much because the people in the church have disagreed on matters of duty and service, but because, sky-gazing into the fathomless mysteries, they have thought that they have discerned different explanations of the inexplicable.

"The summons to the sky-gazers is a summons to earthly service. There are a thousand mysteries we shall never understand in this world. But what of it? In this world there is work to be done, a suffering brother to be helped, a needy country to be served, a God not merely to be reverenced and worshipped, but to be honored and obeyed. Let us do our 'bit' of service, and leave the mysteries to Him."

CAR IS STOPPED ON RAILROAD TRACK.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ANAHEIM, Aug. 5.—The lives of Dr. George C. Clark, former Coroner and Public Administrator of Orange county, and his son were imperiled when the front of their automobile was struck by a Santa Fe train at Bandini, a station near Los Angeles. The son was driving. Endeavoring to stop, the machine was brought to a standstill squarely on the tracks. The driver was backing off when the engine tore off the front fender and wheel. While no one was hurt, the shock was such that Dr. Clark was confined to the Anaheim Sanatorium. He is a member of the exemption board of Orange county, District No. 2.

ORANGE IS WINNER OF WORLD BANNER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ORANGE, Aug. 5. — Ralph G. Cole, secretary of the Orange county Y.W.C.A., was informed yesterday that his association had been awarded the world banner of the Y.M.C.A. for efficiency in Bible study. This is a big achievement in Y.M.C.A. circles, it being the first time that the banner has come West. It was awarded because more members of the association took the Bible examinations and passed them than from any other association. In the international competition, the Orange group won a big silver loving cup, known among the associations as the Dan McDonald cup. Santa Ana was a close second.

President of the World Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, who spoke last night at the Adventists' camp-meeting here.

Pastor Arthur G. Daniells of Washington, D. C., president of the World Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, who is here attending the annual camp meeting of the Seventh Day Adventists of Southern California at West Washington street and Orchard avenue, spoke to a large assemblage at the camp grounds yesterday morning.

He told of the rapid strides of Seventh Day Adventist missionary operations, especially in the Orient. Even on the borders of Tibet, Seventh Day Adventist missionaries are at work, he stated.

Pastor George E. Thompson, secretary of the North American Division Conference of the Adventists, also spoke yesterday afternoon, calling attention to the remarkable manner in which the prophecy of Deuteronomy 25:19, where Jehovah says He will blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven, has been fulfilled. "Did any of you ever see an Amalekite?" he asked. "If you did, tell me where he lives."

Pastor E. E. Andross, president of the Pacific Union Conference, will speak in the big pavilion this morning at 9:30 o'clock; Pastor Daniells, at 3 p.m. today, and Pastor Thompson at 7:30 p.m.

"Food Conservation and Health" will be the subject of a lecture in the big tent at 4:30 p.m. today, by Dr. A. W. Truman of the Loma Linda College of Medical Evangelists.

ON WAR'S CAUSE.

President Daniells spoke last night on "The Present War: Its Cause and Its Meaning." That the war is being fought, not for a European capital, but for a world highway, was the deduction made by Mr. Daniells. He maintained that Constantinople is in reality the storm center of the world conflict, and that the possession of this strategic point has a most vital bearing on the very existence, as well as the commercial supremacy, of some of the nations involved.

It is at Constantinople, he stated, that the great commercial highway, the Berlin-Byzantium-Bagdad Railway, crosses the natural commercial highway of Russia from Odessa through the Black Sea and the Dardanelles to the Mediterranean and the world. These trade routes, when traced on the map, form a great cross, with Constantinople at the point of intersection; and "on this cross," the speaker declared, "the peace of Europe has been crucified."

Mr. Daniells believes that the present war will be followed by a little time of peace; that then the struggle among the nations for world supremacy, and for supreme control of great commercial highways, will be renewed; that this will result in an Armageddon such as the world has never seen, even in the present dreadful war. In this later struggle, he believes, all the nations of the earth will be involved.

"The whole world," the speaker declared, "will then be thrown into tumult over disputed political questions relating to the Near East. Turkey is to come to her end. First she is to be driven from Constantinople, her present capital. The war now raging in Europe is designed to accomplish this. Students of world affairs believe that Turkey will then establish her capital at ancient Jerusalem, in the heart of her Asiatic possessions. A little time of peace will intervene; but there will surely come the concluding act in the great drama now unfolding: namely, the final and utter destruction of the Ottoman Empire. A number of the great powers have agreed to, and publicly announced this last act. The universal belief is that this will soon be brought about.

FULFILL PROPHECY.

"But the clash of nations that will bring Turkey's end will be the Armageddon, the battle of the great day of God, foretold by the Apostle John in Revelation 16, verses 13 to 17. That will be the time of trouble that the Prophet Daniel says will attend Turkey's overthrow; for the ancient seer foretold of the Turk that in the closing days of earth's history 'he shall plant the tabernacles of his palace (his capital) between the seas in the glorious holy mountain (Jerusalem:) yet he (the Turkish empire) shall come to his end, and none shall help him. And at that time shall Michael (Christ) stand up, the great Prince; . . . and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time.' Daniel 11:45; 12:1.

"When Turkey is finally overthrown, Christ, the Prince of Peace, is to establish His everlasting kingdom. Then deliverance from all the sin, suffering and sorrows of this world will come to the children of men. The events now taking place before our eyes are sure tokens, cheering heralds, that that glorious day is almost here."

EVANGELISM.

The Billy Sunday Committee has rented a $300-a-month mansion in Los Angeles which is to be the abode of the evangelist when he comes to this city to preach the doctrine of the Man who was born in a stable and who never had a place to rest his head until He was laid within a darkened sepulcher, slain by the people He came to save.

A MISTAKEN IDEA.

A Michigan University maid says she is going alone into the forests to live like Mother Eve, without clothing, food, weapons or shelter. Great Scott, little girl! Do you imagine Mother Eve was a sister of September Morn? Why, she had the finest dress of any woman in the Garden of Eden, she was sheltered by a bower of roses, she wielded the weapon of beauty, had all the golden fruits of paradise for food and even at that she realized the impossibility of bluffing it out all by her lonely.

COMPLETE VICTORY.

Hundreds of Moro warriors, who put up a bitter fight against Gen. Pershing a few years ago, have enrolled for service against the Central Powers and will fight side by side with American soldiers under the leadership of their former enemy. When Pershing attacked the Moros in the crater of an extinct volcano and gained the day, his kindness and mercy to the prisoners won their hearts and they have long ceased to bear any ill will toward that brave and noble American leader. If their conqueror had been Hindenburg instead of Pershing the story would have been different. It pays even a conqueror to be kind. No man ever becomes great enough to be cruel and get away with it without punishment.

NOT HIS FAULT.

While the war goes on the anthropologists, evolutionists and their scientific brethren continue to argue about the origin of the human species, and now comes an Edinburgh man, said to be an authority on the subject, who says that the living Australian aborigine is of an older type than any of the fossil remains of human beings found in the Old World. Well, let Australia claim the first man if she finds any satisfaction in it. One thing is pretty certain and that is that whoever the first man was, and wherever he started housekeeping, it wasn't altogether his fault and the world shouldn't feel too hard toward him. Perhaps if the first parents of the race were still living they would be as sorry for their 1,500,000,000 descendants as their descendants should be ashamed of their own degeneracy.

LEGALIZING PERJURY.

Every naturalized citizen of the United States must have taken an oath that he absolutely and forever renounces all allegiance or fidelity to any foreign country of which he may, at the time of filing his petition, be a citizen or subject.

Section 25 of the Delbruck law promulgated by Germany on January 1, 1914 (seven months before Germany actively engaged in the war for which she had been preparing for years,) allows a German about to be naturalized in a foreign country to secretly arrange with the authorities of his home state that he is to remain German notwithstanding his naturalization.

How many German naturalized citizens have made this "secret arrangement" is one of those things that will never be found out unless and until the German archives shall be captured. When it shall be ascertained there should be a cancellation of the scoundrel's certificate of naturalization, followed by his imprisonment or deportation.

QUALIFICATIONS OF I.W.W.

The fundamental principles of the I. W.W. organization are set forth in its constitution adopted in its national platform some years ago and reaffirmed at every annual convention. It reads as follows: "The working class and the employing class have nothing in common. Between these two classes a struggle must go on until the workers of the world organize as a class, take possession of the earth and the machinery of production and abolish the wage system."

The membership of the I.W.W. consists principally, if not entirely, of unskilled workers. Its official publication says: "The future belongs to the I.W.W., the day of the skilled worker is past" (The I.W.W., Its History, Structure and Methods, page 24.)

Coal miners, metal miners, workers on farms, workers on roads, excavators of ditches, excavators of cellars and others are all "unskilled" workers and eligible to membership in the I.W.W.

The milkman who has a few cows and a dairy wagon and distributes the milk among his customers ranks as a capitalist and cannot be admitted to membership in an I.W.W. association.

The carpenter, the mason and the farmer who own their own tools and take contracts instead of working by the day cannot be I.W.W., for they own the "instruments of production."

The homesteader on timbered land who fells trees and manufactures wood which, with his own truck, he delivers to customers, owns the "instruments of production" and there will be no room for him in a gang of I.W.W.

This list of non-eligibles to membership in the I.W.W. may be largely extended.

Extravagance in spending money earned in unskilled labor, a fondness for booze and familiarity with the use of dynamite are three prime qualifications for an I.W.W.

PAY-ROLL PATRIOTISM.

Katherine Phillips Edson of Los Angeles, chief beneficiary of the so-called Industrial Welfare Act, is highly indignant that The Times should presume to refer to the Industrial Welfare Board as an "autocratic commission" and that it should protest in the name of independent labor and industry against the fixing by autocratic decree of a minimum wage scale for women and minors which is higher than the average wages paid to women in California or any other State. This Edson person is a female politician, a union-laborite who worked the pull of the union bosses with former Gov. Johnson to secure a high-salaried berth as "executive officer" of the Industrial Welfare Commission. As a pay roll patriot she is a loud success. Naturally, she is incensed at anything which threatens the stability of her position, for her weekly stipend from the State is greater than the monthly salary of the average woman in private employment in California or elsewhere.

Under her signature as executive officer of the Industrial Welfare Commission, Mrs Edson has given to the press a statement in which she extols "trade-union participation in industrial democracy," refers to The Times as the champion of "scab employers" and indulges in a diatribe which might be considered appropriate if coming from the California State Federation of Labor or its associated villainies, but which is a surprising document to carry the signature of an executive officer of the State of California. It is nothing less than using the name and the standing of the State in proselyting for the labor unions.

In her frantic effort to discredit The Times, Mrs. Edson reveals her utter unfitness for the position which she occupies. She brands as false statements whose verity is attested by the official records of the State Legislature. Seemingly unaware of the extremely narrow limits of her mental horizon, Mrs. Edson denies the existence of everything of which she has no personal knowledge. The Times has no desire to boast of its erudition; the product of human minds, it does not pretend to infallibility; but The Times insists that there were no errors in statements of fact in the editorial to which Mrs. Edson took such violent exception. If Mrs. Edson would condescend to take a course in any reputable night school she might acquire sufficient knowledge of the rudiments of political economy to discover that a State law is an act of the Legislature and not a constitutional provision or an order of a State commission. It is impossible to discuss intelligently mathematical problems with one who has not yet learned to count.

There is a provision in the State Constitution empowering the Legislature to establish "by legislation" a minimum wage for women and minors. The Times pointed out in specific language that the Legislature had never fixed a minimum wage for women and children, although this was the plain intent of the constitutional provision, but that it had created an "Industrial Welfare Commission" and had delegated to this commission the authority to fix a minimum wage by executive decree. The Industrial Welfare Commission is not a creature of the Constitution. Despite Mrs. Edson's vehement assertions, neither this commission nor any of its decrees have ever been passed upon by the people of the State.

The Times repeats that this commission is simply one of the thirty little dynasties created by the Progressive State machine for purely political purposes. A Legislature acting under notorious executive dictation created the commission and empowered it to fix a minimum wage for women and minors. The commission costs the taxpayers thousands of dollars annually; it has fixed a minimum wage for women and minors higher than that of any other State in the Union, and it has provided that any employer who disobeys its decrees commits a criminal act and may be deprived both of his property and his liberty.

Massachusetts created an Industrial Welfare Commission a few years ago and empowered the commission to fix a minimum wage for women; but there was no attempt to deprive of his liberty an employer who did not observe the commission scale of wages. The commission was empowered simply to publish in a paper of general circulation the names of such employers as paid less than the commission considered to be a living wage. There is a vast difference between this act and the executive decree of the California Industrial Welfare Commission, which fixes a minimum wage higher than the average wage now paid and that deprives of his liberty any employer who refuses to bow the knee and kiss the hand that smites him.

ALWAYS "FORWARD."

That's the way of Los Angeles. With eyes front and with a firm step it presses on. City and county are animated by the same desire—to progress. Year by year city and county advance and each twelve months take a relatively higher place in the country. They can't go higher on the Coast because they have already outrun every other city and county from the Arctic circle to the Panama Canal.

The figures published in The Times on Saturday relating to the number of auto licenses issued here, and the revenue received, as compared with San Francisco, are only one item in pages of evidence showing the supremacy of Los Angeles. From time to time San Francisco questions that supremacy, which is only natural. It generally does it in an unpleasant way, which also is only natural. Nevertheless there's plenty of room for both cities and they both will grow in stature.

Of course, we cannot expect San Francisco to welcome the evidence of the superiority of Los Angeles in size and automobile wealth, as shown by the official figures of the State vehicle department. These show there are more than three times as many vehicles registered in Los Angeles county as in San Francisco county and that the receipts here are more than $500,000 greater than those in San Francisco. The figures speak for themselves; why say more?

Indians are now being pressed into the military service of the country—which recalls the remark of Gen. R. H. Pratt, the first head of the Carlisle Indian School, that the government had spent $500,000,000 trying to drive the Indians away from contact with our civilization.

COLLAPSE OF SOCIALISM.

While the red flag and the black flag strive for mastery in frenzied Russia, German and Austrian legions are pouring across the Carpathians and through abandoned Galicia. All the military advantages won during two years of stubborn offensive have been lost to the Russian arms and a once mighty people is torn by conflicting passions until the term Russian has become almost synonymous with terrorist. For four months Socialism has toyed with the Russian government as a child with a box of blocks. For four months Russia was the striking example of a country where socialistic principles were applied in actual government. The world now stands appalled at the result. Government has been replaced by chaos. The plains and the wilderness, the hunting grounds of the Apaches and the Iroquois were safer 200 years ago than are the municipalities of Russia today. Socialism has plunged Russia into the chasm.

Lincoln Steffins, Charles Edward Russell and a few other top-line Socialists from the United States were right there on the ground in St. Petersburg—even the word Petrograd is becoming a reproach—giving to the new Russian government the benefit of their counsel. Every Socialist paper in the United States was filled with praise for the new social democracy. But something went wrong with the works. The people refused to longer pay taxes; the soldiers—excepting a few loyal Cossack divisions—stopped fighting and hastened back to the centers of population to get their share of the redistribution of the land; in the mad scramble for their personal aggrandizement the common good was forgotten.

When Kerensky seized the portfolio of Minister of War, Upton Sinclair and others of his ilk composed paeans of praise, but The Times sounded a note of sober warning. Kerensky was known at that time only as a labor-union member of the Duma. He was about as well qualified for the position of Minister of War as he would have been for pitcher in a National League baseball team. He knew no more of the game of war than of baseball. At the time there was no question as to his sincerity and his willingness to sacrifice himself for Russian liberty. But The Times then insisted that something more was necessary than good intentions. Honest ignorance is even more dangerous to governments than intelligent treachery.

From the world dream of a Socialist Utopia in Russia there has been a rude awakening. The Socialists have ceased to point with pride and are beginning to refer with regret. They have their apologists, as had the Terrorists under Robespierre, the men of '48 under Lamartine and the French Communists of 1871. The human flood broke through the paper levees of Socialism, which are only effective when bound between the covers of a book, and a whole society is engulfed. The proletariat preferred present plunder to a prospect of future fraternity. Russia's present orientation resembles a body in which the brain is dead but the heart still lives; no two organs will act in unison and the directing power of the master mind is eliminated.

Socialism has been valuable mainly as the refuge of demagogues, but that value has now been lost. Russia's condition is one of extreme gravity. Socialism has been tried and found wanting, but the man has not yet appeared capable of bringing the Russian people back to a condition of right thinking. The fruits of the democratic victory which occasioned the dethronement of the Czar have been lost. In place of being an asset to the cause of world democracy Russia is now a liability; it is no more safe for democracy than democracy is safe for Russia. One recalls vividly the cynicism of an old Russian aristocrat: "Give the serf a seat at the table and he will put his feet upon the cloth."

Socialism may be regarded as dead. Practical application has proved quickly the falsity of its theories. As an illusion it was formidable, but as a reality it is a ghastly joke.

GERMANY'S SEEKING FOR PEACE.

The war approaches its last phase. This is recognized by both belligerents. The Allies are summoning their last reserves; the Germans are in the last ditch—for their armies can no longer advance, their Zeppelins have been beaten down and their submarines, after long effort, have not done what was expected by the Teutons or feared by the Allies.

Germany is not defeated, but she is hopeless. It is for her no longer a war of conquest, but a fight for survival—and in such a fight the mere ceasing of hostilities will gain just about all that the calmer-headed Germans believe can be won. Therefore, Germany is agitated by a clamor for peace, peace at any price that does not involve humiliation and dismemberment. This movement found expression in a resolution adopted by the Reichstag, which follows in full:

As on August 4, 1914, so on the threshold of the fourth year of the war the German people stand upon the assurance of the speech from the throne —"we are driven by no lust of conquest."

Germany took up arms in defense of its liberty and independence and for the integrity of its territories. The Reichstag labors for peace and a mutual understanding and lasting reconciliation among the nations. Forced acquisitions of territory and political, economic and financial violations are incompatible with such a peace.

The Reichstag rejects all plans aiming at an economic blockade and the stirring up of enmity among the peoples after the war. The freedom of the seas must be assured. Only an economic peace can prepare the ground for the friendly association of the peoples.

The Reichstag will energetically promote the creation of international juridical organizations. So long, however, as the enemy governments do not accept such a peace, so long as they threaten Germany and her allies with conquest and violation, the German people will stand together as one man, hold out unshaken and fight until the rights of itself and its allies to life and development are secured. The German nation united is unconquerable.

The Reichstag knows that in this announcement it is at one with the men who are defending the Fatherland. In their heroic struggles they are sure of the undying thanks of the whole people.

The resolution seems fair, as though expressing a willingness to meet the Allies half way; but the hitch to peace negotiations based on such a resolution is perhaps to be found in the frequent and emphatic statement by England's Premier that Germany cannot expect nor have peace until the Kaiser is off the throne. What Lloyd George means is that the French and English are determined to fight the war out and make a democracy of Germany unless she rises to the situation and makes one of herself.

But it seems that with such a promising beginning as this resolution peace should not be long delayed. Frank H. Simonds, one of the leading commentators in this country on the war, writing in the current Review of Reviews, very clearly points out the many auguries which show why Germany must have peace, even at the price of giving up all annexations. And to every German, schooled to believe the invincible arms of the Fatherland would gather new and rich territory for the expanding nations, peace without conquest means defeat. Yet the Reichstag resolution expressly repudiates annexation.

Mr. Simonds anticipated such a peace proposal in the article mentioned, written before the Reichstag had met; but he warns America against too much optimism, saying:

That Germany is being led by events toward such a peace proposal no one can mistake. That she will be compelled to make such terms within a brief span of weeks or months I believe. But it seems to me likely that before this time arrives she will inevitably make many efforts to escape her hard fate, both by internal shifts of officials and forms and by external manipulations and maneuvers. That is why, once one has recognized the enormous importance of the main fact of German upheaval, it is necessary to be on guard against too optimistic conclusions as to immediate developments. We are, in my view, arrived at a situation wherein peace is more nearly within reach than at any moment since the war began. More than this, German defeat is more clearly indicated than ever before. But the curtain is rising rather than falling on the last act, and much may yet take place. And the last act of a tragedy is invariably the most painful and bloody.

Gov. Robert Lee Williams of Oklahoma has made a name for himself by refusing to appear in the headachy plug hat and stifling frock coat on an afternoon when the thermometer was hugging the century mark and a reception to the Belgian commission was on. He wore a Palm Beach suit and a Panama hat. Williams is a liberator. He deserves a monument for cutting away from the edicts of fashion on a hot day.

The food dictator ought to take a fall out of the young men who insist upon eating peanuts upon the street cars.

When Socialism opposed military registration a great many men in this country ceased to be Socialists.

OUR MINISTER SAYS.

Our minister says that the sermon is over when he has finished preaching, but it is not done until his congregation has gone out and put it into practice.

Our minister says that civilization without religion is a dangerous thing to fool with; it produces weapons of death instead of the necessities and comforts of life. The higher the civilization, the more dangerous are the weapons invented, and unless Christianity is present to restrain their production and use, they will cause the ruin of the nations which manufacture them.

Our minister says that the Supreme Court has declared the United States is a Christian nation. In view of such a declaration, how ought its citizens to live?

Our minister says that there is all the difference in the world between well-wishers and good-doers. He quotes the proverb, "The wish is father to the deed," and adds, "But too often the wish dies childless."

Our minister says that the great problem of the twentieth century is the problem of brotherhood—of how men may live together peaceably.

Our minister says that the man who is satisfied with fraternity is stopping at a way-station, for the end of fraternity is Christianity. The founder of Christianity is the originator of the spirit of brotherhood, and without Him and His teachings, the universal brotherhood of man is impossible.

Our minister says that it's a crime to do business under false pretenses, and a crime that is sure to be punished, because truth has an inconvenient way of popping up and facing a lie, and conquering it.

Our minister says that he leaves some funerals thinking that some day we will find that many things which we once attributed to the mysterious providence of God are really charged to the mysterious carelessness of man.

Our minister says that many pagan philosophers tell us that woman has no soul, and some English and American writers say she has no brain. But when anyone quotes these things to woman, our minister says she should reply, "Well, at least I have a heart, which is more than most men have."

RIPPLING RHYMES.

MOTOR MADNESS.

With apples stay me, I implore you, and comfort me, I beg, with flagons; and hark with patience while I bore you, for I am sick of choo-choo wagons. For days a car will run so sweetly, your admiration for it quickens; it climbs the hills serenely, neatly, and pulls through mud to beat the dickens. For days no grief will be your portion, you jaunt along in fine condition; combustion's perfect, so is torsion, there are no flies on your ignition. Your tires stand up without a puncture, you think you've left all grief behind; then grief comes whooping, at this juncture, to stir up madness in your mind. The punk things happen all together, not scattered raindrops, but a flood; and oftenest in rotten weather, when you must slosh around in mud. A thousand versts in peace I've driven, a thousand versts of calm and smiles; and then my heart was wrenched and riven a hundred times in twenty miles. When once the blamed old tires start busting, when once the carburetor balks, when once the gear shift acts disgusting, the wise man leaves his car and walks. He says in earnest tones, "Sic semper! I do not choose to lose my goat; I will not spoil my sunny temper by fooling with that blamed old boat."

WALT MASON.

THE CAFE COAT GIRL.

[Leah Evans in the Minneapolis Tribune:] "It is so warm, yes, Fraulein, and you are so smiling!' Exasperation and admiration mingled in the tone of August, the head waiter.

"Yep, Gus," replied the coat girl. "The hotter it gets the more I smile, and I hate hot weather like a bartender hates the attitude of the prohibition party on the temperance question.

"But I have noticed one thing, Gus, and that is that there are more lovers' quarrels, more suicides, more marriages and more of all sorts of terrible things in extremely hot weather than at any other time.

"It sorter seems, Gus, that the hot sun gets into people's beans and makes 'em mad like a mad dog as well as mad like a man who has missed a train if you get what I mean, old dear.

"Of course you know the small change I pick up from people here is my bread and beans and if I can just keep grinnin' when everybody else is goin' around with a chip on their shoulder I will come nearer gettin' mine than any other way.

"You know, Gus, if a guy comes in here and leaves a dollar and a quarter straw lid at this coatrack he ain't so much inclined to sow his chicken feed around here as he is in winter when I have to take care of a hundred dollars' worth of furs for him and the Jane he is beauin'.

"Then, too, Gus, this business of gettin' hot and gettin' peeved are two things that aggravate each other like two cats fastened up in the same area way. If you get hot you get peeved, and the more peeved you get the hotter you are until the first thing you know you are sore enough to get up in the middle of the night and bite your own father.

"If you want to keep cool you've got to keep good-humored."

LETTING DOWN THE BARS AGAINST AGE.

[CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.]
BY J. MADISON TAYLOR, M.D.
Professor of Applied Therapeutics, Medical Department, Temple University.

THE announcement of the Pennsylvania Railroad that, for the period of the war and for some months thereafter, it will suspend its rule of employing only people of 45 years of age or younger and will take on men from 45 to 70 years old, is much more important in its significance for industry at large than for its application by the single corporation, conspicuous as that corporation is. The railroad states that the positions which open to these men of previously barred years are not in any manner assured as permanencies; the employment is explicitly defined as being designed to meet the emergency of the war. Nevertheless, the bar is down, and obviously not for the Pennsylvania Railroad alone. The company's action is the precursor of similar waivers of the age limit by practically all other great employing concerns, paying salaries and wages to millions of men. However reluctant many of them may be to hire people whom they have hitherto assumed to be disqualified, their acquiescence in the nation's industrial mobilization of its man power is as inevitable as the mobilization itself.

Nor should the announcement of any employer that the term of employment for men beyond the age of 45 carries no assurance of permanency be taken at its face value. It serves, no doubt, the purpose of an excellent "saving clause" for the employed as against any future imputation of bad faith; but in effect it need amount to little more than a caution, more than commonly to be heeded, that these new and older recruits of industry must be careful to make good in their employments.

This war—any war—is necessarily disruptive of countless minor human veins which carry along the circulation of every industrial organization. Many of the former younger employees, whose places these elder men are called upon to fill, will return, expectant, and rightly expectant, of being welcomed to their positions; but many others will not return—and not necessarily because of the war's toll in life, but because thousands of the war's veterans will have gained a fresh outlook, will have described new opportunities, will have made friendships offering larger advancement, will have developed the characteristic American ambition for "being one's own boss;" will have determined upon individual enterprises which kill forever the longing for a little job with a big concern, which is usually the refuge of youth lacking in initiative.

More than that: This war marks the entrance of this nation, to the limit of its vast resources, upon the world's industrial stage. Our part in the current, daunting conflict looms now so large in our unaccustomed eyes that few of us see beyond the needs of the anxious hour. But in reality it amounts to nothing more than a world housecleaning, preparatory to a tremendous expansion of the productive energies of mankind, with the people of the United States destined to do an enormously expanded proportion of the work. Manufacture, commerce, transportation, reaching to the uttermost ends of the earth, will be grasping at all Americans, 45 and over as well as 45 and under, with an eagerness fully equal to the eagerness which underlies now the very dignified announcements of corporations that the older men will be permitted to serve for the period of the war. And, unless the older men seize those new jobs first, the younger ones, the veterans of the war, will yield to the allurements with a readiness quite disconcerting to their former employers.

Again: On the resources of this country, with peculiar reference to its industrial man power, will devolve in large measure the rehabilitation of Europe; so there is another immense job to be attended to, and not to be disposed of in a single year or so. The war veterans, with their American instinct for efficiency, their acquired familiarity with European conditions, and their developed adaptability for novel situations, will be favored candidates for all of those openings, here and abroad.

No; the man who is now 45 years and over, for a decade past despised and rejected by industry and trade, stands at this hour on a footing even with the man of 30 so far as earning capacity goes—except for one consideration. That consideration is himself. For a time, under stress of urgent need, employers may be more or less indulgent to his shortcomings. But business cannot afford to be indulgent forever; its adjustments are inexorable. The man of 45 and over, whatever handicap his years may have put upon him, will have to make good precisely as the younger man made good whose position he is given now the opportunity to fill.

The making good, apart from certain habits and practices which are as destructive to life as they are to efficiency, is purely a matter of health. To every man of 45 and over who now lacks advantageous employment, it is the privilege of the physician to say:

"If your patriotism is not stimulant enough to induce you to put your body in perfect condition, will you not respond to the inducement of employment at wages fully equal to the actual earning capacity you possessed when you believed yourself in your prime?"

I feel that I am just as strong and loyal an American as my neighbor, even though I was born in the Land of the Rising Sun. And as an American, I take it, is he who feels a thrill when he sees the Stars and Stripes and is ready to die for the principles for which the flag stands.

Although it is perhaps not generally known today, alongside Gen. Pershing's men in France there are the hosts of Japanese volunteers from Canada and the United States. Also the sons of Nippon have answered the call of their adopted land where freedom and democracy are the way of man.

JAPANESE SUPPORT.

Here again in this country of ours the Liberty Bell rang once more, this time in Washington to the lips of your worthy resident, Japanese residents in America have resolved to loyally support the flag that summoned the men of 1776 to fight for the native freedom and which now inspires them to bear arms to make the world safe for democracy.

Liberty is a lasting heritage of American democracy, then loyalty is the eternal legacy of the Japanese race.

With the entrance of the United States into this titanic struggle upon the high plane of international right and freedom we, speaking for the Japanese people as a whole, have come into our midst another valuable ally. We do so with the realization of the fact that the nations of the world of the past have fought verticalward for national aggrandizement.

But we are now fighting a horizontal war for internationalism that in the future the test of a great nation will be not how much it can do for the world, but how much it can do for the world. So we are honestly striving to do our utmost best for the world.

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 5. — Telegraphic advices report that Guy B. [illegible], awaiting arraignment in the Superior Court here on a charge of murder in connection with the death July 28, of George Linder, a section of the Southern Pacific Railroad at Indio, Cal., has been arrested at Bakersfield.

Hall was released without bail after his preliminary hearing here Thursday, but a bench warrant for his arrest was issued yesterday. Deputy Sheriff Kelly, assistant District Attorney Bush, after representatives of the railroad company at Los Angeles had informed him that an autopsy showed Linder's death "probably resulted from a broken neck."

Testimony at the preliminary hearing indicated death was due to heart failure. Witnesses also testified that Hall had used a "slap" during an altercation between Burdick and Linder, and found the latter unconscious. Burdick had gone to Banning to visit relatives. Burdick is a son of Charles Burdick, Justice of the Peace at Indio, and is an employe of the railroad. He is 24 years old and married.

ARE COMRADES FOR HUMANITY.

Union of Pacific Nations is Emphasized at Fete.

Notable Speeches Delivered at Long Beach.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 5.—Revealment of Japan's actual part in the world war, and denouncing agitators of a war between the United States and Japan, Kiyo Sue Inui, an instructor in the department of political science of the University of Southern California, in responding to Mayor William T. Lisenby's welcome to the 1500 Japanese from all parts of the Southland who gathered here today to celebrate Japan Day, delivered a patriotic address that for optimism and sincerity has never been surpassed in this city. Congress declared a state of war existed with Germany. Mr. Inui introduced Ujiro Oyama, Consul of Japan at Los Angeles, who sent his regrets at being unable to attend and who termed in his own words, as an event "of grand festivity and solemnization," which he said he considered a great honor to his native land, the Land of the Rising Sun.

Following the exchange of courtesies on Campbell pier, Japanese children gave skillful exhibitions of jiu jitsu, sword shooting, broad sword and long sword dance and other Nipponese sports and entertainments. The largest Sunday crowd of the season witnessed the activities.

JINGO PROOF.

"Japan has no secret to keep from America," said Mr. Inui. "Her hopes and aspirations are an open book to you and your country. The Japanese-American relations are fireproof and jingo-proof. The war-mongers and sensationalists have for the last twelve months been striking matches all over the sky without being able to start even a respectable bonfire. And what do we see? These two sisters of the Pacific on the same side of the firing line.

"So that I am just as strong for you as an American as my heart is, even though I was born in the land of the Rising Sun. And I mean it, I take it, is he who feels a quickening thrill when he sees the Star and Stripes and is ready to die for the principles for which they stands.

"Democracy is a lasting heritage of the world. If democracy, then loyalty is the great legacy of the Japanese race.

HIGH PRICE PAID FOR FINE GROVE.

CHICAGO CAPITALIST BUYS GLENDORA PROPERTY.

Four Thousand Dollars an Acre is the Stated Consideration and is the Topmost Paid in District for Citrus Orchard—To be New Owner's Winter Home.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDORA, Aug. 5.—Glendora is rapidly taking rank as a rich man's town. A valuable addition to the large number of wealthy men and capitalists who have invested here was made last week, when a Chicago real estate broker closed a deal whereby L. H. LaChance sold to C. M. Bell, a Chicago capitalist, his fine ten-acre foothill tract, close in, improved with a nine-room, two-story, modern residence and set solid to 16-year-old navel orange and lemon trees, in a high state of cultivation. The stated consideration is given as $4000 an acre, the highest price paid for acreage property in this valley, as far as known.

Mr. Bell will take possession January 1, next, with a view to making it his winter home. He contemplates making other and more important investments in good income-paying property, as soon as he has time for an investigation of the local situation.

Mr. LaChance, who is himself at the head of a $3,000,000 corporation, has two other fine foothill ranches, one of which fronts Sierra Madre avenue. This choice tract is set solid to lemon trees just coming into bearing and he says he would not part with it for any reasonable consideration, as it is his intention to improve it for a home. He will commence the erection of a large, two-story residence as soon as the plans and specifications are out of the hands of the architects.

Henry King, a former Los Angeles man, who purchased a fine orange grove here a little over one year ago, has let the contract to E. C. McCarty for the erection of a $4000 residence on a building site of one acre, fronting West Sierra Madre avenue, which he recently purchased for the purpose. The plans and specifications call for an eight-room bungalow. After the building is completed he will occupy it with his family and improve the grounds, with a view of making a beautiful and attractive home.

TWO CHILDREN ARE DROWNED.

Girls Lose Lives While Playing in Pool of Water.

Younger Sister of One Only Witness of Tragedy.

Cries of Help are Thought to be Make-believe.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 5.—Two little girls, 10 and 11 years of age, daughters of two prominent families of the Santa Ana River Valley, were drowned this afternoon while playing in a pool of water on the land side of the sand pits about half way between this city and Newport Beach.

The girls were Mabel, 11 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gisler, and Elizabeth Gisler, one year younger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gisler, prominent ranchers. A younger sister of Mabel was the only eyewitness to the Sunday tragedy and when the children called for help she thought they were only fooling, but when she found they were drowning she called R. C. Justice of Bolsa, who was surf fishing a short distance away, and he removed one of the little bodies from the watery grave. The Newport car was stopped and a call for help was sent to Huntington Beach and Marshal John Tinsley and others soon responded, and the other body was found by Gifford Kutzner, a 13-year-old boy of this city.

A pulmotor was brought down from Santa Ana, but was found to be of no avail. The scene of the tragedy is about one mile southwest of the Samuel Gisler home and is where the Santa Ana River broke through the sand pit, January 19, 1916, during the flood of that year. Other members of the two families were in Seal Beach at the time. The remains were taken to the Bundschuh undertaking rooms at Huntington Beach.

MILITARY PAGEANT IS HELD AT MONROVIA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, Aug. 5. — To commemorate the departure today of the Twenty-fourth Company, Coast Artillery Corps, for its first active service, the citizens of Monrovia, Azusa, Covina, Glendora, Ontario, Sierra Madre and Duarte gathered at Library Park, Monrovia, last night for a big dinner, band concert and military pageant. The dinner was a benefit for the company mess fund.

The pageant was colorful and beautiful. Three hundred children took part, under direction of F. Carothers, leader of the Monrovia Municipal Band. "Southland Gives to the Nation" was the theme, symbolized first by California and her treasures of fruits, vegetables, grain, minerals and finally her young manhood, which, in turn, is given to Columbia and her retinue of States. Elaborate and unusual lighting effects were carried out.

ALLEGED SLACKERS HELD AT POMONA.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Aug. 5. — F. Tradillo was arrested yesterday by Officer Garrison at the Southern Pacific station. When asked to show his registration card, the young man admitted that he was 24 years of age, but was a transient and did not register. He claims he was in Chicago at the time of the draft date, but did not understand the regulations, and thought it not necessary for him to register.

A man who gave his name as Tom Brown, was arrested while prowling around the rear of the home of A. Fritz on East Second street. He also could show no card, but claimed to be 24 years old. In giving his birth date he became confused. His case will be investigated. The other man will be turned over to Federal authorities.

START SINKING OPERATIONS.

Dundee-Arizona Opens After Long Shut-down.

Install a New Electric Pump of Big Capacity.

Three Shifts to Drive to the Expected Ore Body.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

JEROME (Ariz.) Aug. 3.—After a shut-down of about ten months, in which only ore shipments have been made from a carbonate capping, sinking operations are to be resumed at once on the Dundee-Arizona, which is now installing a new electric pump with capacity of 600 gallons a minute. The shaft already has been unwatered below the 450-foot level and three shifts are to be set at work driving down to the expected ore body, which will be below 1000 feet. The power will be from the Clarkdale plant of the Arizona Power Company.

A three-compartment shaft is being sunk on the Great Verde Extension, under charge of Supt. J. H. Hubbard, formerly of the Dundee.

On the Green Monster, drifting has been started from the Gorge tunnel, of which the face is 400 feet under a surface outcrop and immediately under the 200-foot Cliff shaft.

On the Jerome-Verde a drift is being pushed toward the glance ore that was cut lately by a diamond drill, and it is expected that the vein will be reached within two weeks.

The second suspension of operations of the Arkansas and Arizona property seems to be attended with indications of finality, for bulkheads are being placed in the shafts and the pumps have been pulled. The property, one of the deepest in the district, during its later development spun spent $250,000 and has maturing obligations which will have to be taken care of very soon. It is backed by the Goodrich-Lockhart syndicate, which has ample funds in itself, and it is hoped that as soon as the financial troubles are cleared away work will be resumed. The property lies below some of the richest ore bodies of the district, yet extensive workings have developed nothing of particular values within its own lines.

The Verde-Combination shaft has been driven below the 500-foot level and no drifting is to be done before 700 feet, unless some stringers are cut in the meantime.

During July, eight carloads of copper-gold ore have been shipped from the Copper Chief to the Humboldt smelter, averaging about $35 per ton. Before the late strike the mill had been handling 150 tons of gold ore a day, but it will not be started again until material changes have been made in its equipment.

The Jerome-New York has purchased six claims from the Victor Copper Company and holds an option on eleven more. It was organized in New York last month and its managers expect to raise about $500,000 for development work. They will not start until at least $100,000 is in the treasury. Its property adjoins the Jerome-Pacific, on the south end of the district.

Calumet & Arizona is cutting a station at 600 feet, preparatory to the installation of big pumps, for the permanent water level has been reached. The company has its own power plant and is well equipped. Drifting is to be started on the 600 level in two directions, in the hope of cutting veins from both the United Verde and the Little Daisy.

A station has been cut on the 500 level of the Gadsden. The shaft is somewhat deeper and is to be driven to 1200 feet before drifting or crosscutting will be started. This property is owned by Calumet & Arizona interests, and they have determined upon a definite policy which will be carried out.

Jerome-Superior is preparing to sink a 1200-foot two-compartment shaft on the Las Vegas claim near the United Verde crushing plant and George Mitchell is in Los Angeles trying to hurry up the necessary machinery. The shaft will follow the bore of a 260-foot drill hole which was bottomed in limestone. The idea of drilling has been abandoned.

Jerome-Delmonte is down about 300 feet, sinking at the rate of five feet a day.

CHIEF MINE OWNERS WANT SETTLEMENT.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) Aug. 3.—Sparring for position continues between the chief owners of the White Caps and Manhattan Consolidated, with the idea of bringing about a consolidation to settle the differences between the two companies. After the special meeting at which it was resolved to assess the stock of the Consolidated for 2 cents a share it became evident that the White Caps people were not satisfied with the result achieved in blocking the movement to increase the capital of the Consolidated by an additional 500,000 shares and the adjournment for thirty days was accepted by the outsiders as an indication that something would happen in the meantime to bring about a coalition of interests and a merger of both companies. Negotiations have been going on since with both sides as far apart as at the inception of the movement. The Caps people are said to have offered to take over the Consolidated on a basis of six shares of Consolidated for one share of Caps, while the Consolidated directors are willing to begin negotiations on the ratio of four to one, which would make the Consolidated stock worth 20 cents on the present basis of market quotations.

With this knowledge it is obvious that both sides are interested in holding down the market, but, evidently, the prospect of cheapening both stocks has not had its influence, for another element has entered the arena with the report hat W. J. Webster is about to file suit against the Manhattan company to compel the recognition of an alleged lease that was entered into three years ago with the Consolidated company. The lease was abandoned and it was supposed that the matter was buried until the present week, when interest was revived by the statement that William Metson, the San Francisco mining attorney, had been engaged by Webster to file suit to assert his alleged rights in the lease, which he alleges is of indeterminate time. The whole question hinges on the terms of the lease. President John H. Miller of the Manhattan Consolidated says there is nothing to the pretensions of Webster owing to the cancellation of the lease nearly two years ago, when the lessees forfeited all rights in the premises by failing to continue work. The matter may be compromised or it may be fought otu in the courts, for President Miller says the plaintiff has not a chance to establish his claim, as the lease was formally revoked. There the matter rests until some action is taken in the courts, when the claimants will be called upon to make a showing of the grounds on which they predicate their bill for damages.

J. V. Priest, F. M. Cox and G. T. Stanley of Los Angeles arrived at Manhattan today to look around some ground on which they are said to have an option. Until the visitors satisfy themselves regarding the property and cinch the purchase they will say nothing about the group which they have in mind. The party is traveling by auto and made the distance between Los Angeles and Goldfield in twelve flours flat running time, or an average of twenty-five miles an hour, which is considered very good for desert roads. They visited Manhattan this afternoon, and on the return trip covered the thirty-six miles in 54 minutes.

ENCOURAGING CONDITIONS.

Shipping Grade Ore Exposed in Many Properties.

Broad Development Yielding Satisfactory Results.

Additional Work is Planned for Some Idle Mines.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Aug. 3.—Mine conditions at a number of points in the Goldfield district are of such a character as to afford the greatest encouragement and ore of shipping grade is now exposed in a number of properties, distributed over a wide area. In the central part of the district, development work that is being conducted on a broad scale is yielding satisfactory results in point of new ore disclosures; while in outlying territory, north of Columbia Mountain and along the Diamondfield ridge, discoveries of great value have been made and ore of good grade is being placed in sight in substantial quantity.

Additional development work, that will be comprehensive in its scope, is being planned for properties that have been idle for some time past, including ground that is known to contain veins of great promise and upon which pay ore has been found in earlier work. At several other points, where it has been necessary to perform a large amount of dead work in order to reach the ore-bearing zones, the preliminary work has now advanced to the point where concrete results may be confidently expected in the near future. The large number of miners employed in the Goldfield district and the size of the monthly pay roll afford an indication of the large amount of development work in progress, in shaft sinking and lateral exploration, as well as in ore production.

GOLDFIELD CONSOLIDATED.

Deposits of good ore continue to appear in the workings of the Consolidated Mines Company as a result of the large amount of development work that is being carried on, particularly on the deeper levels, where the ore contains a greater percentage of copper than nearer the surface. Work is being confined more to these levels, with the object of blocking out a large tonnage of gold-copper ore for treatment by the flotation process, the success of which has been fully established in the treatment of the company's deep-level ores. The exploration department of the Consolidated company has a number of engineers in the field and has examined a number of properties with a view to their purchase if found to possess sufficient merit. Several properties are said to have been reported upon favorably and it is understood that options have been taken, under which certain properties will be prospected to determine their value.

REORGANIZED KEWANAS.

Ore of excellent grade is being broken for shipment in the northern workings of the Kewanas, at a depth of 840 feet, in the south drift from the east crosscut and in the shale contact zone. A stope is being advanced from this drift, at a point about 100 feet from the crosscut, and has been yielding a product of uniformly high grade. The same ore body has been exposed by raises farther to the west, indicating that it is of considerable magnitude. In the southern part of the property a crosscut is being driven to the southeast, traversing the big vein or ore channel diagonally, and has progressed for over 100 feet in vein matter, showing quartz of good character. The object here is to reach the hanging wall, near which, a short distance to the south and in ground leased from the Kewanas company, the Jumbo Junior is breaking high-grade ore. The great vein, which is the main ore channel of the district, is all virgin ground for a distance of over 1200 feet between these points.

ATLANTA MINES COMPANY.

Ore that is well suited for treatment by the flotation process is being placed in sight in large quantities by development work on the various main and intermediate levels of the Atlanta below the 1400-foot point. In the progress of this work sufficient ore of higher grade has been exposed to maintain regular shipments at the rate of a railroad car daily and the company is now said to be making a good profit from these shipments. Later a large production of lower-grade ore will be made, this product being shipped to the flotation plant of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company for treatment.

CRACKER JACK.

Developments of the greatest interest are reported from the new east workings of the Cracker Jack, at a depth of 320 feet and in the main Columbia Mountain fault vein, which, farther, to the south, is the main ore channel of the district. After driving east about 700 feet from the main shaft this vein was penetrated and the crosscut has extended through and beyond the vein and is being continued to cut the parallel Rabbit Trail vein. A south drift from this crosscut, following a course near the hanging wall of the fault vein, has exposed a body of ore that appears to be of large dimensions, having been opened for a width of twelve feet at one point, and has been yielding assays in gold, copper and silver, many of which are near the shipping grade. The vein has never been explored at depth this far north and the fact is significant that large bodies of good milling ore were found on the 120-foot level, at a corresponding section of the vein.

RED HILL FLORENCE.

Three raises are being driven from the 500-foot level of the Red Hill Florence, two near the hanging wall and one near the center of the big lode, and are showing strong seams of good ore. One of these raises has made a particularly good showing and the ore at this point seems likely to open into a deposit of commercial grade and size. The property is being developed in a comprehensive manner, with a large force of men and with the aid of an excellent surface plant.

JUMBO JUNIOR.

From the main north drift on the 880-foot level the Jumbo Junior Company is sinking a winze, following the dip of the vein, and has exposed an ore shoot that is now showing two feet of ore averaging $101 per ton in gold and copper. This ore is now being broken for shipment. The point at which this ore is exposed is within territory leased from the adjoining Kewanas and about 100 feet north of the joint boundary. Near this point a raise is also being driven and after progressing too far from the wall is again coming into the ore shoot and showing good ore.

GREAT BEND MINE.

Regular shipments of high-grade ore have continued from the Great Bend mine, where a product of excellent average grade has been showing on both the 160 and 300-foot levels for a considerable distance. Smelter returns for the last two or three carloads shipped have been on a basis of from $72 to $78 per ton and it is indicated that the company's profits for the month of July will reach a substantial figure. Constant improvement has been reported in the condition of the mine, which is now making the second most valuable production in the Goldfield district.

GRANDMA CONSOLIDATED.

At a depth of about 430 feet the main shaft of the Grandma Consolidated is showing a marked change in the character of the formation and apparently is entering the latite, in which most of the rich ore bodies of the district have been found. The last few rounds have shown what appears to be an altered andesite and above this were some small intrusions of broken shale, but no dacite has appeared. The change is regarded by Consulting Engineer Turner and other authorities as pointing to the possibility of cutting an ore-bearing zone at any time, but the present plans of the company contemplate sinking without interruption to the shale contact zone.

NEW MILLING PLANT.

Nevada Rand Mining Company Decides Upon Construction Following Thorough Examination and Survey of the Mine by Expert Engineer.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RAND (Nev.) Aug. 3.—The Nevada Rand Mining Company has definitely decided on the construction of a milling plant, following a thorough examination and survey of the mine by S. H. Montgomery, mining engineer. Sufficient ore is on the dumps to more than pay for the projected plant, with a large tonnage of excellent gold-silver ore exposed on the 150, 180, and lower levels. Recent work has fully doubled the tonnage of profitable ore, and developments on the 450 level indicates the rich 150 level ledge will be soon intersected.

The ore runs into high-grade at several points, and the management is confident the property is destined to become one of the heavy producers of Nevada. Because of the high expense attendant on shipping, it has been decided to save all ore of shipping grade for mixture with the milling product.

Considerable shipping ore is now exposed in the principal workings of the Queen Regent Merger, and Manager J. G. Kerr expects to commence shipments in the near future. Work continues largely centered on the 500 level, but aggressive developments will be prosecuted from the new 600 station soon. Eastern people are heavily interested.

Two shafts are being forced down to the ore deposits of the Copper Mountain by the Jumbo Extension Company and important discoveries in No. 2 shaft are anticipated soon. Shipping of ore has been discontinued pending completion of present work. The ore occurs as a series of parallel veins in a contact of lime and monzonite.

TO HUNT PETROLEUM.

Amalgamated is Building Rig for a Test Well on Twelve Hundred Acres Just East of City's Limits, Near End of Brooklyn Avenue.

The Amalgamated Oil Company has commenced the erection of a rig for its first test well on 1200 acres just east of the city limits on Boyle Heights. The site of the well is near the end of Brooklyn avenue. The land is leased from the Huntington Land and Water Company. The terms of the lease have not been given out, but it is known that the owning company had talked to would-be leasers of one-seventh royalty and a big bonus.

The land is within the region where the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company has acquired some 2000 acres of prospective lands. It is within a mile or so of the old Dollar well, drilled to more than 3000 feet some years ago.

SAN DIEGO WOMAN BENEFITS.

Owner of Buckeye Mine in Colorado to Enjoy Rich Find.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DURANGO (Colo.) Aug. 3.—Mrs. F. E. Williams, of San Diego, Cal., who has owned the Buckeye mine of the Lake City (Colo.) district for the past ten years has come into what promises to be one of the greatest mines of the State, through the discovery of W. E. Mendenhall, of Lake City. Ore valued at $58,000 a ton has been opened on the Buckeye situated within a mile and a half of Lake City and within plain sight of the town. The find brings to a happy ending a search that has been going on for forty years to locate the source of the rich float found in the vicinity of the Buckeye. Mendenhall, who has a bond and lease on the property, will probably exercise his rights and take it over. The find created a stampede as the richness of the ore is equal to anything opened in that section and is of the same character which caused the first rush in the San Juna country nearly fifty years ago. The ore is in place and the returns, so far, by two different assayers give values of 2080 ounces in silver and 940 ounces in gold; and 2050 ounces in silver and 2740 ounces in gold respectively. The strike is one of the three richest ever made in southwestern Colorado the other two being the Golden Fleece and the Golden Wonder. The new find in the Buckeye promises to be as far reaching and remunerative as either of these two mines which ranked with the world's producers of fabulously rich high-grade.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

You are politely requested to submit samples carefully wrapped and tagged, with letter accompanying stating what tests are desired. Make samples of small size. There is no necessity for big chunks. Correspondents offering matter for analysis with card, or scrap of paper, intended to show that the stuff is from Jim Jones, for instance, with no marks of identification on samples, will, hereafter, receive no attention whatever.

Pseudomorphic.

WESTWOOD, July 17.—Q.: I am sending you today seven samples, and I surely will appreciate your opinion on same. All from Lassen county, Cal., near Westwood. Nos. 1 and 2 from the same location; any copper or silver indications? No. 3, what kind of ore is this for copper? Nos. 4 and 5, some two miles easterly from Nos. 1 and 2; copper? Nos. 6 and 7, from same locality as 4 and 5, but a different ledge. The latter-named ledge runs southeast and northwest, and 4 and 5 seems to run north and south. I do not expect assays of the samples, but want your opinion on them. I think there is a big copper belt here, and the ores may run a little in gold and silver in some places.

C

A.: The samples are greatly altered ones. At one time the ledges were chiefly iron, zinc, lead sulphides, in greater or lesser percentages, and of pegmatite (quartz with feldspar) matrix. No. 1 sample is low grade copper-iron and manganese. Copper 2.2 per cent. No. 2 is porphyritic rock, and greatly altered; pyrite traces, iron-manganese oxides; zinc low per cent. No. 3, copper-iron silicate and carbonate; copper present, 4.2 per cent. No. 4 is altered porphyritic rock, with much limonitic matter in the mass, and in part pseudomorph after pyrite Nos. 6 and 7 are in too small quantities for satisfactory tests; they are chiefly of various iron-manganese oxides; microscopical pyrite; copper present; traces of zinc-lead, and should be further analyzed.

Rather Odd.

LAS VEGAS (Nev.) July 17.—Q.: I am sending you, through The Times, by parcel post, two samples. One specimen is of a rock, red in color, and incased in lime carbonate. I am sending them in one package, as they both come out of a large ledge. Thanking you in advance for the determination. D.

A.: There are good grounds for the statement that the Las Vegas, Nev., mining district has the earmarks of being a producer of useful mineral substances, and this fact has been known for years. Peculiar zinc, lead and copper ores are there found, which should be further exploited by minute and analyses. It is true the alunite deposits of the section are not of high grade quality. Your sample is a mechanical mixture of a granular lime carbonate, chiefly, and containing sulphates which should be further tested in quantity. In this lime carbonate solid masses of pink calcite are found. A peculiar formation of matter, indeed.

Altered Rock.

POMONA, July 17.—Q.: Please give composition of sample of rock under separate cover. It comes from a ledge near here. Is it of value? H.

A.: Of doubtful value. In the blackish-green substance pyrozene and traces of chlorite appear, with iron oxides, tourmalines of no value, quartz, dolomite, and not further tested.

Soluble Potash Absent.

ELSINORE, July 18.—Q.: I am sending you some specimens of rock found in ledge form on which I would like to have your advice, as to composition and uses. C.

A.: It is a hard proposition to advise you on such samples of silicates represented by the rock in question. There is some altered vesicular trachyte in the mass, and you have submitted one of the samples to heat of 2000 deg. F. This fire test shows iron present in the samples, which fact alone would handicap the material as of value in the porcelain industry. Qualitatively the samples are silicates of lime, alumina and magnesia. It is to be regretted that further tests cannot be made. The samples are not of an encouraging nature, however.

Selenite.

WINSLOW (Ariz.) July 18.—Q.: We are sending you under separate cover one sample of (apparently) mica. There is quite a bit of it in the sand formation on the desert, and most peculiar of all, it oozes out of crevices in same stone. Kindly let us have your oracle on the subject. Thanking you, we are. E.

A.: The only "oracle" about this department of The Times is to be of service and good-will to each and every one of its correspondents.

The sample is a mass of quartzitic (sand) matter, in low percentage, carrying 'slabs' of crystallized gypsum (selenite,) and granular gypsum slightly contaminated with iron. Why not prospect the locality further? There is a possibility that a plant could be installed there, and "plaster of Paris" burnt for commercial uses, if not too far from railroad.

Four Samples.

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—Q.: Please classify the samples herewith sent you and oblige. N.

A.: No. 1 is fairly good manganese dioxide with lime present. Prospect for higher grade mineral. No. 2 is conglomerate ("pudding stone,") with lime carbonate and limonite (hydrous iron peroxide.) No. 3 is on the order of No. 2 with more limonite (botryoidal variety,) and fair ore for paint purposes. No. 4 is limestone coated, in part, with microscopical quarts.

Base Ores.

KELSO, July 19.—Q.: Please inform me what I have in samples I am sending you under separate cover. I have a vein about two feet wide in a hole some twenty feet deep. Assays show silver and lead. Please let me know if this carries other metal of value. S.

A.: The matrix of samples is chiefly a variety of hematite (micaceous iron.) Graphite low per cent. Zinc-arsenic and sulphur present. Manganese traces.

Stalactite.

BEAUMONT, July 19.—Q.: I am sending you this specimen for you to determine its nature. They are very peculiar, and there is quite a large deposit of them. They come in an altered rock formation, and some of them are round, like marbles, and all of them have the peculiar, shiny crystals in center. Are they of any value? Thanking you sincerely for past favors, MRS. B.

A.: There is value in the substances named by you. The round samples are probably Geodes. The specimen is a small stalactite of lime carbonate with some quartz crystals of microscopic size. Some authors claim that chalcedony never occurs crystallized, but they might change their opinion if this variety of stalactite were examined.

Carbonate and Sulphide.

TRONA, July 20.—Q.: I am sending you some samples from the Slate Range. Please give me a published report thereon. C.

A.: The large sample is spongiform quartz, with limonitic (iron) oxide; zinc-lead more or less present, and like material should be assayed for gold. The small specimen carries some cerussite (lead carbonate,) and zinc is present.

One Platinum Color.

WALDO (Or.) July 19.—Q.: I am sending by parcels post some black sand. Kindly inform me what it contains. C.

A.: 92 per cent. magnetite; ilmenite, quartz, mica and trace of Monazite.

Fahlers.

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—Q.: We will thank you to analyze this ore and tell us what there is in it. With the blowpipe we get gold, silver and lead. We also get, in panning the ore, something that floats on top of the water, and it looks like molybdenum. It is decomposed by nitric acid, and by testing the ore with the named acid, in a tube, we get a green solution; what is it? Would this green solution indicate nickel or tin? The ore that is submitted to you is taken from a six-foot vein and represents an average taken across the ore body. Kindly let us know just what minerals we have, and please test for gold, silver, lead, molybdenum, nickel and tin. S.

A.: The results of your tests plainly show that the ore is base, and tetrahedrite (the zinc-penalty ore) is present.

Politely be it stated that molybdenum does not occur native, and that element (tin and nickel) are, all three of them, absent.

The matter floating on water in panning is made up of sulphides, and pyrrhotite (the usual nickel-iron sulphide) is not present in any sample.

Lead-zinc more or less present, and for fire assays on gold and silver you are politely referred to assayers.

The samples are low grade and base ores; copper present in low percentage. Antimony, arsenical and iron sulphides present.

Two Samples.

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.) July 21.—Q.: Under separate cover I am sending you some samples, which please make an assay of same and send returns of assays c.o.d., which will be paid at once. S.

A.: No. 1 is quartz with black tourmaline (Schorl.) No. 2 is mica schist. This department of The Times makes no charges to correspondents for services offered or rendered, but fire assays for gold and silver are not within the purview of this column.

Molybdenum Absent.

NOGALES (Ariz.) July 21.—Q.: I am sending under separate cover two samples for classification. Sample No. 1 for molybdenum sulphide, copper and vanadium. Sample No. 2 for same. Kindly give me the minerals contained in each. C.

A.: The samples are very base ores. No. 1 carries silickensilides and graphite; iron copper, zinc, lead more or less present. Both samples can properly be classified as Fahlers.

Quartz.

LEBEC, July 21.—Q.: Please let me know the value, if any, in the two pieces of rock I send you. A.

A.: No. 1 sample is quartz, with other variety of quartz (chalcedony) as coating. No. 2 is chiefly silica; dolomite a trace. You should find a market for the silica providing you have sufficient tonnage of grade like the sample.

Epidote.

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—Q.: The within sample is from a vein in Arizona, and it is supposed to be vanadate of lead. Would you kindly classify it and oblige? V.

A.: Lead present in very low percentage.

UNITED EASTERN COMPANY MAILS DIVIDEND CHECKS

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OATMAN (Ariz.) Aug. 5.—Dividend checks were mailed out to 1000 stockholders of the United Eastern Mining Company on Monday of this week. These checks called for 5 cents a share for all the stock outstanding July 14. Along with the checks was a letter from President Philip Wiseman, reviewing the events of the past six months and giving a detailed statement of the result of the company's operations as already published in The Times.

July was the United Eastern's best month so far as the gross value of ore milled was concerned. The tonnage was about the same as in previous months, but values were higher.

The main working shaft of the Eastern has been lowered 150 feet below the 665-foot level and a station is being cut there, preparatory to crosscutting to the vein at some later time. The shaft will be sunk 150 feet further and a crosscut will be first run from that level. If the vein continues to dip towards the shaft, the crosscut on the lower level will only be about one-half as long as that on the 800-foot level.

At the Big Jim, connections have now been made with the Tom Reed workings, both on the 400 and the 485-foot levels. Drifts are being advanced to the north and west from the Big Jim shaft, into virgin territory. Good results are being achieved.

Developments at the Telluride and the Sunnyside continue to monopolize the attention of the camp. At the Telluride, a crosscut is being advanced directly towards the ore body explored on the 535-foot level. This crosscut is about fifty feet below where the high-grade ore was first opened up. Within two weeks this ore should be reached at the present level.

A thorough exploration of the 400-foot level of the Sunnyside has been determined upon by the management of the company. The drift will be continued as far as ore is found, crosscuts will be run, and a winze sunk on the ore at a favorable location. If results continue as favorable as they have been, it is probable that a new shaft may be sunk near the present ore body to a depth of 500 or 600 feet.

Supt. E. M. Rabb of the Tom Reed reports that the new ore treating considerably more than tons daily, the average for July 347 tons, in spite of over loss of time through power This is by far the greatest of ore ever milled by the and it is probable that complete report of operation the month is available, it shown that the bullion produ ceeded any month's record f past two years.

The Aztec vein is now opened up by raises from foot level to the 400-foot level raises are also being run fr 400-foot level to the Black level east of the Aztec shaft. In addition to the specimen found in the Telluride, there been provided by some over picture rock from the Aztec. While this high grade is not along a narrow seam, it is of the finest found in the However, this does not mean the wrinse is all in this kind of Results there are very nevertheless.

No new developments are from the Oatman United, where crosscut is going through the to the west of the shaft, feet. This ledge is evidently width and it will be thoroughly explored.

At the United Oatman preparations are being made two crosscuts in diagonally directions when a depth of has been reached, probably three weeks. This property cated east of the Boundary and has no connection with the man United, though the sim of names is confusing.

Tonopah Extension.

SHOWS GAIN IN EARNINGS WHEN SILVER IMPROVES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) Aug. 3.—The first of the big companies to show a decided gain in earnings as a result of the improved silver situation is the Tonopah Extension which discloses a gain of 40 per cent. in the earnings of June over the previous month. This company owns the deepest mine in the southern country, but has been handicapped by the fact that its deep workings have been filled with water through the neglect of the power company to furnish the proper service to keep the pumps going at critical times. The earnings of the Extension for June were $42,694 compared with $30,021 for May. The number of dry tons milled in June was 9935 with an extraction of 1228 ounces of gold and 122,234 ounces of silver showing a higher average value per ton for the ore than the previous month, which, with the enhancement in the value of silver, is responsible for the improvement noted. Cutting the station at the lowest level in camp is going ahead and to make this station double the size of the ordinary stops in shafts carries with it the implied fact that this will soon be one of the largest and most important shipping points from the mine. A crosscut is to be projected in a southerly direction to tap the Murray vein on its dip toward the Victor shaft and another crosscut will be sent out on the opposite side to the north to explore the fourteen-foot vein encountered in the shaft some months ago while sinking. The Extension owns nearly a mile of ground north of the Victor shaft. Beyond that is a large area in which Los Angeles capital is interested so the progress of the north crosscut will be watched with great interest by these owners who have close relations with the Tonopah Extension.

The Belmont shipped $142,058 worth of bullion during the week as the result of the clean-up for the first half of the month and the Tonopah Mining Company also shipped $56,100 in bullion. The Belmont report takes in the bullion product of the Jim Butler, which comes from the Belmont mill at Millers, while the Belmont proper extracts all its own values at the Tonopah plant. Conjecture is rife concerning the attitude of the Belmont in withdrawing its diamond drills from the eastern end of the territory which has been undergoing exploration for the past six months. No one is able to learn if the results are satisfactory or not, but the fact that the Belmont permitted three of its options in that quarter to lapse is taken as proof that at least certain areas were not regarded as worth keeping or spending more money on in the search for trachyte. The drills have been transferred to a new field southwest of the Ophir King, an old property that was acquired by the Jim Butler about a year ago. The stockholders of the Jim Butler and the Belmont are almost identical and the companies operate close together so what will benefit one set of stockholders will also prove lucrative to the other corporation. One of the drills has been dropped into the Ophir King shaft, where it will be used to determine the underlying formation before any extensive plans of development are broached. The work is under direction of Clyde Jackson, who arrived here only a few days ago from San Diego. He is an old Tonopah mining engineer, who was identified with this camp from the earliest days and retired to other fields after sustaining injuries that incapacitated him for some time.

More extensive development is being planned on the big vein in the California claim of the West End Company operated through the Ohio shaft. Crosscuts and raises are serving to block out the ore and the stopes that were started from the original raises continue to furnish very satisfactory tonnage. Raise 517 is now in ore, having struck the ledge last Thursday. Connections have been finally made between 514 winze and the old 800 raise, which latter is being timbered up with the intention of starting an intermediate level from the raise. A new air line between the Ohio and the West End shafts has been completed and a receiver is expected to arrive in a few days when it will be possible to utilize more drills on Ohio ground and bring forth an increased tonnage. Halifax, controlled by the West End, has about completed the back-filling and will resume shipments some time early in August.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

Latest reports are to the effect that both the wholesale and jobbing trades are now feeling the effects of the uncertainties that confront them; on the one hand, the public is beginning to count its pennies and call for substitutes for commodities that have been raised to impossible heights; on the other, the government is investigating costs of production with an eye to the regulation of prices for its own as well as for the public's needs. All this is making for hesitation, and is an indication that we are on the peak of an unprecedented prosperity. The next period in the cycle of trade is that of readjustment, and readjustment in the long run usually means lower prices. Credit expansion all over the world has been on an enormous scale. The fear of inflation will, however, act as a back-log on our financial system, and this, coupled with the great demands on investment capital, and the increasing cost of producing gold, will tend to raise money rates.

FIELDS VERY ACTIVE.

Many Rigs Going Up and Oil Wells Going Down in the Thirty-mile Stretch of Land Between McKittrick and Lost Hills Territory.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

M'KITTRICK, Aug. 5.—At various points along the more than thirty-mile stretch between this city and Lost Hills, embracing the McKittrick, North McKittrick front, the Belridge and Lost Hills fields, the erection of new rigs and drilling of new wells continues with the same degree of activity that has characterized these districts for many weeks.

The total production of petroleum in the McKittrick field in June exceeded 272,000 barrels, and that of the Lost Hills-Belridge field in the same month, more than 530,000 barrels. During this period the number of new wells drilling in the McKittrick district was twenty-three and in the Lost Hills-Belridge thirty-three. With the additions being rapidly made every month to the already long list of new wells in each, and the generally gratifying output of the holes, it is believed the grand total of production at the close of the present year, will for these fields, reach figures that will attract more than usual attention.

DEEP WELLS IN THE EAST.

Some of the deepest wells in the United States are to be found in California, some of them exceeding 5000 feet, yet West Virginia has distanced this figure with the Hope Natural Gas Company's well, in Harrison county, the drill having reached a depth of 7100 feet, a remarkable feature being that an eight-inch hole has been carried to the depth stated. Following the early arrival of wire cable and casing the company will case the well with eight-inch, and, commencing again, will drill a six-inch hole, the intention being to reach a depth of 8000 feet or more. The People's Gas Company, operating in Washington county, Pennsylvania, has a drilling well 7200 feet in depth, and expects to increase this by several hundred feet if deemed necessary.

JUNE COPPER OUTPUT.

Refinery production of copper during June is estimated at 200,000,000 pounds, this total including both the output of American mines and copper imported and treated at the refineries in this country. The total output of refined copper during the first six months of 1916, is estimated at 1,055,000,000 pounds. Imports of copper for the first half of the current year are given at 265,967 pounds.

Results.

WITHDRAWALS STIMULATE WILDCAT EXPLORATION.

NEAR Williams, Colusa county, the Pittsburgh-Pacific Oil Company, a corporation backed by eastern capital, is preparing to drill a wildcat well, the first ever put down in this region, where there are said to be good indications of oil extending for quite a distance in Colusa, Glenn and Yolo counties. Williams is on the Southern Pacific line running north into Oregon. Recently, an eastern expert was there making an investigation of the prospects for the Pittsburgh-Pacific Company.

Near Sacramento another test well is to be drilled by residents of the State capital, who have formed the Laguna Oil Company. There is gas found in this region, which leads some to think that there is a chance to get oil there.

Near Livermore, Alameda county, another test well is being drilled and when last heard from was down some 2000 feet. Several other prospect wells have been unsuccessfully drilled at various points in the southeast of Alameda county, among them two or three by the Standard Oil Company. The signs are such that many persons still hope for results in some part of the region.

Until now, prospecting of all these regions is held back by the better opportunities offered elsewhere. Most of the land is privately owned and as long as government lands were open in the San Joaquin Valley, there was little inducement to try prospecting on lands whose owners frequently put the price sky high. Now that the government lands in the San Joaquin Valley are no longer available on account of the withdrawals and the demand for oil has reached the highest levels in its history, prospecting in the north of the State is likely to be carried on more extensively. Within the next year or two it should be known whether or not there is any chance to get commercial oil in several northern parts of the State, where many persons have thought that it exists.

One northern region in which the existence of some oil is known is in Humboldt county, but the lack of railroads until recently has prevented any development. The Union Oil Company has held for many years oil rights on some 15,000 acres in Humboldt county, waiting for a favorable moment to test their prospects.

In Southeastern Nevada, north of Goodsprings, there is also a prospect well being drilled regarding which there is little information available beyond the report that it had recently reached a depth of 2200 feet. Rumors have reached Los Angeles that lands have been located for oil over a large area.

The bureau has been one of the government offices working hardest for the interests of the oil industry. The congress, an incorporated body, has established permanent offices in Washington in charge of Secretary J. C. Calbraith to work continuously in behalf of needed mining legislation, and it publishes at the national capital a monthly magazine in the interests of its work.

In 1910 the Mining Congress met in Los Angeles and at that time there was a movement to get the oil operators interested, but the effort was only partially successful. The work of the Bureau of Mines since that time in behalf of the industry may help to get the oil men interested in the congress.

In 1915 the congress met in San Francisco. The annual meeting this year was held in Chicago, and out of fifty-four papers read, sixteen related to oil. Heretofore the congress has had no section devoted especially to oil and this may have kept down interest among oil men. It is the intention to establish a section at once if the oil men become sufficiently interested.

Treatise.

CONSERVATION NEEDS SHOWN.

Oil Situation Presented by Bureau of Mines.

Supply for Only Twenty-five Years is in Sight.

Wasteful Practices Decried in Forthcoming Book.

One of the most prominent places in the forthcoming book of the United States Bureau of Mines is given to the report of petroleum production and the pressing need for conservation of oil supplies. In this report a probable future production of 7,402,000,000 barrels of oil is estimated from known and prospective oil lands.

The following extracts from this work give an idea of the tremendous problems confronting the petroleum industry today:

"At our present rate of consumption our estimated supplies are sufficient to meet our present needs for a comparatively short period, conservatively estimated to be from twenty-five to thirty years, taking no account of the increasing demand for petroleum and its product. This estimate not only includes the oil fields already known and developed, but makes liberal allowances for undiscovered fields in prospective oil territories.

"A good measure of the accuracy of these estimates, which were made more than a year ago by the Geological Survey, is the development for crude petroleum, and more territory was prospected and more wells were drilled in search of petroleum in the midcontinent fields than in any previous year.

"This country is producing about two-thirds of the world's production of crude petroleum and has produced approximately 2,790,000,000 barrels since the discovery of oil in 1859. Our future supply from both proved and prospective oil fields, based on geological possibilities, is estimated to be approximately 7,402,000,000 barrels, which will last us only about twenty-five years at our present rate of consumption. We are exporting 20 per cent. of our production, using approximately 25 per cent. as fuel under boilers, and of the remainder probably one-fourth is wastefully utilized. Thus 70 per cent. in all is being used in a manner that must be considered anything but conservative for so valuable and so scarce a product.

WASTE IN GAS MAKING.

"As an example of wasteful utilization, three-fourths of our artificial gas is made from petroleum, notwithstanding the fact that coal has been and is used for this purpose, and would be used altogether except for the reason that the gas manufacturer is able to buy petroleum cheaper. At the present rate of production, it is estimated that our coal supply is adequate for more than 3000 years. Clearly we should not use our petroleum for fuel under boilers or for gas manufacture, or in any way to compete with coal, when the oil supply is so limited.

"Gasoline is indispensable to our present industrial progress. At the present time there is a greater demand for gasoline than for kerosene, fuel oil, or any of the other petroleum products. There are now over 3,000,000 automobiles in use in the United States. The manufacturers are turning out approximately 2,000,000 new machines this year, and expect to increase the number each succeeding year. The average consumption for each automobile is more than ten barrels of gasoline a year, and it is estimated that this country will need more than 2,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline for the year 1917. Where is this gasoline coming from?

"The situation can be partly met by converting some of the less valuable products of crude oil into gasoline. The Bureau of Mines early realized the importance of this conversion and during the past year one of its chemical engineers, Dr. Walter F. Rittman, discovered a cracking process by which gasoline, as well as benzine, toluene and other desirable products can be made from kerosene and other crude oil distillates. Other cracking processes have been invented, but they have been privately owned and not readily available to the small refiner. The Bureau of Mines plans to make the Rittman process available to every user, under conditions protecting the public's interest, not only in the original process, but in all improvements in connection with it.

LARGER OUTPUT.

"It is estimated that during 1915, 2,000,000 barrels of gasoline was made by cracking processes, some refineries obtaining as high as 35 per cent. of gasoline from some oils. During the year 1916, it is estimated that 5,000,000 barrels of gasoline will have been made from oil that in the past did not enter into the making of gasoline.

"The Bureau of Mines, for a number of years, realized the importance of taking steps to introduce methods by which wells may be drilled more economically and with less waste of oil and gas, to increase the amount of oil that may be extracted from an ordinary formation, and above all, to conduct investigation that will bring about a greater efficiency in the utilization of this precious commodity. To carry on work along these lines, the petroleum division of the Bureau of Mines was organized, and up to July 1, 1917, had spent about $100,000 in this work."

ORE IS HIGH-GRADE.

Rich Adams Vein has been Intersected on Nine Hundred-foot Level of Mine and Shows Same Fine Silver-Gold it did Farther up.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ROCHESTER (Nev.) Aug. 3.—The rich Adams vein has been intersected on the 900-foot level of the Rochester mine and is showing the same high-grade silver-gold ore that characterized it on the 800. The drift has advanced several feet in ore, showing a width of four feet, with the product estimated to average $100 per ton, or better. The strike has demonstrated the persistent character of the Adams ledge, the greatest ore body thus far found in the Rochester district, and drifting is advancing from the 1750 level to develop the ore body about 200 feet below its present proven depth.

On the 800 level the east drift has opened the ore body for a width of more than twenty feet, with no sign of the opposite wall. The ore averages thirty ounces of silver and $16.60 gold per ton. Drifting to the north from the 100 level continues to open milling ore in virgin territory, and the physical condition of the property is showing steady improvement at all points. So satisfactory have recent developments been that the management is confident the total yield for July will be at least $50,000. The vein on the 900 is full of chlorides and black sulphides, strongly indicative of persistent high-grade values to much greater depth.

The Rochester Combined Company has started grading for an electric railway to be used in transporting ore from mine to the 300-ton mill, now under construction. A huge 200-horse-power compressor was placed in commission at the mine last week, and with the compressors already in service, enables developments to be prosecuted with greatest practicable vigor. The Happy Jack shaft has been carried to a point twelve feet below the 100 level, where a station has been cut and extensive lateral work begun. The ledge is showing steady improvement as work advances.

Two raises from the Working tunnel, on Shepherd ground, are in excellent ore, No. 1 being up 100 feet and No. 2 fifty feet. A raise is being pushed to the surface from No. 3 Shepherd tunnel, which will improve ventilation, besides blocking out a heavy tonnage of good ore. The Maynaugh tunnel has advanced 500 feet from the portal, and the winze from the Kromer tunnel is down fifty feet in ore of splendid grade.

CLAIM CONTAMINATION.

Pearson J. Wells and Hubbard F. Bannard, owners of land in Sunset Beach, Saturday filed with the State Railroad Commission a joint complaint against the South Coast Improvement Company asking the commission to compel the company to properly protect its wells and sources of water supply from impurities, to build an elevated tank for proper pressure, and to place its system in good order. Messrs. Wells and Bannard say that the system has been allowed to deteriorate.

BUSINESS TALKS TO WOMEN.

BY ELLEN LANE SPENCER, Author of "The Efficient Secretary."

Do You Believe in Your Employer's Business?

Most of us who have held several positions in our business careers can remember some office into which we dreaded each morning to go because we were not conscientiously satisfied that the business was all that it should be.

There are a large percentage of businesses in which the employees do not believe, and yet which hold these employees because they have not sufficient will power to leave.

Are you in such a position?

Do you feel that the line your employer is selling or pushing or manufacturing is all that he wishes to have the buying public believe it is?

Or, have you doubts as to the absolute honesty of the proposition your employer is offering to the public?

Opinions on this subject widely diverge. My own opinion is that if one knows or even feels that his or her employer's business is not absolutely 100 per cent. on the level though it may be strictly according to law, that employee can never do himself or herself justice no matter how easy the individual tasks may be.

Many of us are drawn into slightly shady propositions before we know their character. The fault lies not in getting into them. It consists of failing to get out without wasting any time, once their true character is known. For this we have conscience, something just as useful in business as in private life.

OPERATORS TO MEET.

Oil Men Will Convene Tomorrow at State Mining Bureau's Offices to Decide Upon Methods of Election of District Commissioners.

An informal meeting of oil operators has been called by State Mineralogist Hamilton, at the offices of the State Mining Bureau tomorrow.

Methods and details of conducting the election of district oil commissioners will be discussed. The State officials are charged with the duty of arranging the election and desire expressions of opinion as to providing ballots and election officers. The State officials will take no part in choosing candidates.

All persons paying assessment under the oil protection law are urged to be present.

SUPERIOR DISTRICT HAS MANY VALUES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SUPERIOR (Ariz.) Aug. 3.—The local district, especially celebrated for copper, has other values. Zinc and other metals have been found in the Magma, while silver is present in many properties, with reminiscent reference to the fame of the old Silver King. Latterly there has been keen interest in the discovery that value attaches to great deposits of manganese that have been cut in a number of shafts. For instance, in the Magmatic the 109-foot station is in thirty feet of ore that runs 17 per cent. manganese and 34 per cent. iron, with the real dimensions of the body unknown. This is a condition that is not unusual in the district, though the ore as a rule is below the 35 per cent. demanded for commercial deliveries. The material is very heavy, however, and can be concentrated readily, as is being done at Tombstone, as the big mill of the Bunker Hill company now is working exclusively on manganese, as more profitable than gold, silver or copper. Manganese of very high quality also is being shipped from the Copper Queen and Calumet and Arizona properties in Bisbee, while rich deposits of the metal have been found near Aguila in northwestern Maricopa county.

NEW SHUT OFF METHOD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, Aug. 5.—Considerable interest has been aroused in the local oil field over a new method of shutting off water that is to be tried out by the Fullerton Great West Oil Company. The plan is to run an 8 1-4-inch liner in the well and cement off the water with the liner. The experiment will be made unless the State Oil and Gas Commissioner refuses to indorse the method.

SHIP WITHDRAWALS CAUSE OF ALARM.

IMPORTS OF FERROMANGANESE VISIBLY AFFECTED.

British Take Vessels from South American Waters and Both the Copper and Steel Industries Feel the Effects—Council of Defense Considers Matter.

The withdrawal of many British boats from South American waters, because of the recent German submarine ravages against ships in the Atlantic service, is a serious blow to the South American Pacific Coast copper industry, and also intensifies the alarm felt here about the ability of the United States to obtain this year an ample supply of ferro-manganese—which is essential to open-hearth steel making—to keep up the production of crude steel at the rate of 40,000,000 to 45,000,000 tons annually.

The Alloy Committee of the Council of National Defense, after an apparently unsatisfactory interview with the British Ambassador at Washington, has sent out a letter to consumers of ferro-manganese urging the conservation of the manganese supply by substituting spiegeleisen wherever possible, and giving specific directions to encourage the use of spiegel, which is a low-grade manganese alloy.

New York importers report increasing difficulty to secure British government permits for the shipment of manganese to this country, and arrivals of the English alloy in the last three months have been reduced 50 per cent. from the importation during the first four months of the year. A part of this decrease is due to the torpedoing of boats carrying English manganese.

The Alloy Committee of the government some time since estimated that this country will require a ferro-manganese supply of 26,000 tons per month this year, or a total supply of 336,000 tons. This estimate seems to be based upon a steel production of 45,000,000 to 50,000,000 tons this year, but present indications are that the production of steel ingots in 1917 will be nearer 40,000,000 than 45,000,000 tons, although there has been an increase in active productive steel capacity, because of the failure of the transportation system to give adequate service to the industry. The main difficulty has been deficiency in coke supply because of too few cars to move steadily the fuel needed by the furnaces.

Last year Great Britain sent ferro-manganese to this country at the rate of 7500 tons per month. During the first four months of this year, importations averaged 6000 tons per month, but in May arrivals dropped to 2187 tons, and the June income was about 3000 tons. July arrivals will probably be scarcely 2000 tons. This makes total importations since January 1 of nearly 23,000 tons. The indication is that during the balance of this year importations are likely to decrease rather than otherwise, but if 3000 tons per month from England can be counted upon, the total importations during 1917 will be about 48,000 tons; whereas, 96,000 tons would be required in accordance with the estimates of the Alloy Committee of the Council of National Defense.

GLORY CLAIMS APEX.

But Whitecap Officials Invite Them to Demonstrate their Contention; President and General Manager are Added to Directors' Board of Company.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MANHATTAN (Nev.) Aug. 3.—The annual meeting of the White Caps Company resulted in but one change, that of adding the president and general manager to the board of directors. This places John G. Kirchen where he will have a voice in the meetings, and remedies the anachronism of a president not being included in the directorate. The company formally announces that the new roaster and mill will start on their formal opening in August, when it is believed work will proceed without a hitch. The cutting of the fifth station from the working shaft is proceeding, and the rounds are being drilled both north and south. A pump site is being started on the north side of the station. The mine ore bins are being filled, and lateral development will be stopped for a short period to fill all the receiving bins, which call for a production of 700 tons. The ore is being broken from all three raises at present on the third level. After the mill starts the next important work will be to enlarge the working shaft to a double compartment from the surface to the second level, where the work has been done from the old single, to a further depth of 263 feet as a double compartment. Now the entire shaft will be made to conform to lower depth.

Morning Glory has been discussing the possibility of holding an apex on the Caps from their No. 3 shaft, and E. R. Wiley, the geologist, has been engaged for two weeks sizing up the situation. The Glory management contends that it has 1200 feet of ground on the Caps ledge which is alleged to apex in the shallow shaft of the Glory, but it is not taken seriously that any expert would render an opinion committing himself one way or another when there was nothing more than a fifty-fot hole in which to form deductions. In the suit of the Jim Butler and West End in Tonopah, Mr. Wiley refused to express an opinion until after the companies had consented to perform over $30,000 of straight development under his direction to determine the strike and dip of the famous ledge. The Morning Glory directors insist they have an indubitable apex, while the White Caps officials invite them to demonstrate their contention. The possibility of an apex from this source has been common gossip for some time, but the weight of opinion favors the Caps side, as the management of that company has had extensive experience in determining apex rights and therefore should not be caught napping after expending $265,000 in erecting a mill for the purpose of treating ore that might come under the ban of the courts as to the proper subject of litigation. P. S. Booth, secretary of the company, when asked for an opinion, smiled and remarked that he would bet $5000 that if any one wanted to talk apex that the White Caps would take more ore out of the Morning Glory than the Morning Glory would ever take out of the ground in which it is alleged extra lateral rights exist.

TWO WELLS BROUGHT IN.

By Doheny-Pacific Oil Company at Casmalia.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug. 5.—At Casmalia two new wells have been brought in by the Doheny-Pacific Oil Company, each with an average daily production of 500 barrels of 18 gravity. This is the highest grade of oil reported in the new field. The first oil discovered at Casmalia a few months ago was very low grade, the gravity going 9 and 10 deg. Later a well was brought in producing 13 gravity oil.

In the same district the Union Oil has just brought in a well on the Escolle lease, a part of the old Pinal-Dome property, recently taken over by the Union. This well is good for 500 barrels per day.

JULY'S OUTPUT BEST.

State Mining Bureau Experts Are Conducting Series of Tests to Decide Extent of Losses in Reduction of Quicksilver Ore.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug. 4.—C. N. Schuette and George M. Libby, representatives of the State Mining Bureau, are at the Oceanic quicksilver mine near Cambria, where they are conducting a series of tests to determine the nature and extent of losses in the reduction of the ore. It will require another week of their time to complete their tests. Supt. Carron at the mine has stated that the ouput for the month of July was the greatest for any single month in eleven years' time. More ore and better ore is becoming accessible. A number of new ore chutes are being put in and a drainage tunnel is being built, to divert the water from winter rains which might find its way into the mine. Quicksilver is now quoted at $100 per flask, having risen lately from $75, the lowest mark in the past year.

BERTHA MANN CHANGES.

POPULAR STAR SIGNS WITH KLAW & ERLANGER.

By Grace Kingsley.

A surprise was handed theatrical circles yesterday when it was announced by Joseph Montrose, general western manager for Klaw & Erlanger, that Bertha Mann, the popular leading woman of the Morosco Theater, had been signed as leading woman with the western K. & E. company.

The first play in which Miss Mann will make her appearance under the new management will be "Here Comes the Bride," the new Atwell-Marcin comedy shortly to be seen here. Later, Miss Mann will be seen in Sydney Rosenfeld's play, "Under Pressure," in a part ideally suited to her, it is said. In signing Miss Mann, Mr. Montrose expresses himself as feeling that he has secured one of the most promising young stars in the theatrical firmament.

Klaw & Erlanger have also corralled two-thirds of the noted Arbuckle family for their production of "Here Comes the Bride." Maclyn Arbuckle has been engaged for the New York production of the comedy, appearing in the role which his brother Andrew will create in the West.

Miss Dresser in Two-a-day.

Louise Dresser, who is now in Los Angeles, spending the summer with her husband, Jack Gardner, the picture and vaudeville actor, it is announced by the Orpheum management, will probably soon open an Orpheum tour in this city.

Kismet Note.

While that talented youngster, Harold Goodwin, may not have been born with a silver spoon in his mouth, at least he certainly was born with a rabbit's foot round his neck.

Harold is the youth who hit the bullseye with his small boy role in "The Sawdust Ring" at Clune's Auditorium last week. Now the story comes out that, when he had finished in that picture he wasn't thought to have done much, and the Triangle let him go. He silently gave up his actor hopes, and accepted a positon in a shoe store. Last Saturday night he quit his shoe-house job, with no less than four offers from film companies in his pocket. Kismet.

See Charlie Tonight.

Charlie Ruggles and the remainder of the Morosco company, which will produce "Just a Suggestion," at the Majestic Theater tonight, is working on the last rehearsal thereof today. The author, Harold Selman, is assisting Director Butler at rehearsals.

Superba.

Just how an assortment of people from different walks of life would deport themselves if suddenly transported back into primitive conditions of life, is naturally a spicy question. That clever satirist, Waldemar Young, assisted by Lynn Reynolds, has built a story around the subject which merrily rips the bells at every shot.

"The Show Down' is the name of the story, and it is exemplified by such film favorites as Myrtle Gonzales, George Hernandez, Arthur Hoyt, George Chesbro and others.

In the beginning, Arthur Hoyt—looking in his philanthropist sidewhiskers like a misplaced butler—talks a lot about wanting to save the world, while an author of the best seller, "Back to the Primitive," tells the lady reporters how he longs for the "trackless ways of the jungle;" the "iron man of Wall street," hated and feared by everybody, doesn't say a word about what he'd do on a desert island—but you feel he'd take it away from the natives and push them into the ocean; and there's a young blood, played by George Chesebro, who is just so naturally bored to death with everything you feel sure he'd turn up his toes at the first suggestion of hardship; likewise, there's a spoiled young society beauty that you want to drown.

All these, being unacquainted with each other, embark on a steamer, which gets shipwrecked on a tropical isle in mid-Pacific, and it is here you get your big surprise. The author of "Back to the Primitive" crabs about his food and ties up his feet to pretend he can't go hunting; the philanthropist proposes to "sell out" for good food and drink to a group of the country's enemy encamped on the island; while it's the young blood and the society girl who, on learning about the enemy, jump into the only boat and seek an island forty miles distant, where there is a convenient wireless apparatus and an operator—and not much else. They communicate with Manila and get the enemy nabbed in the lair.

The story is adroitly and snappily told, and is one of the best features, from every standpoint, that Bluebird has turned out.

Clune's Broadway.

We've heard a mighty lot about "ocular opera," which is a high-sounding name for a good photo-drama. But nobody has yet said anything about "ocular musical comedy," though it certainly is in our midst, in the picture houses. There is scenery which beats the canvas stuff all to pieces; there is a constant procession of fashionable gowns; there are always a restaurant and a wonderful cabaret; and there's the music. And lastly, there's a plot that gets lost sight of every once in a while to make room for the cabaret. So there you are.

Naturally, Olive Thomas, star of the Winter Garden Frolic, suggested the above—though she really is very serious at times, at Clune's Broadway this week, and proves she can act as well as frolic.

Of course it must be a terrible jolt to the gay Olive to be cast in among such high-powered villains and devillish plotters as one finds in "An Even Break," and Olive may be little, but oh, my, she has an intellect which makes her guess the villain's plots before he has fairly made up his mind about them himself—which naturally keeps him peevish.

Olive Thomas has been declared by such authorities as Christy and Fischer to be the prettiest girl in the United States, which gives her a fine start, and she lives up to it, her piquant expressiveness and beauty being readily transferred to the screen. In this picture play, too, the author kindly makes Olive a star cabaret singer, so we can see her dance.

The story is a lively melodrama, which you won't leave until you see its last inch.

Symphony.

That Harold Lockwood is a regular tyrant-hound! When he starts out to bust a tyrant, be he a king or a labor-union leader—or, like the tyrant in "The Hidden Spring," at the Symphony this week, merely the one-cylindered autocrat of a one-horse town—he always proves himself the champion long-distance, handicap tyrant buster of the world.

"The Hidden Spring" isn't as you might suspect, a spring of water, nor a spring that lets you into a secret passageway, nor yet a bed spring; it's the spring of courage and sympathy for the underdog, and, as you have already guessed, it wells up in Harold Lockwood, who is the young hero of a mill town, where a bully had ousted the rightful mill owner from his property and ruined him. There are a lot of exciting incidents connected with putting the r. o. back on the job, but the young hero puts it over, gathering in gratitude, job and girl in the last reel.

We haven't been used to seeing Herbert Standing, that aristocratic fairy godfather of the screen, as a villain doing the rough stuff; but in "The Hidden Spring" he is the gnarly-souled, cynical old bully to perfection. And doesn't he just put the pep into that hand-to-hand fight with the cowardly retainers who turn against him!

Lester Cuneo, who goes soon to serve his country, by the way, thereby causing a real loss to the screen, is convincing as ever as the hero's friend.

"The Gray Ghost" grows grayer and grayer with mystery, and the Sidney Drew comedy is even more amusing than usual.

Palace.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead" he doesn't still adore as in his youngster days, the secret stairway, the sliding panel in the wall, the mysterious underground passage where the robber band keeps it's tools, and presumably also its extra safety razor, tooth brush and breakfast food? Of course most of us in real life do not meet with these delicious mysteries, except in the modern apartment-house — but they're the very vitals of George Randolph Chester's story of patriotism and mystery, "The Message of the Mouse," which is at the Palace this week, with the lovely Anita Stewart in the leading role.

By the by, just how those Germans ever had the nerve to provoke us to war after seeing the uncannily-clever feats of patriotism our American girls accomplish in pictures, I don't see. Miss Stewart is one of our firmest film patriots, and in "The Message of the Mouse," which is really a highly ingenious and fascinating tale, she fairly pulls the whole country out of the clutches of the enemy.

And, by the way, how did a picture director ever get that mouse to pull the piece of paper off the table, carry it upstairs and lay it plump at the heroine's feet?

An Al Christie comedy and a news feature of unusual interest complete the altogether pleasing bill.

Alhambra.

Of course everybody in the world who has ever seen "The Squaw Man" on the stage or in the picture wants to know what became of Little Hal.

You have a chance to find out at the Alhambra this week, where the sequel to that fascinating story, called "The Squaw Man's Son," is being shown. It, like the original, is by Edwin Milton Royle, and is no whit less fascinating and exciting than the first story. Wallace Reid and Anita King play the leading roles, ably supported by Donald Bowles, Mabel Van Buren, Raymond Hatton, Dorothy Davenport, C. H. Geldert, Frank Lanning and others.

Naturally little Hal, when he grows to be a man, wants to go back to the Indians. This is partly because of an instinctive call, partly because he meets with great unhappiness in that part of civilization known as England. Inevitably he meets the lovely Indian girl, educated at Carlisle and devoting herself to the uplift of her people, with whom he falls in love. Sympathy keeps him there because the Indians are being tricked out of their rights by a crooked Indian agent. Then he has to go home and be a lord, because his grandfather dies, and his wife, whom he discovers to be a dope fiend, needs his care. Various fateful happenings, however, at last lead him back to America and his Indian love.

Reid is convincing as the vigorously virtuous and noble "Hal," and Anita King gives a fine impersonation of the stoical but deeply emotional Indian girl; while Donald Bowles's limning of the ascetic, spiritual-minded, feebleebodied parson, dying slowly and uncomplainingly of consumption, as he works among the Indians, is as fine-cut as a cameo, a characterization long to be remembered and treasured as a real bit of film art.

An O. Henry story and an educational film aid in making the bill a top-notcher.

Quinn's Rialto.

One of the most striking pictures of the year is "The Crisis," from Winston Churchill's novel of the American Civil War.

In the photoplay, a conscientious effort has been most successfully made to reproduce a story dealing with one of the greatest epochs in our country's history. And the story is not only abstractly presented—it is concrete in its application. Slavery and its effects on the lives of the characters; the great war as it touched a little circle of human beings, and above all, the screen incarnation of Abraham Lincoln—these are some of the vital features of the great film story.

Lincoln is seen doing some of the things we have read about in history, public acts of moment, and in addition we are given those little intimate glimpses of the man which make him seem really ours. The late Sam Drane realized his greatest wish when allowed to play the role.

Bessie Eyton plays a sweet and charming Virginia Carvel, and Thomas Santschi gives a strong and virile interpretation of Stephen Brice. George Fawcett's characterization of Judge Silas Whipple is a masterpiece and the Col. Comyn of the late Matt B. Snyder is a remarkable bit of work.

Deeply moving as the picture was at the time of its making, it is even more so now, at this period of the nation's still greater crisis in world affairs and its own history.

Morosco.

Dr. Louis Anspacher's compelling drama, "That Day," at the Morosco, is meeting with growing success, and is proving to be one of the real hits of the Morosco season.

The story is one vital and absorbing, and it is well played by a big cast which includes Bertha Mann, Richard Dix, Joseph Eggenton, Nancy Fair, Bettie Brice and others.

Fred Butler staged the production and it has been given a most sumptuous scenic investiture.

Troops Mobilize.

of dependent wives and children or dependent parents. District No. 9 has three cases which will be hard nuts for the Federal district board to crack. They all concern men who claim exemption on the ground that they are now supporting the children of women from whom they have been divorced. In no case has the man the custody of the child in question, but he is under order from the court to contribute to its support.

MANY ENLISTMENTS.

The board in District No. 9 called 340 men last week to get its quota of 115 soldiers. Yesterday afternoon it called 100 more, and Chairman Lee Phillips says he would not be surprised if it were necessary to call a total of 550 in order to get the allotted number of men. The unusual condition which exists in this district is said to be due to the fact that at least forty men who registered in June have since joined the army or navy as volunteers. That took many of the physically fit men out of the district. The board in No. 9 is in a position to know positively how many men have asked for exemption, because it does not allow an applicant to draw exemption papers until after he has taken his physical examination.

W. H. Holabird, chairman of the District Board of Appeals, is of the belief that the number of men who are making application for exemption will be materially reduced when the eighteen local exemption boards begin reviewing the lists of excuses which are offered by the many applicants for exemption from service.

"I have been informed by the District Attorney's office that all exemptions will be automatically appealed to me," says Mr. Holabird. "This means nothing less than that no local exemption board's decision in any case will be final. The ruling appears to eliminate the possibility of a board making an exception in any case. I am unable to say when the District Board of Appeals will begin its work. There were no appeals on file Saturday."

The exemption board in District No. 4 will begin examining applicants tomorrow morning at No. 5329 Moneta avenue. The number of soldiers required is eighty-one. The call has been made for the examination of fifty men tomorrow, fifty Wednesday, sixty Thursday and fifty Friday, 210 being the number of men included in the first call.

The board of District No. 7 will hold examinations at the Wadsworth-street school tomorrow and continuously thereafter until the work is finished.

In District No. 18 there were seventy-eight men examined yesterday. Fifty-eight of them claimed exemption because of dependent wives, children or parents. Twenty expressed their willingness to become soldiers. Five were rejected because they were physically unfit. Four of them were disqualified because they had bad teeth. One of those rejected was a Scotchman who was registered as William Brown Kennedy. He said he was an alien, but that he was willing to waive his right to claim exemption on that score, because he wanted to do his share in the war. The board gladly checked him up to the examining physician, but he failed to pass, and a more disappointed men would be hard to find.

One man in the same district failed to pass the physical examination. He was excused, with the information that in due time the board would make him a certificate of exemption. He went out in the hall and imparted the glad tidings to his young wife, who had a three-months-old baby in her arms. She thought there was some mistake, because she had heard that a man had to make out a claim for exemption before being excused. The husband finally took her before the chairman and one of the judges. They gave her their word of honor that they would mail him his certificate of exemption in due time, and that Uncle Sam did not want her husband, but even then she did not believe it. She left weeping bitterly, and crying: "I don't want my husband to go to war."

The following list of men were examined Sunday in District No. 18, the start indicating those who did did not claim exemption from service:

At 8 o'clock this morning the exemption board in District No. 16, First and Chicago streets, will begin holding examinations. During the day 263 men will be looked over by the physicians and the same number will be examined each day thereafter until the quota of 392 soldiers is secured. The board has sent out a call for a total of 1500 registered men to appear before it.

The board in District No. 16 has decided to not give out any exemption application blanks by proxy. This action is announced as a move to protect registered men from persons who might otherwise make a business of securing exemptions for a price. Neither will the board require aliens to secure applications for exemption from consulates. The declaration of a man that he is an alien will be accepted if his registration card tallies with his statement.

By noon today it is expected that the entire regiment of the California Coast Artillery, recruited in Los Angeles and surrounding towns will have begun life as soldiers for Uncle Sam. While the mobilization orders called the men together at their various headquarters yesterday morning, they will not all report to the camp until today for active service. The first bugle call for mess will be sounded at the supper hour tonight. The headquarters of Col. Light and his staff was established yesterday and many of the officers were on the ground early. Several hundred men were under canvass last night.

FREE CHURCH WILL OPEN NEXT MONTH.

PRELIMINARY ORGANIZATION BEGUN AT LONG BEACH.

Pastor of Unitarian Body Who was Asked to Resign for Alleged Unpatriotic Utterances will be its Head and is Supported by Miss Fanny Bixbee.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 5.—Preliminary steps for the organizing of what will be known as the "Free Church of Long Beach," were taken here tonight at a meeting of the followers and sympathizers of the Rev. Francis Watry, pastor of the Unitarian Church of this city, who was asked to resign a short time ago for alleged unpatriotic utterances.

According to the present outlook, the new church will have a charter membership of between thirty-five and forty members. Thirty of these attended the meeting tonight to organize. There were about thirty-five members of the Unitarian Church when the recent charges were made against Dr. Watry. About half of these have deserted to join the new organization, it is said. Temporary quarters will be established in Chapel Hall, on East Third street. Meetings will be held following the first Sunday in September. Dr. Watry's resignation from his present pastorship of the Unitarian Church does not take effect until September.

Miss Fanny Bixbee and George Moyle, who are alleged to have refused to salute the flag at a recent meeting of the Unitarian Church, have joined Dr. Watry's new organization, the work of which will be undertaken by committees. Dr. Watry stated tonight he would not receive a salary. He said after the expenses of the church are paid each month he would accept what was left.

Dr. Watry announced that the Free Church of Long Beach would be founded on the following principles: To promote spiritual and intellectual culture and mutual helpfulness in the spirit of Him who went about doing good; to proclaim the Golden Rule as the supreme law of life for the individual, community and nation, and thus help to establish peace on earth and good will toward men; to further spiritual individuality through freedom, faith and fellowship.

The Livery Stable.

[Indianapolis News:] At a public sale of a livery stable's equipment at Lafayette a few days ago, some fine examples of the coach-builders' art, which a few years ago cost more than a good automobile costs today, were knocked down at $2 apiece. A sleigh—who remembers when sleighing was considered the most exhilarating of winter sports?—which cost $500, was sold for 50 cents, and a rubber-tired buggy, which cost $1000, was sold for $10. This does not mean that the buggy has been crowded off the road, for in the rural districts a great many buggies still are sold, it being suspected that for general courting purposes they are vastly superior to anything in the vehicle line yet invented.

But certainly the livery stable must by this time find business dull. Thus passes a great institution, where the wits were wont to gather and discuss horses, men, politics and crops, but especially horses. In many a small town the livery stable office was really the place to get a true insight into public opinion. The traveling men who came to engage a rig were always willing to discuss the affairs of the outside world; the farmers, who left their horses to be fed while in town, were as likely as not to loaf about the barn while their wives did the shopping, there to discuss crops and the weather, and, of course, no young man could hire a narrow-seated rig without revealing, either by his actions or his speech, the progress of his affairs of the heart.

THE TELEGRAM.

The telegram to President Wilson follows:

"The sixth annual convention of the Arizona State Federation of Labor desires to know if you intend to act in restoring law and order in Cochise county, Arizona, and return to their homes the deported men of Bisbee. Are we to assume that the Phelps-Dodge interests are superior to the principles of democracy? An answer is awaited by this convention."

President Donnelly, in his address, declared the Bisbee deportation constituted a menace to the nation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—American citizen soldiers, whether located in cantonments of the national army, mobilization centers of the National Guard, or even in France with the expeditionary forces, may vote at the fall elections if their respective States establish voting machines. Provost-Marshal-General Crowder, said tonight there was no bar to the voting of guardsmen or drafted soldiers so far as the Federal government was concerned, and that the only obstacle would be the absence of State legislation on the subject.

ADVANCING ON LENS.

British are Nearer the Coal City.

Attempt of the Germans to Raid Positions in the Arleux Defeated.

Five Invading Airplanes are Brought Down by Allies in France.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Again today the British forces operating against the important coal city of Lens made further slight advances west and southwest of their objective, according to the British official communication issued this evening. In addition an attempt by the Germans to raid British positions north of Arleux was repulsed. The communication follows:

"An enemy attempt to raid our trenches early this morning north of Arleux was caught by our rifle and machine-gun fire before reaching our line and driven off with severe casualties.

"We advanced our lines slightly today southwest and west of Lens.

"Yesterday our airplanes were able to carry out successful bombing raids and other work. Five German airplanes were downed, of which one was forced to land behind our lines. Three others were driven down out of control. One of our machines is missing."

PARIS COMMUNIQUE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 6.—The War Office communication issued this evening says:

"Both artilleries have been rather active in Champagne in the region of the Monts and on both banks of the Meuse, especially in the sectors of Avocourt and Louvemont."

"Belgian communication: 'During the night the enemy artillery was active against our communications. Gas shells were fired in the region of Ramscapelle. Some patrol fighting took place to the south of Dixmude. A few projectiles fell during the day on various parts of the front.'

"Army of the east, August 5: There was some patrol fighting in the valley of the Struma. The enemy attempted two surprise attacks, one in the Cerna Bend and the other between Lakes Presba and Ochrida. Both were repulsed. To the west of Malick an attack which started from Koriiza compelled the enemy to evacuate the heights to the south of Kacata."

GERMAN REPORTS.

BERLIN, Aug. 6 (via London.)—Strong British attacks were made yesterday against the German positions between the Ypres-Menin road and the river Lys on the Belgian front, says the official statement issued today by the German General Staff. All the attacks were repulsed.

The statement adds that several machine guns were captured from "some of the twenty-five tanks lying destroyed before our front."

HINDENBURG CONFIDENT.

BERLIN (via London) Aug. 6.—(British Admiralty per Wireless Press.) Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, in a telegram to the Imperial German Chancellor on the occasion of the fourth anniversary of the commencement of the war, says:

"Firmly consolidated in the interior and unshaken on all fronts, Germany braves the exasperating thrusts of her new enemies.

"The German army is fighting far in the enemy's country and is marching with unbroken strength to new successes. It enters the fourth year of the war supported by confidence as firm as a rock that our home spirit and united perseverance will remain alive, which is a guarantee of victory and of an honorable peace to our nation."

FROM PRINCE RUPPRECHT.

BERLIN (via London) Aug. 6.—The supplementary official statement issued this evening by German General headquarters reads:

"There were no fighting operations on a large scale in the west.

"Our troops made progress in Bukowina."

The statement reads:

"Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht: In Flanders the fighting activity by day was small for the most part. During the evening the artillery duel in some sectors attained great intensity. Strong patrol attacks by the British which were launched last night and this morning against our positions between the Ypres-Menin road and the Lys were everywhere repulsed. In the crater field with which we are well acquainted, our storming troops carried out successful enterprises. Numerous prisoners were brought in. Several machine guns were salved from some of the twenty-five tanks lying destroyed before our front.

"With the other armies the fighting activity was limited throughout the day to scattered fire. In the evening the activity increased between La Bassee Canal and Scarpe as well as on the Chemin des Dames. Forefield engagements resulted in our favor.

"In an aerial fight First Lieutenant Dontermann shot down his twenty-fifth opponent."

TO MAKE BUYING EASY FOR ALLIES.

PURCHASING BOARD CONFERS WITH THE PRESIDENT.

Bernard Baruch will be Made Commissioner for the Entente Governments, at the Same Time Acting in a Similar Capacity for the United States.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The new war industries board held its first conference with President Wilson today and took up in general the problems it must face in the purchase of war supplies for this government and the Allies. The President indicated his idea of the board's functions.

One of the points decided was that the allies of the United States should be given the same advantages in the purchases of war materials as this country enjoys. The board will meet again tomorrow to discuss its plans in greater detail.

Members of the board are: Frank Scott, Bernard M. Baruch, Hugh Frayne, Robert S. Brookings, R. S. Lovett, Lieut.-Col. Palmer E. Pierce and Rear-Admiral Frank F. Fletcher. Secretary Daniels also attended the conference.

The question of co-ordinating American and Allied purchases will be one of the first to be taken up by the board. At tomorrow's meeting a general plan probably will be outlined.

Allied purchases soon will be made by Bernard Baruch, who is to be designated by the Allied governments as their buying commissioner. At the same time, he will be chairman of a purchasing commission for the American government, to be formed of members of the war board, with Herbert Hoover as a member in charge of food purchases.

Officials believe that ultimately a system may be evolved under which one man will do all the American and Allied buying, members of the war board serving as advisers.

The board faces a considerable problem in obtaining supplies for the Allies at the same price paid by the American government. Already the proposal has brought protests from manufacturers and producers, who have agreed to sell to this government at prices lower than the market.

Information regarding the capture was given out by the deputies.

CHARACTER SKETCH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 6.—In a character sketch of Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann (just appointed German Secretary for Foreign Affairs,) the Nieuwe Courant of the Hague says Dr. Von Kuehlmann has always been a vigorous opponent of ruthless submarine warfare. He is also, says the newspaper, a disciple of the policy of doing everything possible to avoid the further alienation of Great Britain, believing that after-the-war friendship between Great Britain and Germany is necessary to the latter.

Dr. Von Kuehlmann, the Nieuwe Courant adds, is an anti-annexationist, and the newspaper expresses the opinion that in the Foreign Secretaryship he will do his utmost to bring about an understanding with England at the earliest possible time.

PARLIAMENTARISM.

The comment of the Berlin newspapers on the new appointments of Imperial and Prussian ministers takes the line that no great advance has been made in the direction of parliamentarism.

The Tageblatt regards the changes as unimportant, for the government of the empire. The Vossische Zeitung says the new government is not likely to give the impression of being of the parliamentary order. The Volks Zeitung comments that the most favorable thing that can be said about the development is that there has been infusion of new blood into the bureaucracy.

CHEATED OF VICTORY, THE GERMANS' VIEW.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 6.—During the patriotic celebration in the German Reichstag, Deputy Loringhoven, reviewing the three years of the war, is quoted by Vorwaerts as saying:

"If, nevertheless, these unexampled German successes which in earlier times would long ago have brought peace, have not carried us any further, it is because the general world political and economical situation operates only in favor of our enemies, who have been able to enlist help from their ever-growing number of allies. This aid has enabled them to carry on the war until the present day and so it has come about that our soldiers have been really cheated out of the fruits of their victories."

LABOR ROWS HAMPER GERMAN SHIP REPAIR.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Delay in the completion of the repairs on the interned German ships as a result of labor disputes may cause the Navy Department to take the work out of the hands of contractors.

Secretary Daniels today telegraphed the shipbuilding companies which are putting the seized vessels in shape for the seas, requesting that he be informed immediately as to the status of the work. It was indicated that unless there was prompt adjustment of any difficulties causing delays the ships would be taken to government yards.

INSTRUCTIONS ISSUED FOR MEN IN THE CAMPS.

Certificates of Service Must be Filed with Boards of Exemption.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The ranks of the new national army were opened formally today to friendly aliens as volunteers. A ruling by Provost-Marshal-General Crowder communicated to the local selection boards directs that all such aliens who waive their right to exemption on nationality be promptly accepted for service.

Gen. Crowder send this telegram to the governors:

"Reports reaching this office recently indicate that in some quarters the belief prevails that friendly aliens who have not announced their intention to become citizens, but are ready and willing to serve, are disqualified from entering the military service of the United States, and therefore that they must take out first papers before they can be accepted. It is to be regretted that such a misunderstanding should have arisen. The qualifications for voluntary enlistment in time of war are no more restricted for service in the new national army than for the regular army. Such alien nondeclarants are virtually volunteers. The selective service act provided for their registration; but it did not regard them as being under any liability to service and it therefore gave them full liberty to claim exemption when called by local boards. Now that information reveals their willingness in large numbers to decline this exemption and to accept service in this war against the common enemy of our civilization, it should be fully understood that their service is heartily welcomed and they should be accepted whenever upon summons they fail to claim their right of exemption.

"They are assisting the cause of their own by aiding the United States to triumph in this war. The more of them that enter the service the better, for in this way will be removed the cause of dissatisfaction heard in some quarters, that, although the quota was based on total population, including aliens, the actual draft reached only citizens and declarants.

"Local boards are directed to facilitate in every way the acceptance of friendly alien non-declarants for military service and thus to enable them to do their share to assist the country which has given them a refuge and an honorable living."

INSTRUCTIONS.

Gen. Crowder's office issued also instructions to guide registered men who are either at officers' training camps or who have applied for admission to the second series of these camps which will open this month.

The instructions to local boards direct that where a candidate at a training camp is called by his local board for physical examination, he may procure a certificate from his commanding officer showing that he has been examined, and file that with the board, instead of making personal appearance in response to the summons. The board will thereafter treat him as found qualified for service, unless application of exemption is filed subsequently in his behalf.

If the candidate wins a commission at the camp after he has been called by the board for examination, but before he is actually drafted, he is required to furnish a certificate from his commanding officer showing his appointment. The State Adjutant-General then will credit the board with one drafted man.

If the candidate is not commissioned before his local board calls him for military duty, he must report to the board unless the War Department shall have ordered him to duty at the training camp, in which eventual credit will be given the board involved on its quota under the draft. Where the candidate has been commissioned before he is called by the board, he is required to file certificates showing his status, and also an application for exemption on the ground that he is already in the military service. In that event he is exempted, but does not figure in the credit account of his district.

ALIMONY.

There was some discussion today as to the status of divorced men who are paying alimony. It has been suggested that in some cases the former wives of such men are solely dependent upon the alimony payments and the removal of the men would work hardship upon them. No specific request for a ruling has been received, but it is remarked as probable that if the question is raised the same rule that applied to all other discharges for dependents would fit the case. It is not the purpose of the government to work hardship on an dependent by taking away a bread winner. If the $25 a month which a soldier can spare from his salary will provide adequately for his home responsibilities, however, he will not be released from military service, so each case must be considered on its merits.

TWO ARRESTED FOR DEFYING THE DRAFT.

STOCKTON, Aug. 6.—Henry Christman and Adam Lettler of Lodi were arrested in Stockton today for refusing to fill out blanks given them by the county exemption board. The men attended an anti-draft meeting at Lodi Saturday night, which was addressed by Attorney Daniel O. Connell. Christman and Lettler absolutely refused to give any information about themselves to the exemption board. They were held in the County Jail here pending instructions from the Department of Justice.

MANY SEATTLE MEN ESCAPE; FLAT FEET.

SEATTLE (Wash.) Aug. 6.—Twenty per cent. of the men who submitted to physical examinations in four districts of Seattle and King county Sunday were rejected, principally because of flat feet, throat troubles and bad teeth. In one district eleven men out of sixty-nine were rejected and forty-five of the remainder demanded exemption blanks.

WATCH SHIPS LEAVING FOR DRAFT EVADERS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Federal authorities are maintaining a strict watch for draft evaders on trans-Pacific steamers leaving this port, it became known today, when five eligibles were brought before United States Commissioner Krull for hearing. They were arrested last Saturday on the steamer Australian after the vessel had cleared for Japan. According to the authorities the five men had registration cards, but sought to leave the country to escape service.

DRAFT EXAMINATIONS ALL OVER ST. LOUIS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—Work of examining men under the selective army law was in progress in twenty-one of the twenty-eight wards of St. Louis today. Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon the number of men examined today in the various wards totaled 559, of whom 370 passed the physical test. Of those who passed, 275 asked exemption or indicated they would do so.

DRAFTED MEN TO AID IN CROP HARVESTING.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Provision to protect harvesting from shortage of labor due to the mobilization of the national army has been made by the government in regulations now going out to district exemption boards.

Men needed in the fields to complete harvesting will be permitted to remain at work until the need for them passes, when they will join the colors.

Local boards, because of their knowledge of local crop conditions, will determine what men are necessary in this class.

DENVER'S FIRST FIFTY ALL CLAIM EXEMPTION.

DENVER, Aug. 6.—The first fifty men examined under the selective draft law in Denver all claimed exemption. The first allotments were called for examination today. Some of the claims were based on physical disabilities. The exemption boards declined to give out any figures on the number who had passed the physical examination.

ANOTHER CALL FOR SALT LAKE'S QUOTA.

SALT LAKE CITY (Utah) Aug. 6.—With 25 per cent. of the drafted men being rejected as physically unfit and 60 per cent. of those who are acceptable physically claiming exemption on various grounds, it appeared tonight that another call must be issued before Salt Lake City will secure its quota for the new national army of 687,000 men.

TO RAISE TWO BILLIONS BY THE WAR TAX BILL.

Incomes, Excess Profits, Liquor and Tobacco Pay Heaviest.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The war tax bill finally revised to meet latest estimates was favorably reported today by the Senate Finance Committee. It proposes to raise $2,006,970,000 by taxation.

The House bill proposed $1,867,000,000 in new taxes. No provision for additional bonds to be considered later by the House are made in the Senate bill.

Chairman Simmons plans to call up the revised bill for debate the latter part of the week and hopes for its final enactment by Congress early next month.

Most of the new taxes proposed under the revised bill for war expenses of the present fiscal year would come from incomes, war excess profits, liquor and tobacco.

The revised Senate bill strikes out the retroactive tax upon last year's incomes, but principally by increasing surtax on the wealthy persons and by doubling the normal tax on corporations proposes to raise $777,000,000 in addition to the $320,000,000 now secured from incomes. It proposes a levy of $562,000,000 on war profits and extends the tax to individuals in trade or business as well as corporations.

The house tax yield on distilled spirits of $100,000,000 is raised to $135,000,000; that on beer from $37,500,000 to $46,000,000 and that on the wines from $6,000,000 to $21,000,000. A prohibitive tax on further manufacture or importation of distilled beverages also is provided.

The original Senate committee provision for an increase of one-quarter of 1 cent a pound in publishers' mailing rates and a 5 per cent. tax upon their net incomes over $4000 in lieu of the House plan for increasing postal rates by a zone system was retained. The House provisions reimposing Spanish war stamp taxes were substantially retained.

The total estimated increase in Federal revenues of $2,006,970,000 proposed under the amended bill was said today by Chairman Simmons and treasury experts to be conservative. Many of those in charge of the revision believe the bill will in actual operation yield many millions more.

MAJORITY REPORT.

The majority report was submitted by Chairman Simmons, who explained that the committee's revision of the House bill was on the principle of raising revenues with the least burden upon the public. A substitute report with a substitute bill is expected from Senator La Follette. Senators Gore and Thomas also plan a separate report.

Senator Simmons's report stated that a flexible scientific war tax superstructure had been constructed by the Senate Committee for the imposition of war taxes—the largest tax budget in American history—as well as for future tax increases declared probable.

Income, war profits, liquor and tobacco tax increases, the majority report pointed out, form the nucleus of the revised bill.

In a general statement for the committee, Senator Simmons said:

"It has at all stages acted with a keen sense of the extreme importance of its action in its effect upon the country and the successful prosecution of the war. Nor was it unmindful that those who will have to pay these exactions will also have to furnish the larger part of the money to purchase the bonds for expenditures not provided for by taxation and also as we may be called upon to loan to foreign governments engaged with us in war against Germany.

"Your committee was profoundly impressed with the expediency and necessity of broadening and developing our system of special taxation so as to present a scientific scheme, logically constructed; to provide superstructure sufficiently strong and flexible to met not only our present but our future war needs, and so adjusted as to distribute equitably the necessary burdens of taxation and safeguard the activities of the nation by imposing no tax which would not leave the taxpayer a reasonably compensatory return from his investment.

"The basis of the system proposed by your committee is the income and war profits taxes, internal revenue taxes upon whisky and tobacco, and certain moderate subsidiary levies in the nature of excise taxes. The system presented is in form much the same as that in the House, but it has, it is believed, been systematized, co-ordinated and made more consistent.

"As the result of these changes, it is estimated that about two-thirds of the additional revenue expected will come from the income and war profits taxes. In fixing the rates upon incomes and excess profits your committee kept constantly in mind the fact that the amount of revenue derived from these sources would depend upon the prosperity and activity of business and that to impose taxes which would tend to discourage enterprise and dampen these activities would tend to defeat the legislative purpose. Moreover, it thought that if the rates upon incomes and excess profits were fixed at the highest level, there might be but little margin left for further increase in rates."

The report defends the elimination of the so-called Lenroot surtaxes on incomes of over $40,000, added in the House, designed to raise $66,000,000 as follows:

"In view of the fact that in addition to the large increase in the normal tax the surtaxes upon incomes, the bill provides for a large increase in the war profits tax of corporations and partnerships and includes individuals in the scope of that tax, and in view of the probability that it will be necessary hereafter to further increase these rates in order to provide for increased war expenditures, your committee believes that for the present it is inadvisable to increase the surtax rates beyond those proposed in the original House bill."

Regarding the elimination of the House retroactive income taxes on 1916 incomes, which would have produced $100,000,000, the report states:

"This tax seemed in principle both morally and economically unsound. Incomes of the last year have paid their taxes and the balance has either been spent or saved and added to capital, in which form it will yield returns in the ensuing years. To tax this tax-paid income again is not only double taxation of a peculiarly obnoxious kind, but would possibly compel a taxpayer to impair his capital and thus diminish government sources of taxation. It would be one of those disturbing taxes which would alarm business and check industrial productivity. It is very poor economy and would hold out a threat of uncertainty."

In recommending the graduated war profits tax upon individuals as well as corporations in lieu of the present 8 per cent. excess profits law, the committee said its plan is similar to that of European countries, where it has had marked success.

"We must face the possibility, even the probability," the report stated, "of even higher taxes than are now proposed in this country, and we must adjust our system so that it will work satisfactorily even under increased rates. Your committee has not been able to find any satisfactory reason why individuals engaged in trade and business should not be subject to this tax (war profits) as well as corporations and partnerships." Under the present law, the report stated, inflated values to patents and trade-marks and watering of corporations' stocks makes evasion of the revenue law possible, while the committee's new basis is believed to meet the situation. Senator Simmons also pointed out that the new plan is a war profits tax rather than an excess profits levy.

The new tax of 1 per cent. for each 25 cents paid on parcel post packages was said in the report to remove discrimination of the railroads and the parcel post.

"In addition to this," the report said, "your committee can see no intrinsic reason why, in this present emergency, the government should not impose a tax upon this method of transportation, especially in view of the fact that the rates on first and second class mail are increased."

The House 5 per cent. taxes on electricity, gas and local telephone service were eliminated because "it appeared to the committee that this tax would fall with very great severity upon the people of moderate means as well as the poorest classes, who at the present time depend very largely in the cities upon gas or electricity to furnish them with both light and heat for cooking as well as, in many cases, with power for running small machinery, like that of the sewing machine. The committee felt that a tax of this character ought not to be imposed unless a point was reached where it would become necessary to tax everything susceptible to taxation. Light and heat are the very last things which should be subject to taxation. For similar reasons the committee recommended that the tax upon charges for telephone service to subscribers be eliminated."

Striking out of all insurance taxes from the House bill was based upon the belief that excise taxes upon insurance is a questionable principle, and "should be subjected to tax only as a last resort."

Elimination or reduction of all of the 5 per cent. gross sales tax upon many manufacturers was defended because the manufacturers also must pay high income and excess profits taxes. "Your committee felt," the report said, "that only where the conditions are exceptional should such a manufacturers' gross sales tax be justifiable." For these reasons the House tax on patent medicines was reduced to 2 per cent.

Proposed new Federal license tax on motorcycles and automobiles based upon the original selling cost in lieu of the House manufacturers' tax, was explained as follows:

"A gross tax upon automobile manufacturers was first considered, but on thorough investigation it appeared that over 80 per cent. were making very small profits. A few were making enormous profits. A gross production tax in size sufficient to produce a substantial return would have driven out of business a large majority of automobile manufacturers. Your committee concluded that the automobile was a proper subject for a war revenue tax and recommends for the high gross sales tax, which might or might not be passed on to the purchaser, a moderate excise tax upon the owners of automobiles and motorcycles."

Declaring that the new tax on cabarets and retention of taxes on other amusement admissions is justifiable, the report said the tax on moving-picture theaters charging less than 25 cents had been eliminated, because:

"The moving-picture show has become a national institution. It possesses many valuable educational features. They are largely patronized by people of small means."

House taxes on club dues were eliminated, the report said, because it was difficult to reach clubs properly taxable and at the same time exempt those which should not be taxed.

Most House stamp taxes, virtually those of Spanish War days, the report said, have been retained. The new 1-cent stamp tax on bank checks, it was said, was provided because prevalent in most belligerent countries and because "there is no good reason why this source, which would yield a substantial revenue, should be overlooked."

The House general 10 per cent. tariff levy, the committee declared, would have taxed nearly 4000 articles and have yielded $200,000,000.

"There is no estimate, however, of the amount the consuming public would have to pay," the report said. "So sweeping a change would have brought consequences thought clearly undesirable."

The committee, it was stated, substituted for the House 10 per cent. tariff levy "moderate, temporary excise taxes" of one-half a cent per pound on sugar, 5 cents on tea, 2 cents on coffee, and from 3 to 5 cents on cocoa.

"If every cent of these taxes," the report stated, "were passed on to the consumer, it would amount to little more than 75 cents per capita, a sum so small it would hardly be felt by the consumer. A considerable part is likely to be absorbed by the producers and dealers. They are small compared with similar taxes in practically all belligerent countries."

The increase of one-fourth a cent per pound in second-class mail rates and the 5 per cent. net profits tax against publishers on profits over $4000 annually, in lieu of the House zone rate increase, was commented on as follows:

"Leading representatives of the publishers appeared in protest against the zone system and presented evidence that it would be a serious mistake and in many instances entail certain disaster. The combination postal and special income tax, recommended as a substitute, is not regarded as perfect, but in view of increases on first and second-class mail and parcel post, it was felt that some reasonably proportionate additional tax should be imposed upon newspapers and periodicals having the privilege of second-class mail matter."

Substitution of a new plan of "information at the source" instead of collection at the source for income taxes, the report said, "will enable the government to locate more effectively all individuals subject to the income tax," and stimulate collections, lessen expense. The new plan of taxing undivided corporate surplus, also, was said to insure larger and fairer collections.

OUR OBLIGATIONS TOWARD FRANCE.

AMERICA'S DUTY AS DEFINED IN PARIS PAPER.

We Must Open Credits to the Allies as Large as may be Required and We Must not Expect the Same Securities as When We Were not in the Fray.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 6.—The Journal des Debats in a prominent review of finance yesterday says that it is America's imperative duty to recognize obligations toward France which it cannot escape, and that it must open credits to the Allies as large as may be required without which they cannot continue the war. The article points out that the status of the United States is different now that she is in the war, and says that it must not expect the same securities as when her standing was on a private basis.

The review opens with a resume of existing conditions which require urgently that purchases outside of France must be restricted to the lowest possible limits, for if the country shows a willingness to cut down internal expenses and do without all imported luxuries then it will have a right to call on the Allies for all needed financial aid. The Allies know, the review adds, that France is in a peculiar position, with the richest districts invaded, dependent a long time solely upon itself, and short of labor.

"England, on which we depend for coal and many other things, would not dream of refusing credit for purchases we make there," the article continues. "We can rely on her loyalty not to demand immediate payment for our purchases. Without granting us any time at a moment when we are short of money to settle would purely and simply put us in a position of being unable to continue the war. The Allies, in according us the credit necessary to regulate our purchases, contribute not only to the credit of the Allies, but give us a chance to live and fight by their sides. What has just been said about our agreements with England applies equally as well to the relations between England, France and the United States.

"The latter are, in effect, suppliers of the Allies of Europe, and the Allies depend much more on America than we do on England. While America was still neutral it could limit its credit to us, and demand that we pay in gold a large portion of our purchases, but now that it has entered the war it would be folly on their part to wish to continue to act this way. The United States will do as other belligerents, and can do so least inconveniently because they have been enriched during the beginning of the European war.

ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

"They will open to the Allies of Europe credits as large as may be needed, for to refuse them would be to make a continuation of the war impossible. But it is important that Americans take account as soon as possible of obligations which they cannot escape. Every delay in their action, every hesitation risked might have the most serious consequences for the Allies. This must be understood in America, although it does not seem to have been understood as yet, to judge by the shipment of gold which England has had to send to America. That neutrals must be paid in gold is easily understood, but payments of gold should not be necessary between allies who have the greatest interest in seeing that one does not create embarrassment for the other."

CHINA'S WAR DECISION OFFICIALLY APPROVED.

PEKING (Thursday) Aug. 2. (Delayed.)—Acting President Feng Kwo Chang today approved the unanimous decision reached at a special meeting of the Chinese Cabinet to declare war on Germany and Austria-Hungary. The Ministers of the Entente Powers probably will meet at the Chinese Foreign Office on Saturday to discuss China's declaration of war, which is expected to be issued next week.

Prominent Germans in Peking are conferring with the Dutch Minister to China with the object of making arrangements to go to Java. The Spanish Minister probably will take over the interests of Austria-Hungary.

Premier Tuan Chi Jui and his political followers insist that Feng Kwo Chang as Vice-President, automatically became President when Li Yuan Hung decided to resign office.

Parliamentarians are assembling at Canton and are preparing to organize a military government with the sanction of Parliament and to elect a President. Acting President Feng Kwo Chang has asked for liberal appropriations to be used in suppressing the southern military element.

VIEW IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The opinion was expressed at the State Department today that the opposing Chinese factions were not so far separated that a compromise could not be reached.

Acting President Feng Kwo Chang, in approving the unanimous decision of the Cabinet to declare war on Germany and Austria, and indicating that the actual declaration will come some time next week, has not consulted Parliament, as that body was dissolved by his predecessor, Li Yuan Hung. Members of Parliament have gathered together in Canton, the seat of the southern republican and anti-militarist movement, and are threatening civil war.

Thew hole dispute about China's actual entrance into the war, following America's step, has centered about the method. All parties in China are said to be in favor of war and to be disputing only the question of leadership.

SAYS FRANCE WILL WIN IN SPITE OF ALL ODDS.

PARIS Aug. 6.—Louis J. Malvy, the French Minister of the Interior, today replied to the request of the Associated Press for a statement outlining his views on the end of the third year of the world war.

"For three years," said M. Malvy, "France has endured every affliction, suffering and glory. Without violence or shock, but not at times without discussion (for discussion is the very essence of liberty and democratic regime,) she has maintained within her land order and discipline—accepted, not forced discipline—and she will conquer. She is as united as she was on August 2, 1914. Better still, she is unanimous—that is, forms but one soul for work as for combat.

"The country, then, is ready to enter upon the fourth winter of the war in the best conditions of physical and moral health. It knows that, thanks to American aid, next spring, it will apply at once all its endurance and every sacrifice."

The Minister then traced the changes through which civilian France had passed. First came work for the wounded and other war charities, but as the war continued it had to work to live, and the aged and the women and children worked the land. Then came the urgent need of a supply of munitions and heavy artillery, but never, M. Malvy said, had France of the interior failed France of the front.

ENEMY IN STRONG FORCE HALTS RUSSIAN ADVANCE.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 6.—(British Admiralty per Wireless Press, via London.) The Russian forces fighting northeast of Czernowitz in an attack drove back the enemy upon several villages, capturing guns and machine guns, but later, in the face of superior forces, were compelled to withdraw to their main position, according to the official communication issued today.

In Central Bukowina, around Radautz, the Austro-Germans continue to make progress. Radautz and several other towns have been captured and the Bystritza River has been crossed by the enemy.

The communication follows:

"West of Brody insignificant enemy attacks were beaten off. Northeast of Czernowitz, near the villages of Toporrovce and Rarancze, our advanced detachments occupied a series of heights and drove the enemy back to the above-mentioned villages. We captured a four-gun battery and some machine guns.

"Afterward the enemy, advancing in superior forces, compelled our troops to retire to our main position.

"South of Czernowitz the enemy continues to advance chiefly in the regions of Dolina, the River Sereth and the Suchawa, and is pressing back our troops. The villages of Olyboka, Komenka, Wosczinec, Chdikrolva and the town of Radautz were occupied by the enemy.

"Rumanian front: In the direction of Kimpolung the enemy continues his offensive. Owing to the instability of certain of our units, we have been forced to retire somewhat toward the east. The enemy has crossed the Bystritza River.

"On the night of the 5th our airplanes dropped a number of bombs on the railway station at Baranovichi (southwest of Minsk.) Direct hits were observed."

BOMBARDMENT AT HOLLEBEKE.

Counter-attack of Invaders Proves to be Futile.

Sun is Drying Out the Water-soaked Flanders Roads.

Further Attacks by Germans are Still Looked For.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Aug. 6.—A determined bombardment, futile counter-attack delivered by the Germans against Hollebeke, and heavy artillery bombardments on both sides represent the main activity along the battle line in Flanders during the last twenty-four hours, but the cessation of the rain and the reappearance of the sun, which is rapidly drying out the waterlogged roads in the fighting area, is the most important event. Further attempts by the Germans to regain at least part of the ground they lost in last Tuesday's onslaught are looked for at various points along the wide front affected.

STILL ANOTHER.

In addition to the assault on Hollebeke, the Germans also delivered a counter-attack against a section of the left wing of the British army above Ypres during the night, after heavy artillery preparation, but here also they were thrown back.

The clearing of the weather to a point where infantry fighting on a much larger scale is possible, finds the British firmly intrenched throughout the entire length of the advanced positions wrested from the Germans.

The accounts of men engaged in the capture of Hooge indicate that the second day's battle in this section was made extremely severe and doubly trying by the heavy rain that began the night before. Hooge itself was occupied with little trouble soon after the attack began, because the place had been so knocked to pieces by the British guns as to make it untenable. The British attack began astride the Menin road and the advancing troops had to make their way around Bellewaard Lake just north of Hooge, in order to reach the strong line of German defenses along the Bellewaarde ridge which dominated this section. This ridge was taken in hand-to-hand fighting one hour after the offensive began. The British inflicted severe casualties and captured a number of prisoners.

BRITISH PUSH IN.

From here the British pushed on into the swamp ground between the Bellewaarde Ridge and the Westhoek ridge, still further east and along which runs the Frezenberg road. These latter positions were captured without much fighting and the British began to consolidate themselves along this line. No counter-attacking of importance occurred on Tuesday. That night the rain fell in torrents and Wednesday the troops were waiting in feet of water and mud and in cases were carrying on the water waist high.

Under these trying conditions the defenders, the Germans again attacked with a large body of men, but the British poured a deadly machine-gun fire into the ranks of the illnes and repulsed the attack. The Germans then turned heavy guns on the Westhoek positions, and after a fierce preliminary bombardment again counter-attacked, but were unable to stand up under the deadly machine-gun fire from the British positions.

There was one spasm of fighting yards in this section of the battle line which at one time contained virtually no troops, and the Germans seeing this, made a hurried effort to occupy it. One British battalion with a machine gun fired on the entire attacking force and compelled it to retire. Since Wednesday the Germans have made no further attempt to regain this ground.

RED CROSS CLEANING AROUND ARMY CAMPS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The American Red Cross has appropriated $800,000 to meet sanitary emergencies in the civilian areas surrounding army cantonments. The work will be done by a newly-created bureau of Sanitary service, with Dr. W. H. Frost, surgeon of the Public Health Service, as director.

In some sections State or municipal funds for such purposes are limited and can only be supplied by legislation. While sanitary control of the cantonments will be exercised by the military authorities, the districts immediately adjoining will be under no such jurisdiction and the assembling of large bodies of troops will create new sanitary conditions which must be met to safeguard the health of civilians as well as of soldiers.

FOOD CONTROL IN THE SENATE.

Reed Makes Another Attack on Herbert C. Hoover.

Move is Alleged to Divert Grains to New York.

Chamberlain of Oregon Follows the President.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Resumption of Senate debate today on the conference report of the administration food control bill was marked by bitter exchanges between those advocating and those opposing the legislation. After a discussion of the bill as finally drafted by the conferees, administration leaders and some of the chief opponents said it would be disposed of Wednesday.

Senator Chamberlain, the administration manager, and Senator Gore, who has been prominent in the opposition, clashed sharply during the debate after Senator Reed had made another speech attacking the measure and Herbert C. Hoover. When Senator Gore imputed that the Senate conferees had yielded the Senate's judgment to that of the President, Senator Chamberlain, in a vehement speech, declared that the Oklahoma Senator had consistently obstructed the food bill, and also other administration measures.

WITH THE PRESIDENT.

"I had rather be charged with following in the footsteps of the distinguished President of the United States in the conduct of this war," said the Oregon Senator, "crawling, if you please, on my knees and licking the dust from his feet, as has been suggested here, than to stand in opposition to him and to be conspiring with and treating with the enemies of the President."

Senator Gore denied obstructing the bill, or, as Senator Chamberlain had suggested, the army draft law.

Senator Hollis announced he would vote against the conference report because of elimination of his amendment designed to exempt labor unions from the provisions of the bill.

Recession of the Senate conferees on the provision for a Congressional committee to supervise war expenditures, stricken out largely because of the President's strong opposition, was denounced by Senator Hardwick and defended by Senators Williams and Wolcott.

WAR EXPENDITURE.

Senator Williams declared that there is either more intended than is apparent in the language of the proposal to creat the joint committee on war expenditures, or it is unnecessary.

The Mississippi Senator pointed out that Congress already has power to investigate every item of expenditures, and cited the experiences of President Lincoln with a Congressional committee on conduct of the Civil War as a warning of what could be expected from the creation of a committee on war expenditures.

Most of today's debate was occupied by Democratic Senators opposing approval of the conference report. The Republicans were said by their leaders to be almost a unit for immediate and favorable action.

ATTACK ON HOOVER.

Senator Reed began with another attack on Herbert Hoover and an attack on the men selected by Mr. Hoover to assist him in the food administration. Appointments of thirteen agents to take charge of the thirteen terminal grain markets had been made, he said, "without authority of law," several of whom are native-born Englishmen.

One man, Senator Reed charged, is an American bankrupt who went through a British bankruptcy court, and that Mr. Hoover planned to hand over control of grain exports "to a gentleman who has not lived in this country in a score of years."

"I am reliably informed," he continued, "that the plan is to circumscribe shipments of grain from Galveston, New Orleans and other southern ports, and divert them to the port of New York. The excuse has been given that it will save the hazarding of this grain on the ocean."

GORE.

Apparently fatigued after speaking two hours, Senator Reed permitted an interruption by Senator Gore, who was sitting beside him, to suggest the absence of a quorum. The chair refused to entertain the motion, whereupon Senator Reed made the point himself, and after a quorum was secured continued his speech.

Senator Chamberlain, in charge of the bill, sees no prospect of a vote within the next few days. Should protracted opposition develop a filibuster, administration leaders are considering night sessions to force the opponents to speak continuously. The principal division was said to be among the Democrats, the Republicans being declared by their leaders to be almost solid for affirmative action.

THREAT.

Senator Reed called attention to an interview purporting to have been given by Mr. Hoover, in which he threatened to "expose" members of Congress who were opposing the bill. Senator Johnson asserted that this interview had been repudiated by Senator Chamberlain on the floor of the Senate in a statement furnished him by Mr. Hoover.

"Mr. Hoover never repudiated this statement," replied Mr. Reed. He characterized Mr. Hoover's efforts for passage of the bill as a lobby.

Senator Reed attacked the conferees' report on the bill, declaring it "many times more radical than the original bill." He added that the powers conferred by a rewritten bill have been so enlarged and extended that it covers a major portion of the manufacturing business in the United States.

"But, singularly enough, it leaves out the steel trust, the copper, Standard Oil, aluminum and binder twine interests," he charged. "It leaves out the most wicked, most powerful, most potential and the most oppressive of the great trusts of this country."

AS TO THE DRAFT.

Senator Reed, who opposed the army draft law, read Provost-Marshal-General Crowder's recent statement on draft rioters, saying he believed in enforcing obedience to the selective draft law, but he did not know when the law was passed "we were giving power for drumhead court-martials to sit and condemn men who run away."

Senator Hollis, one of those active in framing the leaders' compromise measure, which passed the Senate, announced he would vote against the conference report because it required a single vote on the whole, and because the conferees eliminated his amendment proposing to exempt organized labor from the bill's operations. The anti-hoarding section, he said, would subject labor-union heads who might call strikes on railroads transporting or in factories producing necessaries to two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fines.

"If a movement similar to that in Russia is found in the United States," said the New Hampshire Senator, "it will be on the heads of the Senators. The conduct of the war depends on the frame of mind of the laboring men of the country. Our one hope in Germany is that workingmen there will no longer obey constituted authority. This bill's provisions are more stringent than the Sherman law. The Senate is not composed of empty-headed men, and should face the seriousness of this situation. The draft riots are an ominous symptom. Lynching of an I.W.W. leader in a Northern State might start a boulder rolling in the vitals of labor. To start that boulder would be the most foolish thing capital could do."

Senator Hollis disclaimed filibustering against the bill and said he was sorry he must vote against the conference report.

"I believe Mr. Hoover is a very able, honest and remarkable man," he added. "I am anxious the United States should capitalize Mr. Hoover's reputation and get the greatest good from it. I believe Mr. Hoover will make economy in the household fashionable. He is unused to politics and has allowed his enthusiasm to carry him further than I might have wished."

RIGHTS OF LABOR.

"The rights of labor have been much neglected by this administration since the war began," Senator Hollis continued. "No member of a labor union has been placed by the administration on either the Coal Committee or the Railroad Committee. Mr. Gompers was placed on the Labor Committee and is doing creditable work. The President is not asking for any legislation which would permit a peaceful strike. He has had several opportunities to do so."

Senator Chamberlain denounced Senator Gore and others who are opposing the bill when the Oklahoma Senator suggested that Senate members of the conference committee who favored the report should have the word "receded" written on their brows.

"There hasn't been a time since the bill was introduced that the chairman of the Agriculture Committee has not used a stiletto," said Senator Chamberlain, explaining that Senator Gore had tried to take charge of the conferees, although it was known that he was hostile to the bill, and "obstructed its passage."

"To those Senators who have been opposing the administration not only in reference to raising an army but in supplying the army," Senator Chamberlain continued, "we have the distinguished and illustrious example of men in their sections standing out not only against the President, but against the President in raising an army."

Senator Gore denied that he had obstructed the food bill, but said he would continue to discharge the duties of a Senator "without any threat of power or the smiles of brandishment of power."

"This is not the first administration bill the Senator from Oklahoma has opposed, "Senator Chamberlain replied heatedly, "but the Senator seems to forget that this country is at war with one of the most powerful nations of the world. One law he opposed has resulted in the deaths of a number of young fellows in his State."

The Oklahoma Senator declared he had done everything possible to speed both the food bills through the Senate and to make them constitutional. He also denied that he had obstructed the passage of the selective draft law, and said that the present trouble in Oklahoma over the enforcement of the draft law was due to a grievance originating among the Seminole Indians over delay in the government paying certain money due them.

Senator Norris, an Agriculture Committee member, said that Senator Gore, in the committee's consideration of the bill, "did not at any time hinder or delay action, but always urged prompt action, sometimes overhastily."

Senator Hardwick attacked the conference report, saying the conferees "deliberately surrendered the position of the Senate."

NEAR COLLAPSE IN PRISON CELL.

Mrs. De Saulles Examined by Three Physicians.

Effort to Liberate Woman to Spare Her Life.

Friends and Relatives Coming to Widow's Rescue.

MINEOLA (N. Y.) Aug. 6.—Three physicians late today examined Mrs. Bianca de Saulles, at the request of her attorney, Henry A. Uterhardt, to determine if her health was being impaired by confinement in the Nassau County Jail here, where she is awaiting action by the grand jury on a charge of killing her former husband, John L. de Saulles.

If the physicians' report, expected tomorrow, shows the woman's health to be endangered, Mr. Uterhardt said he would immediately go before the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, in an effort to have her admitted to bail.

NEAR COLLAPSE.

Mr. Uterhardt stated he feared Mrs. de Saulles was near a physical and mental collapse as a result of brooding over separation from her 4-year-old son, the custody of whom led to the shooting at De Saulles's summer home on Long Island. The mother sleeps only little, Mr. Uterhardt said, and eats sparingly. A few visitors, men and women friends of long standing, visited her today.

An effort will be made, the attorney announced, to arrange for the boy, who is at the home of relatives of his father at Briar Cliff Manor, New York, to visit his mother.

FRIENDS AND RELATIVES.

Mrs. de Saulles will not be without friends when called for trial.

Relatives in Valparaiso, it was learned today, were not only ready to aid her in the forthcoming trial, but were planning to obtain permanent custody for her of her 4½-year-old son, John Longer de Saulles, Jr.

It was because of Mrs. de Saulles's devotion to her son and also the fear that the husband she had divorced on the ground of infidelity was planning to keep the child from her that she killed him, according to her attorney.

Following the statement given out by Henry A. Uterhardt, Mrs. de Saulles' lawyer, that Mr. de Saulles was a fortune hunter whose love cooled after he had used about half of his wife's fortune, G. M. Hecksher, a cousin of the murdered man, today made public a copy of a recent letter which he said De Saulles had written his wife. The letter, which was dated June 30, speaks of the good the country life had done for the child and suggests that he be allowed to remain at the cottage Mr. De Saulles occupied. The letter also offered Mrs. De Saulles the use of a servant to take care of the child, should he remain at his father's home, and said that he would be ready to be taken away by his mother at the time appointed by the court.

When the case of Mrs. De Saulles is called for trial, according to statements of her attorney, Mr. De Saules will be pictured as a man who had had his infidelities forgiven many times by his wife because of her devotion for the child. It was also learned the defense would attempt to show the murder was not premeditated but that Mrs. De Saulles carried the revolver, a gift of her husband, for her own protection.

To Smash I. W. W.

raised between the weak and the strong in the manner done at Bisbee, we have reason to fear the outcome," said Donnelly.

"I care not what the preachings or teachings or the acts have been on the part of men who comprised the strikers of Cochise county. When the constituted authorities take upon themselves the odium of throwing down the law and deporting men they have done something which is a menace to the nation.

"It was a beckoning finger to revolution, and thinking men and women realize that fact. Before closing this convention I want the delegates to take cognizance of this great wrong.

HINTS OF RADICAL STEP.

"There occurs a time in the history of nations when we men and women who comprise them sometimes have to take radical steps in order to right a wrong. The men in this State and in the United States do not desire that, but if need be, if we have to, in order to preserve the liberty and freedom which this country has enjoyed for over 140 years, I believe that radical steps should be taken.

"The time has passed for quibbling. If the men of this nation are not secured absolute protection under the law, then we must do something to protect ourselves. I would say to every man and woman that you have an absolute right that arises above all other rights; a human right to avail yourselves of constitutional rights and never to run off your own hill."

About forty delegates are in attendance at the convention.

The convention has appropriated $1000 for the defense of strikers awaiting trial at Globe on charges of rioting on July 4. Six hundred dollars also was appropriated to the Miami strikers' relief fund.

A RAILROAD SCHOOL FOR WOMEN OPENED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—A bureau of employment for women will be established by the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad at Springfield, Mo., it was announced today.

The bureau will conduct a school to teach women various phases of railroad work.

It is not the intention, says the announcement, to discharge men from places they now hold, but to fill vacancies. All men employees who enter the army or navy will be given their old or equivalent positions when they return.

MORE MINERS BACK AT WORK IN BUTTE.

BUTTE (Mont.) Aug. 6.—The day passed in an orderly manner here, with the chief feature of the miners' strike being an increased number of miners returning to work. Many rumors of further strikes fill the air, particularly as affecting the smelter men at the Washoe works of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, but leaders of the labor forces deny there is any foundation for these reports.

No moves have been made by either side to the street car strike, and prospect of any immediate settlement of the trouble appears remote.

The inquest into the lynching of Frank H. Little, national executive board member of the Industrial Workers of the World, was resumed tonight, with no evidence being presented which might lead to the identity of the lynchers.

SLAVONIAN COPPER MINERS RETURNING.

GLOBE (Ariz.) Aug. 6.—Three hundred Slavonian miners, many of them American citizens, at a meeting at Miami today, voted to return to work in the copper mines, which have been closed since July 2 as a result of the strikes called by the Industrial Workers of the World and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers.

OPERATIONS RESUMED AT ARIZONA MINE.

MIAMI (Ariz.) Aug. 6.—Operations were resumed at the Old Dominion mine here today after a closed period of approximately a month, due to the strike of copper miners. The strike order was not rescinded. The management said 450 men went to work today, and announced the company's smelter might resume operations soon.

IRON STRIKE HALTS LARGE WAR ORDERS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

READING (Pa.) Aug. 6.—More than 1000 puddlers employed by the Reading Iron Company went on strike today to enforce a demand for a wage increase. A government mediator is expected from Washington, the company having large war orders.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Judge G. W. W. Hanger, a member of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Board, is expected here August 13 to act in a dispute between the Southern Pacific Railroad and its employees regarding wage scale variations and other matters. As the other two members of the board are engaged, Judge Hanger will act alone.

GERMANS SEEK TO INCITE WAR.

Urge Natives Below Border to Regain Lost States.

United States Declared to be in Open Rebellion.

Kaiser's Consul in Chihuahua Comes to the Border.

EL PASO, Aug. 6.—Government officials here learned today that Maurice Goldner, German Consul in Chihuahua city, accompanied Gen. Francisco Murguia, commander of the northeastern military zone, to Juarez. A number of other prominent Germans from Chihuahua city also came on Murguia's special train, according to the government agents.

Reports received here from Chihuahua city say that the Germans there have been circulating printed propaganda saying that the United States was in the throes of a revolution and that "The Mexicans and negroes of the South and the negroes, Germans and German sympathizers in the North" would aid this movement.

The circulars are said to have ended with an appeal to the Mexicans to prepare to strike to regain all Mexican territory lost to the United States. The circulars have also been spread in Juarez and among the Mexicans of El Paso, according to the local government officials.

VILLA IS ELIMINATED.

JUAREZ (Mex.) Aug. 6.—Francisco Villa has been eliminated as a military factor in Mexico and has reverted to his old methods of banditry, Gen. Murguia, commander-in-chief of the northwestern military zone, said here last night.

"Villa has less than 100 men and was in the vicinity of Inde, Durango, where we received our last information about him," Gen. Murguia said.

Gen. Iturbe was sworn in as Governor several weeks ago, but with a force of approximately 500 soldiers, left Culiacan immediately afterward, going to Mazatlan, where he since has been, refusing to return to the capital.

ESCAPES HANGING BY A LEGAL HAIR.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—An appeal to the State Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus by the court and intervention by Atty.-Gen. U. S. Webb were necessary to prevent execution of Joseph Schoon, sentenced to death at Folsom for the murder of Policeman John L. Briscoe at Stockton last May, it became known today when the court made the writ returnable remanding Schoon into the custody of the Sheriff of San Joaquin county pending outcome of his appeal.

Through a mistake the Sheriff took Schoon to Folsom after the appeal, automatically staying sentence, had been filed. Warden J. J. Smith prepared to execute the prisoner, Schoon's attorneys protested and backed their protest with a letter written by the clerk of the Supreme Court, notifying Warden Smith that the appeal had been filed and that a writ of habeas corpus had been issued.

Warden Smith said he recognized nothing but the warrant calling for Schoon's execution on the date specified. Schoon's attorneys put the situation up to Atty.-Gen. Webb, who interceded for the condemned man.

MOONEY'S HOPE NOT IN THE RECORD.

WRITTEN OPINION OF THE STATE SUPREME COURT.

Action of the Attorney-General for a Reversal is Held to be Based on Matters not Disclosed by the Transcript of the Famous Bomb Outrage Case.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Atty.-Gen. U. S. Webb's consent to a new trial for Thomas J. Mooney, under sentence of death for one of the bomb case murders, will have no bearing on the State Supreme Court's consideration of Mooney's appeal for a reversal of judgment now pending before it.

In a written opinion, handed down late today, the court held that the Attorney-General's consent "does not disclose any cause for reversal."

FROM THE OPINION.

"This action of the Attorney-General is not based on any assumption that the record on appeal discloses any cause for reversal, he saying in effect that he is not prepared to state that any cause for reversal is shown by the record and that his action is prompted by matters outside the record, disclosed after the proceedings were terminated in the trial court, which led him to believe that 'justice would be subserved by a retrial,'" the opinion said.

Going into the merits of the State's consent, the opinion held that "we do not regard the paper filed by the Attorney-General as being an application or as constituting anything more than a mere consent by him that a reversal be had. It appears to us that the court is now called upon to determine whether any action in line with the consent of the Attorney-General should or may be had.

NOVELTY.

"In view of the novelty of the suggestion of the Attorney-General and the serious question as to the right of this court to grant a new trial, except for error in the proceedings of the trial court, we will not consider the question of the advisability of the action suggested by the Attorney-General's consent, except on formal application, or motion by one of the parties addressed to the court, on notice to the other parties interested, including the District Attorney of San Francisco."

Atty.-Gen. Webb's action in consenting to a reversal of judgment followed a request by Superior Judge Franklin A. Griffin that he confess error in the case and seek to obtain a new trial for Mooney, who was convicted and sentenced to death by Judge Griffin for one of the murders growing out of a bomb explosion here last summer, which killed ten persons.

Judge Griffin took this step after the expose of Frank C. Oxman's alleged attempt to suborn perjury in connection with Mooney's trial. Oxman, who was a material witness against Mooney, was arrested at the instigation of F. E. Rigall of Grayville, Ill., who charged Oxman had written him (Rigall) letters asking him to give false testimony against the defendant. Oxman is now awaiting trial in the Superior Court on charges of attempted subornation of perjury.

Maxwell McNutt, one of the attorneys for Mooney, stated tonight that the defense would act immediately by presenting a motion to the Supreme Court.

"The decision says, in effect," said Mr. McNutt, "that inasmuch as the appeal proper is on for October 25, the court cannot consider the Attorney-General's consent unless it is placed on the calendar.

"I will see the Attorney-General tomorrow, or as soon as I can find the time, and will ascertain what date would be agreeable to his office for a hearing, and I will then file a formal motion asking the court to act."

Atty.-Gen. U. S. Webb was at a mining camp in Napa county tonight and could not be reached by telephone. R. W. Harrison, of his office, declined to comment on Mr. McNutt's plan. "We will take whatever action is necessary," was the extent of his statement.

Dist.-Atty. Fickert and the deputies who were in charge of the Mooney case were all out of town tonight.

American four-mast schooner John Twohy, 1619 tons, Captain Folk, Va., for Algiers, Capt. Morehouse.

Norwegian steamer Rhein, 2500 tons; from Philadelphia for Algiers, Capt. John Lothe.

The seventh ship, the American schooner Conqueror, of 1100 tons, was abandoned and was sighted June 11 off Flores, after she had sprung a leak in rough weather. She encountered no submarine according to her crew.

The sinking of all the vessels except the Ellen, Doris and Wilhelmina Gertrude, had been previously reported. Capt. Lothe of the Ellen said his vessel carried two locomotives of large size, intended for use on railroads which American engineers are constructing behind the battle lines in France.

The procedure of the submarine was the same in all cases, according to the crews. The vessels were stopped, boarded by the submarine commander and the men placed in the lifeboats, after which bombs were placed in the vessels and exploded. Then the submarine headed in the direction before submerging.

It required two days or more in most instances for the boats to pull in and row to St. Maria, is it said.

Both Capt. Lothe and Capt. Evansen of the Hassel reported that the submarine which captured their vessels was commanded by Lieut. Eyring. They were taken aboard the submarine while their vessels were being towed. Capt. Lothe said the submarine was the largest he had ever seen, carrying a crew of seventy-one men and mounting two 6-inch guns.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Aug. 7.—After Mrs. William Nye, the divorced wife of a prominent Seattle business man, told yesterday afternoon in court how her infatuation for W. A. Tope, a supposed single man, led to serious complexities, a movement was started to save her from the penitentiary on the charge of cashing fictitious checks. She confessed to cashing a bogus check at the request of her lover.

Tope will be given a preliminary hearing on a similar charge tomorrow in Judge McDonald's court. He formerly held a responsible business position in Pasadena and has a wide acquaintance here. His wife and child are with friends here.

Mrs. Nye said she pawned her valuable jewelry, including a ring valued at $500, to keep Tope supplied with money. When she had no more jewelry to pawn she said she cashed several bogus checks to help him out of financial difficulties. She declared they were still in debt for house rent and groceries in Los Angeles.

Tope and Mrs. Nye met in a cafe in Venice two months ago and became infatuated with each other. They remained in the beach city for several weeks and then Mrs. Nye learned that he had a wife in Pasadena. She came to Pasadena and lived with the wife and agreed to leave Tope and then returned to Los Angeles. Tope left his wife and followed Mrs. Nye to Los Angeles shortly their financial difficulties began. Both were arrested after she had cashed a check at a Pasadena store.

"I knew Tope well when he was in business here and readily cashed a check signed by him when Mrs. Nye brought it in the store," J. M. Bishop, the druggist, said yesterday. "I frequently had cashed checks for him before. I had not heard of his doings in domestic and business affairs."

"We are at present a number of men who live by devious methods and hang around the saloons, pool halls and other places, but who will not work if they can help it. Men that look like a man and will not work. The members of this department are instructed to arrest these men that they must leave town at once or they will be arrested and charged with vagrancy.

"The reason for this crusade is that Los Angeles has instituted a like movement and as I go over our district I see new faces and strange men loitering around the bars and poolrooms, which makes it evident that as fast as they are driven out of the larger city they are coming to us, and I have no desire that the I.W.W., or any other organization of like ilk, get a hold in our city.

Suggested Revocation of Two Licenses is Denied.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 6.—The Council refused to revoke the liquor licenses of the Trocadero and the Creole cabarets today. The revocation was recommended by Mayor Louis J. Wilde, and he at once announced that San Diego would be bone dry within thirty days on account of the Council's action.

A chemise dance and a feather dance, mentioned in reports made by investigators of certain cabarets, aroused the curiosity of spectators at the Council. Mayor Wilde said his investigators had informed him that colored girls, clad only in chemises, danced at the Creole. Councilman Howard Bard, a Unitarian minister, vividly described the feather dance which he and a party of friends had seen at the U. S. Grant Grill. He said a girl clad only in feathers gave the dance.

GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATES.

The matter of the cafes and cabarets was taken up by the Council at the suggestion of the Mayor, with the idea of making conditions acceptable to the government officials with regard to the Linda Vista cantonment and the other army and navy stations here. Government investigators made reports to the Mayor.

Councilmen Virgil Bruschi and Walter Moore voted against the revocation of the licenses. Councilman Moore claimed that if the license of one place was taken away all cabaret licenses should be revoked, including the Grant Grill.

The general order affecting all city saloons within a half-mile of a military establishment and all county saloons within five miles of one is interpreted by Inspector Dave Gershon of the United States Department of Justice to apply to saloons within a half-mile of the old army barracks on Market street. This would include most of the saloons of the city, and, according to Inspector Gershon, it must be enforced at once.

City Attorney T. B. Cosgrove does not believe enforcement in the downtown district can be done, as he takes the order to relate only to army cantonments. He says all barracks or other places where soldiers and sailors were quartered prior to the President's order would not be affected. He has referred the matter to United States District Attorney Schoonover, who said he is doubtful as to its meaning. A final interpretation is awaited from the Department of Justice, to which the War Department referred Attorney Schoonover's query.

ANTIS ARE BUSY.

A dry campaign is being carried on here by the Anti-Saloon League, and yesterday many dry speakers occupied pulpits of churches throughout the city. D. M. Gandier, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of California, is leading the campaign. Headquarters for the drys will be established this week and a committee of nineteen from the Dry Federation will conduct the campaign.

OLD-TIME HOSTESS IS DEAD AT ONTARIO.

ONTARIO, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, who with her husband, Capt. John Smith, conducted a roadhouse on the old Los Angeles-San Bernardino-Arizona stage line in the Cucamonga district over forty-seven years ago, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eva Henderson, in Etiwanda. Mrs. Smith was 74 years old. At the time she ran the roadhouse near the old Cucamonga winery there was nothing where Ontario now stands but sage brush and cactus. Mrs. Smith leaves a widower, two daughters and a son. The funeral will be from Draper's parlors, Ontario, tomorrow morning, with burial in Bellevue Cemetery.

USE FIRE TO RETARD FRUIT PICKING.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DINUBA, Aug. 6.—Following several mysterious fires which have destroyed quantities of fruit trays and picking boxes orchard and vineyard growers of this district have been advised by the County Council of Defense to distribute their equipment over their property to prevent the destruction of any quantity of it either by design or accident.

It is stated that during the past ten days upwards of 20,000 trays, stacked in various parts of the Alta district, have been burned, and while there is no definite evidence the circumstances surrounding the fires point to incendiarism.

Ellen Beach Yaw's Annual Concert for Newboys' Home is Great Success and Big Crowd is Given Artistic Treat in Open Air.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COVINA, Aug. 6.—Forty singers and dancers contributed to the splendid success of Mme. Ellen Beach Yaw's annual concert for the benefit of the Lark Ellen Home for Newsboys, Saturday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Thorpe.

Before an audience larger even than in former years, Mme. Yaw gave the famous mad scene from "Hamlet," and appeared in the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet." She achieved a wonderful success in the song of her own composition, "The Lark," and awakened the echoes in the surrounding orchards of oranges. The programme was delightfully varied, including grand opera numbers and recent popular airs, vaudeville stunts and interpretive dancing.

The famous concert singer, who makes her home in the Covina Valley, is making an increasing success of this annual affair, and was able to announce that it was a financial as well as artistic triumph.

ORCHARD REPORTS MORE HOPEFUL.

WALNUT GROWERS EXPECT LOSS TO BE QUITE SMALL.

Citrus Groves will Give Bigger Yields than was First Estimated After the June Hot Spell. Pruner Says There will be at Least a Quarter Crop.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Aug. 6.—A new note of optimism has been heard among the citrus growers, ranchers and walnut growers in this vicinity for the past several days, the reason for which is contained in the growing knowledge that the hot spell of June 14 to 17 did not do the damage that was at first expected.

It is true that the citrus men have suffered heavy losses, but even they are beginning to realize that where they thought the entire crop was lost in those few days, there is now evidence of some fruit. The walnut situation about Pomona and vicinity is gratifying. Where heavy loss was at first expected, a general survey has brought forth the estimate that the loss will be about 25 per cent. On the O. W. McClintock groves at Walnut it is estimated that the crop of walnuts will be about normal, and the quality of the fruit is excellent. On some of the trees where the fruit was heaviest before the heat wave the fruit has been improved by the thinning caused by the drop. The oranges at Walnut suffered about the same condition as in Pomona. Some of the groves are expected to yield about a 25 per cent. crop.

H. W. Williamson of Claremont, who has been engaged in pruning trees for a number of years, and has pruned a number of groves since the heat wave, believes that there will be about 20 per cent. of a normal crop. He said: "When I get on the inside of the trees I find quite a bit more fruit than is discernible from the outside branches, and I believe that we will have a larger crop than many growers expect."

With unexcelled facilities for bay and surf bathing, Coronado Tent City grows daily more popular.—[Advertisement.

MAY CLOSE ALLEYS AT LORDSBURG.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LORDSBURG, Aug. 6.—If the plans of the trustees of Lordsburg College are carried out, there will be two alleys and perhaps one street in this city closed, in order that an undivided plot of ground may be secured as a campus for the new group of buildings, the erection of which is to start within a few weeks. It is said that the Council is willing to close the alleys and street if the property owners favor it, for it is expected that the fine college campus will increase the value and desirability of the properties adjoining it.

GERMANY CANNOT GET APRICOT PITS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Aug. 6.—A valuable by-product of the local canneries is that of the pits taken from the apricots. As a result of the wonderful season just closed, when the Pomona Valley Canning Company and the Sunset Cannery, of this city, handled nearly twice as many apricots than ever before, there were four big freight carloads of apricot pits shipped.

These were sent to Santa Clara, where the oil is extracted. In past years these pits have been sent to Germany, for the same purpose, but now that that market is cut off they are used here. There were tons and tons of the pits this year, and they brought $25 per ton. This is about $10 less than they sold to the German market.

BEAUTIES WILL HOLD PARADE.

Pike Concessionaire Asserts City Won't Stop Him.

Long Beach Commission Says it is Undesirable.

Ministerial Association is Also Opposed to It.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—Agitation over the proposed holding of a bathing suit parade in Long Beach next Sunday is reaching greater proportions daily.

A special meeting of the Long Beach Ministerial Association will be held tomorrow to discuss ways and means to prevent the holding of the parade.

The members of the Long Beach Veterans' Union today passed resolutions condemning the proposition, and local W.C.T.U. officials announced today they would take similar action Friday. The majority of the City Commission is opposed to the costumed procession as "undesirable and inexpedient."

It is reported that the municipal censorship committee affecting public morals, composed of Mayor William T. Lisenby Safety Commissioner James Williams and City Attorney George L. Hoodenpyl, will suppress the parade if the bathing suits are found to be improper.

Fred Dunn, president of the Pike Association, and instigator of the amusement features here, offered today to submit the bathing suits to the inspection of the Ministerial Association or any body of representative clergymen. He says that the majority of the Pike concessionaires are in favor of the parade, and that he will go through with it.

"We want it understood that we are opposed to the bathing-suit parade on principle, and without any compulsion having been brought to bear upon us," declared Mayor Lisenby to Mr. Dunn, who was summoned before the City Commissioners today in order that that body might give him its view.

Public Affairs Commissioner E. E. Tincher commented: "It would be out of character for Long Beach to attempt such a thing. We have our own amusements and appeal to our own particular class of people. We should not try to compete with other and different beaches by meeting them on their own ground."

Public Safety Commissioner James R. Williams declared he will not permit the parade to be held on public streets, and that any one wearing an indecent costume in a parade on the Pike, which is private property, will be arrested.

PLANT TAKEN OVER.

Agents for the United States Shipping Board today notified the officials of the Craig Shipbuilding Company that its new plant on Long Beach Harbor, together with the two new steel steamships Eldorado and Silverado, now in course of construction, had been commandeered by the government.

The Craig company expects the Shipping Board to send a representative to this city to supervise the completion of the two vessels, which will be ready for launching December 1, John F. Craig thought it possible that a day and night shift might be ordered to work to complete the ships. At present there is only a day shift on duty.

Keels for both vessels have been laid out and work has progressed considerably beyond that point. The ships are to be 250 feet long and to possess a carrying capacity of 3000 tons each. They were contracted for at $450,000 apiece, an amount which Mr. Craig thinks the government will more than cover.

EXCITED CITIZEN KILLS POLICEMAN,

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Aug. 5.—A. J. Haney of this city received word today that his nephew, a member of the police force of Kansas City, was killed last night when hunting two burglars. He had shot one of the burglars and was chasing the other when an excited citizen on a near-by porch, thinking that he was a burglar, took a pot shot at him. He died a short time after he reached the hospital. He was to have been married within a few days.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 6.—Of the eighteen men of this section who applied for admission to the next officers' training camp, which is to open in August, but six were called for examination and of the six but three met the requirements. Note the worm drive

Behold the Ford one-ton truck we have been hearing about.

HERE IT IS—THAT BRAND NEW FORD ONE-TON TRUCK

THE first Ford truck reached Los Angeles yesterday. It was immediately put on the showroom floor at the assembling plant, and not until the doors were closed for the day did the crowd of interested spectators leave. The truck chassis looks like the regular Ford chassis, but it is longer, the wheelbase being 120 inches, is much more strongly built, has a heavy overhead worm drive and solid rear tires.

The engine is the same—a front view is no different than that of the five-passenger car chassis—and even to the horn it is a duplicate of the regulation model T Ford.

The rear springs are so much heavier than the ordinary springs, however, that there is no comparison. The frame throughout has the appearance of possessing great strength, and a one-ton load, it is claimed, makes but little impression upon the springs.

"If we had them we could sell 5000 trucks in this territory within a few months," said the assistant manager. "But we can't get 500 at this time, let alone 5000. We hope to get about 300 within a reasonable time, and if the crowd that has been in here today continues they will all be spoken for in a few weeks."

Battlers.

YOUNG BROWN TO THE FORE

Mexican Windmill Tackles Frankie Farren.

Muff Bronson will Battle Frankie Sullivan.

Finn-Wing Scrap Promises Lots of Pepper.

BY LEEPSON BOWNE.

At one frantic leap Young Brown, the Mexican windmill, lands squarely in the calcium. Starting less than six months ago in a first preliminary, the dark-skinned tornado has fought his way into a main event, and tonight meets Frankie Farren of San Francisco in Jack Doyle's "you can't resistance," as Billy Coe would say.

THE FACTS.

Frankie Farren is the young man who recently took a licking on a decision on the same night to a clever, hard-hitting rival, who has a K.O. verdict over Tommy Richards to his credit as well as a hairline decision over Willie Ritchfield. It will be seen that Young Brown is picking nothing out of his first opponent.

The semi-windup will present something that bears all the earmarks of a main event. Muff Bronson of Portland, until his defeat at the hands of Young Fritz last Tuesday, regarded as one of the best lightweights on the Coast, meets Frankie Sullivan, who taught boxing to Noah's kids coming over the Ark.

A GOOD BOY.

Bronson is a far better boxer than he showed last Tuesday. It was easy to see that he was peeved by Fritz's awkward style, and towards the end of the bout he was handing Fritz everything he was getting. Sullivan is an ancient and tough old bird who has won two score of victories in the past week. He is matched against class tonight.

"Toughy" Wing, the little Filipino slugger who defeated both Young Frenchie and Kid Mende, will meet Lang Finn in a special preliminary. Finn is a member of the Coast Artillery, and has been boxing at San Diego for the past couple of years. He is a sturdy, hard-hitting boy, and the kind to make an interesting match with Wing.

O'BRIEN AGAIN.

Tommy O'Brien, the Hilltop featherweight, mixes with Young Cordova of San Diego in another rattling good preliminary bout. The other two battles will be between Ray Lincoln and Al Bert, and a couple of meaty individuals answering to the names of Reyes and Torres. Let 'er go, say we.

CANADIAN AVIATORS TO TRAIN IN TEXAS

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Announcement was made by the Canadian Recruiting Mission tonight that Lieut. H. B. Denton, in charge of recruiting for the Royal Flying Corps, will go to Texas soon to lay out an aviation camp for the corps.

"This camp in Texas," the statement said, "will mean a wider co-operation between the various sections of the American, British and French, and a further standardization of methods of training and work."

CATHOLIC RECREATION FUND OVERSUBSCRIBED

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The $1,000,000 fund being raised by the Knights of Columbus for the relief and recreation of Catholic soldiers and sailors has been oversubscribed, according to Supreme Knight A. Flaherty, Supreme Knight, today, and the Supreme Council will consider increasing the quota to $5,000,000 when they meet in annual convention Tuesday.

The need of more money is apparent when organization is prepared to let contracts for Chaplain's quarters and recreation centers. More than $1,000,000 in contracts already have been let.

GETS TWO SONOMA MOUNTAIN BEARS.

Dr. Barber of Los Angeles, one of the first to make use of the new affidavit provision for deer hunting, has two bucks were transported from Santa Rosa, in Sonoma county, to Los Angeles. They offered interesting studies to huntsmen regarding their disparity of weight and size. The four-pointer, although the smaller apparently, dressed heavier, the eight pounds, while the former's weight was nearly twice as many pounds.

CHALMERS MAKES WONDERFUL MARK

Four records, previously held by other cars, have been lowered by the Chalmers Six record speedster, and recognized by the A.A.A., under whose auspices the speed trials were made, officially approved today. The records now held by the Chalmers follow:

Twenty-four-hour record, 1893 miles; best previous record, 1819 miles.

Twelve-hour record, 1023 miles; best previous record, 923 miles.

One hundred-mile record, one hour, ten minutes and 45 98-100 seconds.

One-hour record: [illegible]

The Chalmers record-breaking car, only twenty-five of which have been made, is the six-cylinder model turned out by the Chalmers company. One will be sent to each of the twenty-five largest agencies, and, of course, Los Angeles will be under this head.

The car was driven by Ralph Dawson, and the records were established at Brooklands.

Mercy!

SEA PATROL BRINGS JAPS TO JUSTICE.

FIRST ARRESTS ARE MADE UNDER NEW STATE LAW.

Three Fishermen to be Tried in Superior Court for Round-hauling Bait in Forbidden Catalina District—Official Craft Visits Avalon Under Cover of Night.

The first arrest under the new California anti-seining laws occurred Sunday morning, when the Fish and Game Commission's sea patrol, Capt. H. B. Nidever commanding, put into Avalon with three Japanese, apprehended for round-hauling bait off White's Landing within the forbidden Catalina district No. 20, consecrated to anglers.

Justice Peckham held the fishermen to answer in the sum of $300 bail, Capt. Nidever having the net, fish and all other evidence under seizure. The foreign anglers are to be tried in the Superior Court.

The return of the official police boat will give a new twist to Catalina conversation, for during the past fortnight opinion has prevailed that the patrol was accomplishing little or nothing. Reports of unabated seining have been drifting across the channel. Ten days ago Nidever's craft put into Avalon for an hour, then disappeared on what was generally known as a ten-days' cruise to the Santa Barbara Islands.

According to the local fish and game office, Nidever covered about 500 miles, and was a frequent, but unannounced, caller in Catalina water, mostly under cover of night. Several hauls were made at sea for Fisheries Investigator Thompson's work on young fish and spawning habits of albacore. A start was made in rounding up commercial fishermen engaged without license.

CATALINA REPORT.

August 4—Tuna, 3; swordfish, 2; yellowtail, 1; rock bass, 146; albacore, 436.

August 5—Tuna, 2; black sea bass, 1; rock bass, 178; albacore, 260; barracuda, 14; mackerel, 6.

LOCAL DEER HUNTERS COMING AND GOING.

Bill Ruess, Harry Rusk and party are headed for Ventura county today, after five-pointers.

T. D. Robinson, veteran deer killer and speed cop, and Wallace Beery, are back from the Piru Mountains with a 150-pound forked horn bagged by Beery. Four forked horns, and a five-point killed by a boy, are reported. D. B. Graham brought the limit into Moor Park, according to Pete Peterson.

LAKE TAHOE WILL SOON HAVE LINKS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LAKE TAHOE, Aug. 6.—The golf enthusiast is about to come into his own at Tahoe Tavern, if plans now under consideration are carried to completion. For some time there has been a movement among the owners of summer homes near here for the establishing of a golf club. This desire has grown until a well-organized campaign for such an institution has developed. General Manager C. T. Bliss of Tahoe Tavern and the transportation lines announced yesterday that the need for golf on the lake had become so imperative that he believed something would be done concerning the establishing of a course this fall.

FOUR-POINT BUCK BROUGHT TO TOWN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug. 6.—Lafe Todd and E. Berry of this city and J. C. Burnett of Fullerton brought in a four-point buck from the Huasna country, yesterday afternoon. The buck weighed 135½ pounds dressed. Several bucks have been seen in the mountains back of the San Luis Hot Sulphur Springs and a number of hunting parties left for the resort yesterday. Others plan on going today.

SOUTHAMPTON (N. Y.) Aug. 6.—Miss Mary K. Bowne, three times national title-holder, and John R. Strachan, both of San Francisco, with other tennis stars, failed to arrive here today to begin the invitation tournament. Miss Browne was reported to be in need of a rest. The men begin their matches tomorrow.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Fred Mitchell, manager of the Chicago National League baseball team, returned from the East today and announced that he had bought Outfielder Barber of the Baltimore club, International League, for $15,000, and two players, whose names he did not give. ## BOARD TURNS DOWN A WRESTLING STAR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—Jack Fisher, who claims to be the champion lightweight wrestler, was rejected by the selective army board in the Seventeenth Ward here today. His vision was found defective.

KID BLACK WINS FROM MIKE MURPHY.

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Aug. 6.—Kid Black of New York tonight won from Mike Murphy of New Orleans in fifteen of the hardest rounds of fighting seen here in some time. Black used some of Johnnie Dundee's tactics, including the flying punch, and a hard right cross to the body. Murphy was continually on the defensive. Referee Frenchy Fay's decision was popular. Young Herman won the decision over Al Grunts in ten rounds and Al Latorte and Young Rugso fought a four-round draw.

CATALINA GOLFERS TO HOLD TOURNEY.

Golfers of the Santa Catalina Island Golf and Country Club have arranged for a tournament on Saturday, August 18, to which members of the Southern California clubs are welcome to enter. Ford Sterling has put up a handsome trophy that will go to the winner of the first flight. There will be prizes for all flights. No entrance fee is charged.

JACK RYAN TRIES A NATURE CURE.

The mystery of Jack Ryan, Angel beaver who recently eloped from his team at Salt Lake, has been solved. Ryan is greeting the sun this morning in or near Topango Canyon, Santa Monica.

Although Ryan's railroad ticket was found in Salt Lake Sunday, the recently deposed Angel arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, jumped into his seagoing jitney and set his sails for Ocean Park. From 2:30 until 5:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon he was seen at the Breakers Cafe. After providing himself with a twelfth of a gross of nourishment, Ryan headed for the hills. He said he would see Gus Vorn Dam, of the Breakers, at 10 o'clock this morning.

PETER POINTER TAKES FEATURE.

WALTER COCHATO PUTS UP A TERRIFIC BATTLE.

Strong Finish Enables Snow's Steed to Win by Taking the Last Three Heats—The Woodman is Nearly Distanced in First Heat of the 2:09 Trot, but Wins Race.

COLUMBUS (O.) Aug. 6.—Peter Pointer won the $3000 Elks Home stake for 2:05 eligibles after a six-heat battle in which early favorites were toppled one after another and only Peter Pointer and Walter Cochato were left for the final duty.

Walter Cochato twice paced 2:02½, winning heats in staving off the Savoy, but a break in the fourth heat gave Peter Pointer his chance to land. He was fresher and took the fifth and sixth heats easily.

Drivers Valentine, Grain and McMahon each were fined $25 at the end of the first mile for not trying to win.

The Woodman took the 2:09 trot after making a break and finishing fourth in the first mile. He took a new record of 2:06¼ in the second heat.

The Ohio colt trot for 2-year-olds owned in Ohio on April 2 of this year was a neat little tilt between Ramco, the winner, and Eleven Black of the Pastime Stables. Ramco came in through the stretch each heat and outtrotted his rivals. The time of the second mile, 2:12½, was the fastest mile for the 2-year-old trotters this season.

NATIONAL GIVES BALL OUTFIT TO JACKIES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Complete baseball outfits, including bases, gloves, bats, balls and masks, have been given to eight ships in the United States Navy by the eight teams of the National League, it was announced here today by John A. Heydler, secretary of the league. In addition the league has donated hundreds of baseballs and other diamond paraphernalia to other units in the nation's military service, the announcement said.

DOVES FALLING FAST.

Sportsmen who make the Bakersfield journey are getting plenty of doves. Six limits in one field were reported to Pete Peterson at Cline's yesterday.

S. A. and W. A. Brunner of the Vernon Gun Club were among the fortunate.

LANDSLIDE KILLS TROUT.

C. Alexander of Los Angeles, just back from the Kern River, advises anglers not to make the journey up that stream. Alexander traveled six miles above Fairview, and reports that a landslide has killed a big proportion of the trout.

GENE DAVIS A BRAKEMAN.

Gene Davis, former Poly athletic light, is now a brakeman on an eastern railroad. In the fall he will enter Mercersburg Academy. Davis likes his job, according to a letter to Rufus Klawans, as he has a four-hour lay-off at Atlantic City (N. J.) every day.

VENTURA FOUND GREEN.

Returning deer hunters report that some Ventura authorities, ignorant of the new game law permitting deer to be transported from open to closed district, brought many sportsmen undue aggravation. It is believed the novelty will soon wear off, as a genuine invasion is expected when the moon gets right and the heat recedes.

GREEK SHIP SUNK BY GERMAN U-BOAT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The Greek steamship Charilaos Tricoupis, a vessel of 2475 tons gross register, owned by the National Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., of Greece, was sunk July 13 by a German submarine, according to a cable received here today by agents of the line. Capt. Goulandris and his crew of thirty-five men were picked up and landed at a British port by an American destroyer.

Maritime records show no recent movements of the steamer, and agents of the line here said they understood she had been chartered to the British government. The vessel, built in 1892 at Sunderland, was 300 feet long, with a 40-foot beam.

AMERICAN CANTEEN AN ISSUE IN BRITAIN.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—James Duncan Miller, Liberal member for Northeast Lanarkshire, asked in the House of Commons whether representations had been received from the American military authorities regarding the character of the canteens for American troops here and in France and whether any beverages other than nonalcoholic were provided.

In reply, James Ian McPherson, Parliamentary Secretary for the War Office, said the canteens were similar to those open to the British troops. No objections had been raised by the American military authorities to similar arrangements in France.

MOST CHICAGOANS ARE FIT FOR WAR.

From these figures the percentage of men physically qualified was given as 83 and of those apparently ready for service as 22.

WOMEN SHAVE UNKNOWINGLY
The razor would solve the superfluous hair problem if merely removing hair quickly were all that were required of a depilatory.
Whether you use a razor or questionable depilatories the result is the same; you only remove hair from the surface of the skin, which causes it to grow out again coarser and stiffer.
The only common-sense way to remove hair is to attack it under the skin. DeMiracle, the original sanitary liquid, operates on principle. It alone contains certain ingredients which give it the power to rob hair of its vitality. It does this by absorption.
DeMiracle works equally well for removing hair from face, neck, arms, under arms or limbs to prevent it from showing through stockings.
Insist on the genuine DeMiracle. It is the only depilatory that has a money-back guarantee in each package. In 60c, $1 and $2 bottles at all toilet counters or direct from us in plain wrapper on receipt of price.
FREE booklet mailed in plain sealed envelope on request. Write for it today and read it before you make another application of any depilatory. DeMiracle Chemical Co., Dept. 614, Park Ave. and 129th st., New York.—[Advertisement.

New Hair Remover Gets Roots and All
Here's the greatest thing for hair-disfigured womankind that has happened in a hundred years! A way to actually remove the roots of superfluous hair—easily, instantly, and harmlessly! A method that does away forever with shaving, electrolysis, and the application of preparations which merely take off the surface hair.
The new phelactine process is so certain to remove the hair entire, roots and all, that druggists are authorized to refund the price in any case of dissatisfaction. There's no odor or messiness about phelactine, and it is entirely non-poisonous; a child could safely eat it. Get a stick of phelactine today, follow the simple directions, and you will have the surprise of your life. With your own eyes you will see the roots come out.

WIFE PREVENTS HIS EXEMPTION.

Tells Board Discipline will be a Good Thing for Her Husband.

A Los Angeles young man's hope of exemption from military service on a plea of a dependent wife and family went glimmering when the wife filed with the exemption board of District No. 1, Tulare county, a sworn statement in which she declared she is amply able to earn her own living.

The name of the applicant for exemption was not given by the board officers. It was stated, however, that a letter accompanied the affidavit, in which the woman, now a resident of Los Angeles, said she believed the army discipline would be a "good thing" for the husband, and meanwhile she has made all preparations for earning the living for herself and two children.

CITY DISTRICT NO. 12.

District No. 16.

CITY'S FOREIGN-BORN LEAD IN PATRIOTISM.

THE honors of the day in the great sifting-out proceedings of the draft in this city went yesterday to City Exemption District No. 16, in Boyle Heights, a section sometimes refered to as the "melting pot" of Los Angeles, on account of its large alien and foreign population. Many citizen of foreign birth in this district showed plainly that they were fighting mad at the insults and aggressions perpetrated by the Kaiser's government against the land of their adoption by marching into the district headquarters at First and Chicago streets for their physical examinations and then marching out again without stopping to ask for exemption blanks.

Of the 107 men who passed the physical test with flying colors, sixty-two, or 58 per cent., did not make any claim for exemption from military service. No other district in Los Angeles can claim such a record. Of the men who thus practically signalized their intention of offering themselves to the army, probably more than half are foreign-born. In the list are men born in Italy, Mexico, Russia, Greece, Austria and in Germany, as well as a gallant squad of American-born Chinese.

The examination of the Chinese citizens afforded the most picturesquely interesting event of the whole day in the East Side district. Ten of them came at once under the tutelage of a gray-haired old Chinaman who acted as spokesman for the rest. The leader, himself in years twice the age of the draft limit, stepped up to the exemption board and explained that all the men with him were American citizens, that they had come to take their examinations, and that none of them proposed to ask exemption on any grounds. Before those in charge could get his name he had gone, and his charges were filing in to see the doctors. They were a stalwart crew, only one of them failing to pass, and he appeared to be all broken up about it.

The board had its hands full from early morning until late at night. Eighty-three aliens, talking a dozen different tongues, had to be weeded out and herded away. Many of these could not understand why they were not allowed to have a physical examination, and but for the timely assistance of numerous volunteer interpreters, hopeless confusion would have resulted. Eighty out of the total of 263 men summoned to appear did not present themselves, most of them being Mexicans.

The number examined by the physicians was 128, several of them being aliens who by error were allowed into the examination room and then had to be eliminated. Of the 114 citizens examined, seven were disqualified for physical defects. Forty-five in all claimed exemption, nearly all on the ground of having dependents to support.

MARINE SCHOOL IS ATTRACTIVE.

Thirty Apply First Day for Navigation School.

Capacity, However, is Just that Number.

Los Angeles came forward handsomely yesterday in response to the United States Shipping Board's invitation that it furnish a class of bright young mariners for instruction at a free navigation school to be opened at the harbor next Monday to train officers for the merchant marine.

The school has a class capacity of thirty. Yesterday, the first day of enrollment for admission to the first class, thirty young men put their names to application blanks. This did not mean, necessarily, that all will pass the preliminary examinations as to seafaring experience, for two years' deck service on an ocean-going vessel is the minimum requirement to admit a candidate to the school. It did show, however, that Los Angeles is "a sailor's town," responsive to the call of blue water.

Enrollment for the class, which will continue all this week, opened at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and at the harbor at the office of Capt. J. M. Ansell, inspector of steam vessels.

At the chamber fifteen men had registered up to 3 o'clock. The first man to write his name upon an enrollment blank was P. L. Holland of No. 1206½ Gerard street.

At the harbor fifteen men also appeared for enrollment. The first man accepted by Capt. Ansell was Ernest Kellinberger of No. 5123 Latham street, Los Angeles, a former bluejacket in the navy, ready and eager to do his bit in the merchant marine, and in the submarine zone to boot.

Preliminary organization for the navigation school was completed yesterday by the Shipping Board's two representatives, who have been in the city since Friday for the purpose, Winfield M. Thompson, field agent, and Farnham P. Griffiths of San Francisco, chief of the board's recruiting service for California.

Quarters for the school were found at the City Hall, San Pedro, where the police courtroom will be used for the indoor sessions of the class. There are frequent outdoor sessions to make observations of the sun.

To assist in the administration of the school the board's representatives secured the co-operation of this advisory committee: Mayor Woodman, Henry W. O'Melveny, attorney; L. D. Sale, president of the Chamber of Commerce; L. C. Pardee, deputy collector of customs; Capt. J. M. Ansell, inspector of hulls, Steamboat Inspection Service; Harry Ohlsen, secretary of the Sailors' Union; Edwin O. Louchs, deputy city prosecutor at the harbor, and S. M. Storer, secretary of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce. The last named is chairman and secretary of the committee.

The United States Shipping Board will request exemption from military duty for each and every student in the navigation school who passes his examination. This telegram was received by Field Agent Thompson from recruiting headquarters of the Shipping Board:

"Shipping Board has already requested exemption from military service for our students. Think it will undoubtedly be arranged through local exemption boards."

ALIMONY REDUCED.

Allowance for Mrs. Robert L. Couts is Cut Fifty Dollars a Month When the Court Allows the Husband to Borrow on Property in City.

Judge Wood yesterday authorized a loan of $2500 on property belonging to Robert L. Couts at No. 225 Winston street. This property is valued at $15,000. He also allowed a deduction of $50 from the $200 a month alimony Mr. Couts was ordered to pay Sue V. Couts, who is suing him for divorce on the ground that her husband bought an automobile and made other gifts to other women.

The court urged the couple to agree to a receiver so that their case would not require their presence in court so frequently. Through Attorney Collier, Mr. Couts offered to deed to Mrs. Couts all community property, subject to incumbrances. This offer was refused by Attorney Fred W. Morrison, counsel for Mrs. Couts.

FIGHT ABOUT BATH.

Husband Strives in Court to Take Back Lot Deeded to His Wife Fifteen Years Ago, on a Condition He Alleges Made it a Trust.

Charles W. Hall, janitor of a city school, told Judge Wood yesterday that when his wife, Lillian Hall, did not have a bath for three weeks he made her take one and go to bed. Mrs. Hall denied the imputation. She said she took a bath every week. She declared he knocked her into the bath tub. She also stated he was niggardly with money.

If she asked for money, she testified, he would slap her in the face. She also said he did not buy her any clothing for eleven years.

The main cause of their differences was a mining scheme in which Mr. Hall invested his money and in consequence was kept "broke." Mrs. Hall was awarded $7 a week alimony.

FRUIT MAN BANKRUPT.

Anthony B. Monteleone, a fruit dealer of this city, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday. His debts are scheduled as $20,719.69, of which $16,046.02 are unsecured. The assets are given as real estate, $4000; household goods, $200, and one Chalmers automobile, $600. The petitioner claims an exemption of $6200, made up of a homestead valued at $5000 and his household goods.

A VALANCHE OF DAMAGE SUITS.

Fifty-three Against Long Beach Called Here at One Time.

Fifty-three damage suits against the city of Long Beach growing out of the Empire Day disaster, May 24, 1913, were called in Judge Thomas's court yesterday. It was announced by attorneys that forty-five were in process of settlement and so they went off calendar.

Eight suits were transferred for trial to Judge Monroe's department. The latter include actions brought by Adeline P. Barnes, Lydia Rice, Mabel F. Cappell, Amelia Purser, Ada May Thomas and M. Furnsaux, representing in damages more than $100,000. The terms of the compromise in the forty-five cases were not stated.

Judge Monroe yesterday gave judgment for $750 in favor of Mrs. Adeline Barnes for injuries she sustained in the Empire Day disaster.

HAMBURGERS MOTOR ACROSS CONTINENT.

ARRIVE HERE BY AUTO FROM NEW YORK CITY.

Find it is the Ideal Way to See the Country and that the Trip is Attended by Few Hardships. Business in Great Industrial Centers Prospers.

One of the most remarkable automobile trips of recent months was completed by D. A. Hamburger and his family last Saturday, when they reached their home in Santa Monica after traveling 5500 miles by motor. The prominent local merchant, accompanied by his wife and their two children, Arthur M., 11, and Florence Evelyn, 9 years old, left New York City June 21, and after touching at all the main cities from that metropolis to Southern California, arrived here none the worse for their long journey. The only other member of the party was the family chauffeur.

"There is only one way to see America properly," said Mr. Hamburger yesterday afternoon, "and that is by motor. Both the members of my family and myself enjoyed the outdoor life immensely, but it is certainly good to be home again. Although we saw many delightful places, and did not suffer from the heat, there is only one locality to live in, and that is Southern California."

The Hamburger party went first to Washington, D. C., and a side trip was made to the battlefield of Gettysburg. Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Chicago were then visited in the order named. According to Mr. Hamburger, business was never so prosperous in those large centers as it is today.

After spending two days in the Windy City, on July 3 a start was made over the White Pole road for Omaha, Neb., over an exceptionally fine stretch of pavement, and the latter city was reached without special incident July 7. Three days later the party reached Denver. From there the trip was more difficult, as the road through Wyoming were in some places almost impassable.

On July 15 a stop was made at Salt Lake. After encountering rough going through Idaho and the eastern part of Oregon, Portland was reached July 23.

Forest fires prevented the Hamburgers from going to Shasta Springs, as they had intended, so they went direct to Vallejo and then to San Francisco. From the Bay City the return home was made by way of the valley route.

FINE DAIRYMEN.

However, it is Liquor, Not Milk, that Leads to Criminal Action.

J. B. del Valle and John Mayne, proprietors of a dairy between Compton and Gardena, were arraigned before Justice Cooney at Compton yesterday on charges of illegally selling liquor, and were fined $100 and $200, respectively.

The accused men were arrested recently by Capt. Austin of the District Attorney's office, when their dairy was raided and a quantity of liquor was found and confiscated.

DESERTED AND FREED.

Wife Gets Decree; Visiting Judge to Watch Alimony.

Florence Burns was granted a decree of divorce from Herbert E. Burns by Judge Thomas yesterday. Mrs. Burns alleged desertion and nonsupport. She testified Mr. Burns deserted her November 27, 1915, and refused to live with her, or to support either her or their boy. The court ordered Mr. Burns to pay her $7.50 a week for their support and gave her the custody of the boy.

In a speech to the attorneys, the court said that in such cases he was willing to come up from Santa Ana any time telephoned to and sit as a committing magistrate, if his order was not complied with. Mrs. Burns was represented by Attorney Stephen L. Sullivan.

LYONS CASE HEARD.

Registrar of Voters Fights to Get His Salary.

The suit of R. P. Benton against County Treasurer Hunt to restrain him from paying David B. Lyons his salary as Registrar of Voters, on the ground that his office was vacant, came before Judge Wellborn yesterday for a hearing. It was alleged that Mr. Lyons absented himself from the State without permission and that under the law his office was vacated.

Mr. Lyons contended through Attorney Beardsley that armed guards were maintained at the office of Registrar of Voters and that it was impossible for him to take possession. Further argument will be resumed today.

HAD ANOTHER CASE IN MIND.

Contempt Proceeding Now is Double-barreled One.

Editorial did not Influence, Says Record Lawyer.

Question of Law Chief Crux in the Test Action.

The editorial, in The Record, published March 10, last, entitled "Let's Go from Here," which declared that The Record had plenty of evidence to win any of the pending libel suits brought against it, and that any twelve honest men would return a unanimous verdict in ten minutes, was not in Judge Finlayson's mind, it developed yesterday, when he heard argument last week in the contempt case against Dana Sleeth, the editor of that paper.

Because of this, the court stated yesterday, when argument was resumed, that possibly this editorial constituted contempt of court also, and for this reason he reopened the case for further argument. The case was submitted on briefs and the case continued until Saturday.

Oscar Lawler, acting for Attorney John H. Perry of The Record, argued that the statute of California, abolishing constructive contempt is conclusive and was passed to meet the ruling of the courts of this State in the Barrie case.

Further, assuming that the statute is unconstitutional, he declared that the editorial of March 10, last, does not constitute contempt, unless the affidavit upon which the contempt proceedings is based alleges facts showing that the article actually interferred with cases pending against The Record.

Mr. Lawler also asserted that the inherent power which the court has to punish for contempt is limited to violation of the court's processes, and all other power is limited to that given by the statutes.

Deputy District Attorney Doran argued that the section abolishing constructive contempt is unconstitutional, and cited authorities. Dana Sleeth filed an additional affidavit.

LIFE'S EVE STORMY.

Husband Tells Divorce Judge Wife was Unwashed for Three Weeks; She Denies it But States He Knocked Her into a Tub of Water.

John E. Cutter gave his wife, Ellen Prescott Cutter, a lot in Long Beach valued at $5000. This was fifteen years ago. The condition was that she should make a will, bequeathing the property to his granddaughter, Natalie A. Noyes. This alleged gift was made five years after their marriage.

Differences arose and Mrs. Cutter left him and came to Los Angeles from their Riverside home. Yesterday the elderly couple was in Judge Shenk's court, Mrs. Cutter contesting her husband's suit to recover the property, on the ground she had not complied with the conditions.

Mrs. Cutter declares she did make the will, but set up that the lot was a gift to her during her life. He asserts it was not a gift but a trust, and the court is asked to terminate the trust. Mrs. Cutter is represented by Attorney Tappaan. Mr. Cutter's attorney is Willoughby Rodman.

BABY IS BLINDED.

Thief in Home on Northern Fremont Believed to Have Poured Drug Over Infant's Face Prior to Ransacking Premises—Its Sight Probably Gone.

The eyesight of Samuel Senter, 7 months old, son of Morris Senter of No. 314 North Fremont avenue, probably has been completely ruined by a burglar, who yesterday poured some sort of drug over the infant's face that he might ransack the Senter home. He secured $15 in cash.

According to the report by Detectives James and Proffit, the burglar climbed through a rear window of the Senter home, drank a bottle of milk in the kitchen, and then entered the sleeping apartments. He heard the restless baby, and poured a liquid over its face to quiet its cries.

Late in the morning the parents found the baby in a stupor and unable to open its eyes. The attending physician said last night that the child may never see again.

TO IMPROVE STREETS.

The Board of Public Works filed with the City Clerk yesterday the assessment and report for the widening of Los Feliz avenue, from North Nella Vita avenue to Griffith Park. The Council adopted the ordinance of intention yesterday for the improvement of Wilton drive, from a line 25.36 feet south of First street to a line 66.67 feet north of Second street. The final ordinance for the improvement of the first alley south of Exposition boulevard, between Grand avenue and Flower street, was adopted. Similar ordinances were adopted for improvement of Menlo avenue, from San Marino to Tenth streets; Alexandria avenue from Fountain avenue to Santa Monica boulevard, and Orchard avenue, from Bonita Terrace to Fitch street, and other streets in the Orchard-avenue and Bonita Terrace improvement district.

Federal inspectors recently exonerated the Governor's captain of blame.

FIRE CHIEF TO FACE GRAND JURY.

IMPROPER HANDLING OF FUND IS ALLEGED.

Accused Expected to Produce Receipts Showing Purported Payment of Money—Alleged Beneficiary-to-be a Fireman, Who has Since Died.

Charges against Fire Chief Eley of improper handling of a $500 fund will be aired before the grand jury today. Other alleged irregularities in the fire department will be investigated by the jurors. Mr. Eley and many witnesses have been summoned before the body.

Mr. Eley is alleged to have misappropriated a fund of $500 intrusted to him for the benefit of Theodore O'Neill, a fireman, who was ill and who has since died. It is probable that Mr. Eley will present two receipts for the money that are alleged to have been given him by Mr. O'Neill.

It was stated at the District Attorney's office yesterday that the report and recommendations of the Criminal Complaints Committee will be presented to the grand jury as a whole. This committee has been investigating the Eley case for several weeks.

TRAVELS LEAD HER TO ALTAR.

Woman Meets Two Men on Trains; Weds Both?

Now She is in Jail Awaiting Trial for Bigamy.

First Bonds Voided by Lack of Consent, She Says.

Because, it is alleged, Mrs. Emma Mae Clark seemingly could not resist the romance offered while traveling through pretty mountain country, she was arraigned before Justice Summerfield yesterday on a charge of bigamy. It is charged that she is the wife of Claude Clark, a civil engineer, and also of John Bourland, employees of the Pacific Electric Company.

The case was continued until Wednesday. It is said that Attorney Guy Eddie, representing Mrs. Clark and Mr. Bourland, will attempt to prove that the supposed first marriage was illegal because Mrs. Clark never gave her consent. Mr. Clark said on the stand yesterday that she did not refuse to marry him, although she did not consent. They merely got off the train after he had asked her several times to become his wife, secured a marriage license and were married by Rev. Paul Smith.

Before her first alleged marriage Mrs. Clark was Miss Emma Mae Pruitt of this city. She met Mr. Clark while on a train in Oregon. He wooed her for three days, and they were married at San Francisco, according to the story.

While on a train near San Francisco last July she met Mr. Bourland, it is alleged. Likewise he wooed her for two or three days, and they returned to Los Angeles and were married, the authorities say.

Mrs. Clark will go on the stand tomorrow and will tell of the circumstances surrounding the curious case. She is held at the County Jail in default of bail.

Detective Would Like to Find the Passer or the Passee.

"Found, two gold bricks; owner please call at police station." This is the ad Detective Ziegler may place in the papers. He was called to No. 209 East Fifth street, yesterday, by two mysterious "farmers," who said a "bunko" man was trying to sell them gold bricks. They told the detective that the bricks would be found in a little black bag at that address. Detective Ziegler secured the bricks, but could not find the two farmers, nor the owners of the excellent sample of the blowpipe artist's art.

Father Wants Damages from Death-dealing Car's Owner.

AWAKENS PATRIOTISM

JULIA ARTHUR IN "LIBERTY AFLAME" IS ELOQUENT.

By Grace Kingsley.

Picture exhibitors throughout the country are having it called to their attention that so-called patriotic pictures, represented as "French Official," and so advertised, but containing faked scenes of a prejudicial character, are being circulated for exhibition. Edmond Ratisbonne, head of the French Official Pictorial Service in the United States, has the matter in hand. He is sending out a warning to the following effect:

"It is unfortunate that certain unscrupulous parties are using patched-up official pictures with other pictures, which are not official, and which give a distorted and undesirable impression, and are offering these pictures to exhibitors as 'French Official.' I wish to call the attention of all patriotic exhibitors to the fact that these are times when the performances of the Allied armies must not be misrepresented, and that they should co-operate by preventing the exhibition of 'pirated' pictures.

"All owners of bona fide Official French War Pictures may obtain my written indorsement, and all exhibitors showing such pictures are urged to demand such evidence before booking pictures, which are represented to them as 'French Official.'"

Orpheum.

Really, it's a shame to have to write with the meter on when there's a bill like the present one at the Orpheum! There are so many headliners they just naturally crowd each other into the footlights.

Julia Arthur, niched as one of America's most famous actresses, appears in a marvelously-impressive patriotic act entitled "Liberty Aflame." In this Miss Arthur is shown as the Goddess of Liberty, in the familiar form of the statue which decorates New York Harbor. Awakening, she delivers a vividly-telling patriotic monologue in her expressive and colorful voice, which, alternately soft and pleasing, or tense with emotion, or strong and vibrant, conveys her stirring message of devotion to country and to the cause of freedom. I don't think any good American will be quite proof against the eloquence of that message. I think there will be something agrip of his throat all through the stirring pictures of the nation's heroes and that pleading for liberty, and I wouldn't trust him at all not to break into overwhelming applause at the end when the orchestra crashes into the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner." Miss Arthur's triumph is due not only to the vital significance and timeliness of her offering, but to the intrinsic artistry of the production and its rendering, which, despite the fact Miss Arthur appears alone, adroitly combines all the qualities and conveys the effect of big and stirring drama. So effective, indeed, was the offering that at one time there were symptoms of hysteria in the audience yesterday.

That high voltage song writer, Harry Carroll, has dashed off a lot of new songs since he was here last, and all of them made a big hit, especially the near-patriotic one. As for the old songs, it was impossible to keep the audience from joining in the choruses. Carroll has a nifty little way of dashing into musical comedy atmosphere even while at the piano that raises his work to the highest pep power.

"I don't care for those puzzle plays," says Hugh Herbert, as hero of his own sketch, "The Prediction," meaning by puzzle plays, problem plays. And then he went right on and wrote one, or what seemed to be one, until the surprise end. "The Prediction" gives Mr. Herbert a chance to be a nice, lovable, witty east-side Hebrew, and he plays the part to perfection.

As implied by the name of their sketch, "A Bit of Scotch," Elmer El Cleve and Nan O'Connor were only a bit Scotch. In fact the Scotch didn't extend to their accent but was confined to their clothes in the opening song. They made a big hit, their charm lying in the fact they are young and fresh, and their clothes were fresh, and fresh also were their songs and jokes; the word fresh being used with no ulterior meaning.

The rollicking Trixie Friganza yanks the audience right down out of the rarefied air of art and patriotism into which Miss Arthur has placed them, and lets the crowd know, after all, it is composed of human beings who like to be amused. Miss Frizanza's act, while essentially the same as last week, introduces some new and very good songs—and, anyway, the versatile and rotund lady is bound to do something different at every performance.

The California Boys' Band, Orville Staum, and Buster Santos and Jacques Hays continue to score heavily a second week.

Tally's Broadway.

To such film fans as have souls aweary of the muck and murky meanings of sex-wallowing picture plays, of the thrillers which depend for divine justice being done upon the eccentricities of an automobile on the edge of a precipice, of the saccharine puppets and puppettes of the Cinderella type of picture—to these that sane, wholly entertaining and human picture play, "The Law of Compensation," in which Norma Talmadge is appearing this week, will be a welcome and refreshing diversion.

Miss Talmadge plays a double role—that of the young wife, and then, in a cut-back, the role of her own mother. While double roles have ceased to thrill as a novelty, the device lends distinct emphasis and point to this story, since the younger woman seems about to fall into the error of her mother's ways until her father tells the girl her mother's story.

As usual this gifted young actress brings intelligence, imagination and humor to her interpretation. The play is ideally cast in each character and the story is clean-cut and excellently well produced.

A news weekly of unusual substance rounds out an entirely entertaining bill.

TREND OF THE FINANCIAL NEWS.

CHIEF EVENTS OF YESTERDAY.

(At Home:) Gold imports into New York continued, a total of eight million dollars being received from Canada since last Friday. Foreign exchange was not materially altered, and the course of the bond market was irregular. On the Stock Exchange there was a relatively broad inquiry for active issues, and steel and associated shares were higher.

THE MEANEST MAN.

At last we have discovered the meanest man in the world. He is the man who borrows your newspaper when you enter the street car and who suddenly jumps up with the exclamation, "Here's my street!" forgetting to leave your paper. A word to the wise.

"IF A MAN DIE."

If the desire in every human heart for immortal life is not granted it is the only desire implanted in man by the All Wise Creator which will be left unfulfilled. Reason, revelation and intuition all suggest eternal life for the human soul. Upon what foundation does the infidel base his assertion that death will forever close the book of life?

HE WILL BE REMEMBERED.

The school children of Chicago desire to tear out of their spelling book all reference to the Kaiser, and it is probable that the Mayor and the School Board will grant their request. In some of the histories that will be written in the future the name of the Kaiser will not be eliminated, but it may be placed beside that of Nero, Attila and a few other "scourges of God's trembling nations."

WILD BEASTS.

A local zoo carpenter who had cared for two lions since they were cubs was caught and mangled when he went near their cage. Across the sea there is a people that has made a pet of a wild beast, admiring him so much that they placed him upon the throne. All too late they have seen their mistake and are suffering from it. "The mark of the beast" is in their foreheads and it will require the death of their former pet to place the nation in safety.

BLESS THEIR HEARTS!

A Long Beach man recently appeared at the Receiving Hospital for treatment, telling the officers that he had been scratched by a wild woman with whom he had been riding in an automobile. Perhaps she only wanted to give him a mark of affection. Women are strange creatures and their actions are often as little understood as their motives. A woman's worst treatment of a man is often a sign of her deep love for him—at least, most married men consider it best for their peace of mind to think that way about it!

WHO CAN BLAME THEM?

In a local real estate window two baby ostriches are to be seen walking back and forth, back and forth, all day long across the little improvised desert. To think that the descendants of the noble bird of the Great Sahara should thus be compelled to remain within the confines of a small glass prison in order to help advertise a few acres of land in a strange country! In these birds' eyes there is a vengeful fire which seems to say: "Just wait until we grow up and we'll kick the glass out of every real estate show window in Southern California!"

GEN. WANKOWSKI—A LOSS TO THE ARMY.

Everywhere that his able work as brigade commander of the California National Guard has brought him in touch with them military men are a unit in regretting that Brig.-Gen. Robert Wankowski is to have no part as an officer of the army in the coming activities of California troops in the great war. Retired for physical reasons, it is understood, by the Bureau of Militia Affairs of the Western Department, U.S.A., "General Bob" leaves behind him a military record as clean as a hound's tooth and as creditable as any which the younger generation will be able to show. For more than a quarter of a century he has made the progress and welfare of the California National Guard his life work, and in the several serious crises which its units, as State and Federal troops, have been called upon to handle, he has personally commanded them with conspicuous military skill.

As significant as any tribute which can be paid to Brig.-Gen. Wankowski as a soldier is his personal popularity with the enlisted men and the esteem in which his subordinate officers have always held him. When the Seventh returned from Nogales last fall the general's first public interview was an appeal to the people of Los Angeles to see that the enlisted men were given good jobs to replace those which they voluntarily sacrificed in order to serve their country. It was an attitude which has characterized him throughout his service.

Nineteen of the older men in the Guard are retired from active service on the eve of the drafting of our State troops into the new army. Most of them, by reason of ability and long familiarity with the organization, represent distinct losses to the First Brigade—losses which the younger and perhaps more vigorous men to be appointed will probably find it hard to fill. And in all the list there is none whose place, in the eyes of the California National Guard, will be as difficult to supply as that of Brig.-Gen. Robert Wankowski.

THOSE "BENEVOLENT NEUTRALS."

An enormous hidden source of Germany's food supply has been revealed since the Federal government has begun to enforce a strict supervision of the shipment of foodstuffs to neutral countries adjacent to Germany. Protests from Dutch shippers reveal that more than seventy merchant vessels flying the flag of Holland are held in Atlantic ports until our government satisfies itself as to the ultimate destination of the millions of tons of grain and other edibles that their holds contain. It is estimated that their cargoes comprise more than 10,000,000 bushels of wheat and corn, together with great quantities of other foodstuffs. These shipments are not consigned to Allied importers, and there is good reason to believe that most of the cargoes are intended for final delivery inside the German lines.

As the investigation of the ultimate destination of the Dutch cargoes progresses some surprising disclosures have been made concerning the amount of foodstuffs and war material the Central Powers are receiving from supposedly neutral Dutch and Scandinavian sources. It is claimed that, during the year 1916, Holland and the Scandinavian countries furnished Germany with the following food supplies:

| | Tons. |
|---|---|
| Beef and mutton | 215,800 |
| Pork | 63,800 |
| Vegetables | 215,000 |
| Potato flakes | 179,500 |
| Butter | 82,600 |
| Cheese | 80,500 |
| Fruit | 74,000 |
| Condensed Milk | 70,000 |
| Coffee | 58,500 |
| Eggs | 46,400 |
| Sugar | 42,000 |

This estimate does not include fish and other sea food. The total is staggering; it is sufficient to feed an army of 4,000,000 men. Evidently Holland and the Scandinavian countries are much more valuable to Germany and Austria as benevolent neutrals than as allies. These "neutrals" have been supplying the Central Powers with more than two thousand tons of foodstuffs daily. The traffic in war material has been almost as great. It is estimated that Sweden alone supplied Germany last year with more than 2,000,000 tons of iron ore and with the greater portion of the nickel used in the construction of German torpedoes.

Dr. Nansen, chairman of the Norway commission, is in this country asking for export licenses to ship 15,000,000 bushels of grain to Norway. Before this request is granted the Federal commission will require conclusive proof that this amount of grain is actually needed for home consumption in Norway, and that an Allied country is not being robbed by the delivery of so much valuable foodstuffs to a neutral people. The United States is now actively engaged in fighting the battles of democracy; our first concern must be for those countries that are fighting with us; there is neither the time nor the necessity to consider the wants of those standing on the side lines.

Commissions from Holland and the Scandinavian countries must not expect any serious consideration from the United States until they are able to furnish absolute guarantees that this enormous shipment of supplies to the Central Powers will cease. The first concern of all the Allied countries must be for their own households. There is a universal law that in times of stress those who are not willing to work must not expect to eat. If these neutral countries are not willing to aid the cause of democracy at this crucial time they must not expect the democratic governments to feed them until the wants of the Allied countries have been supplied. Still less must they expect to purchase food in an Allied country for resale to the Central Powers. One of the wonders of the war has been the ability of Germany to feed its population and equip its armies, but when one reads of the millions of tons of foodstuffs secured from "benevolent neutrals" the mystery is explained. The service rendered by the United States to the Allied cause by cutting off this neutral supply is estimated to be even greater than landing an expeditionary force of half a million men in France. It may be fittingly termed the beginning of the end for the Central Powers.

THE MYSTERY OF LIFE.

Men go to the theaters to see mysteries and to revel in the so-called miracles performed by magicians who are masters of trickery, forgetful of the fact that all around them, every day, more astounding miracles are being performed than were ever shown by a fakir on a vaudeville stage. And nowhere in the world does nature perform more wonderful miracles than here in the sunny Southland. There is no greater mystery on earth than that of vegetation. A tiny seed is placed in the soil, germinates and bursts from its grave, reaches downward into the earth and upward into the air, taking sustenance from sun and soil and rain, converting all the substantial elements of the universe into flowers of beauty that delight the eye of man and into fruit which sustains his life. Take a dozen different little seeds and plant them. In size and color, form and substance they are apparently the same, yet each seed contains within itself a something different than what is to be found in all the other seeds. One becomes a poppy, one a stalk of clover, one a crimson moss-flower and one a bright yellow mustard plant. It is claimed that the germs of life that produce all sentient creatures are the same in essence and that there is no difference between the protoplasm of animal life from the ant to the elephant or from the lowest form of life up to man. What power is it, then, that is responsible for the fact that one germ develops a horse, another a lion, another a monkey and another a man? And how does that power work to accomplish its ends? Scientists declare all substance to be of the same essence. Is there an innate intelligence or power of selection and operation in every atom of substance, or is all the universe of trembling stars guided and directed by an intelligent power that exists somehow, somewhere outside of and beyond that which man knows as creation? All life, as the thinker sees it, is a constant succession of miracles, an eternal round of mysteries. And yet men go to the theaters to watch the tricks of magicians!

The Strong Man.

SELF-ASSERTIVE WILSON.

The Republicans of the United States have loyally laid aside their political partisanship and supported President Wilson in his measures for the defense of the country; but President Wilson has, in his appointments to the new offices the creation of which the war rendered necessary, never forgotten his Democracy. If a Republican has been appointed by him to any place it has been through inadvertence, or because there was no available Democrat who sought the position.

Many great men have been great egotists. Both Napoleons, the elder Pitt, Andrew Jackson, Charles Sumner and Roscoe Conkling were self-assertive. Abraham Lincoln and U. S. Grant were self-effacing. Billy Bryan and Billy Sunday are given to the glorification of the first personal pronoun. Of all the Presidents who have occupied the White House, Mr. Wilson is the most self-assertive. His dominant characteristic is an unappeasable hunger for power. His recommendations to Congress, or rather demands upon Congress, for legislation have almost invariably taken the shape of vesting in him a discretion with regard to the enforcement or non-enforcement of a law, either directly or by the appointment of commissioners chosen by him.

The shipbuilding measure is an instance where the operation of the law was delayed for months by the President tying the hands of the competent Goethals by giving him the incompetent Denman as a colleague.

The food bill places unreservedly in the hands of Mr. Wilson the power to abrogate, or at least to suspend, the laws of supply and demand.

President Wilson has been persistent in his demands upon Congress for the appropriation of money the expenditure of which was given to him. Congress has responded by appropriating double the cost of the Civil War, and there are bills pending for further appropriations that will add 50 per cent. of the amount already appropriated. In expending this money Mr. Wilson has lacked both promptness and effectiveness. He gives more time to explaining why things have not been done than he does to doing things, and he illustrates Dr. Johnson's proverb that "A man who is good at making excuses is seldom good for anything else."

When it was proposed in Congress to appoint from members of the Senate and House of Representatives a joint committee on the conduct of the war President Wilson had the monumental nerve to say: "I can only interpret the final adoption of this [resolution] as arising through a lack of confidence in myself."

Even so. Congress has not lost confidence in Mr. Wilson's personal integrity or his clever statesmanship, or his ability as a phrase-maker acquired by his academic training; but his meddling and muddling in Mexico, his pitiful and procrastinating in dealing with Germany, his delay in dealing with important matters and his continuing to retain in his Cabinet the incompetent Daniels and the worse than incompetent Baker have caused even his party friends in Congress to "lack confidence."

The President has met many perplexing situations with ability, courage, adroitness and a conscientious purpose—and The Times has not hesitated to give him full credit; but he aspires to be too much of a dictator.

No doubt Abraham Lincoln, during the rebellion, was exasperated by the advice of the statesmen who were around him, but he was wise enough to know that the war was not his exclusively. Neither did he withdraw to an inner room of the White House and shut himself off from all personal intercourse with the members of Congress.

SOCIALISM AND KAISERISM.

German Socialism, as defined in the memorandum submitted by the German Socialist majority delegates to the committee of the Stockholm conference, is slightly different from American Socialism, as defined by the leaders in this country who have adopted the Proudhon doctrine that "property is robbery."

German Socialism proposes some changes in international law. German Socialism proposes a treaty of peace between all nations, guaranteeing political independence and freedom of economic development to each nation that shall join the league. German Socialism proposes an international tribunal to arbitrate in disputes between states, and the creation of an international judicial tribunal to pass upon alleged violations of international agreements.

German Socialism proposes that an international congress shall enact international laws limiting armaments on land and sea, and the creation of an international army for defense against aggression and violent subjugation. German Socialism proposes a definition of the weapons of war the use of which will be permitted, state control of the armament industry, prohibition of the delivery by neutrals to belligerents of munitions of war, abolition of prize law and of the arming of merchantmen, international control of straits and interoceanic canals, and effective guarantees for the security of world commerce during a war.

German Socialism proposes that as a preliminary to a general peace league there should be a treaty of peace guaranteeing that the war will not be continued in the form of an economic war, and that free communication shall be restored on sea and land, and it proposes that, pending the termination of the present war, there should be a definition of the weapons of war it is permissible to use, and that the delivery of munitions of war to belligerents on the part of neutrals should be prohibited.

German Socialism does not, however, propose to give up the ends sought to be attained by American Socialism. It demands that the right of association and the compensation and protection of workmen must be settled in accordance with the known programme of the International League of Labor Unions. That is to say, members of labor unions shall not be required to surrender the right to exclude from employment non-union workmen, and to picket, boycott, insult, assault and dynamite employers who refuse to yield to their demands.

Finally, the German Socialists make a farce of their other demands by demanding, as a preliminary, a peace on the basis of no annexations and no indemnity, of no restoration of Alsace and Lorraine to France; no surrender of Serbia; no relinquishment of the grip of Mr. Hohenzollern on the throat of Poland; no retention by Britain of the German African possessions; no indemnity to the people in Belgium and in Northern France for property stolen, towns burned and fields ravaged.

The motto of German Socialism appears to be the same as that of the Kaiser, at whose feet they are abjectly crouching. "Heads I win, tails you lose."

It is not probable that the Entente Allies will be deceived by the German Socialists into abandoning what has now become the real purpose of the war—the utter exclusion from power of the autocratic Hohenzollern, who, in the pursuit of his wicked and unwarranted ambitions, has desolated a continent and decimated the population of four great nations.

Statistics show that the war has been a blow to the little specialty shops in England, while the big department stores have made more money than ever before. If the condition is to continue indefinitely British merchandising methods are likely to be reformed. The small shopkeepers are being crowded to the wall.

COLONEL BEANFUGLE ON SAVING DAYLIGHT.

By Arthur Chapman in Judge.

"I think I shall enroll myself in the Daylight Saving movement," said Col. Beanfugle, over the top of his newspaper. "It looks like a great and glorious cause."

"Well, the men have started enough Night Wasting movements—it's about time they started making up for their own folly," replied Mrs. Beanfugle. "But just how is the daylight going to be saved?"

"The simplest thing in the world," the colonel answered. "All clocks are set ahead just one hour."

"Then what?"

"Then nothing. That's all there is to it."

"But how is any daylight saved by such means?"

"Everybody simply goes to work an hour earlier and quits an hour earlier."

"Do you mean to say that just because the clock is set an hour ahead you will get up an hour earlier?"

"Certainly. It's inevitable. The psychological effect of the thing will be felt by everybody alike."

"Psychological nothing! It would take dynamite instead of psychology to get you up an hour earlier in the morning."

"That's just like a woman—always skeptical of anything with a scientific punch to it. This thing has all been reasoned out by the greatest minds in the world. Do you suppose that all these college professors and myself would be agreed upon this thing if it were based upon a wrong hypothesis?"

"Anything that any bunch of men gets up is worth looking into twice. You can't convince me that turning the clock ahead an hour is going to save any five minutes of daylight. I suppose you will be changing that old nursery poem, too, and making it read:

"'Hickory, dickory, dock,
The mouse ran up the clock;
The clock struck none instead of one—'

"Let us not drag in the classics," sneered the colonel. "Why not be honest, even if you can't rhyme about it? The Daylight Saving movement will give us a full extra hour in the evening."

"Well, if there's any one thing you don't need, it's an extra hour in the evening. I can't figure out just why you should have sixty minutes more in which to hunt for lost golf balls, or make a maniac of yourself in the baseball park while dinner is waiting. Even granting that this Daylight Saving movement started you an hour earlier to work, what benefit would come to me and to the rest of the women of the land?"

"The same benefits that accrue to the rest of us," said the colonel. "You'd have an extra hour in which to play bridge, or run the family automobile, or attend the movies."

"That sounds good, but still I can't figure out that hour's earlier start in the morning. Why not make this Daylight Saving an optional one? If A wants to save daylight, let him set his watch ahead. If B is willing to go right on wasting daylight riotously, the way we are doing just now, let him have that privilege. When A tells B the time, let him explain that it is on the Daylight Saving plan. Then B can make his calculations accordingly. Of course, it is going to be rather awkward if families are split on the subject. If you come home as a Daylight Saver at 5 o'clock by my time and insist that dinner should be ready, I have a good alibi in my own watch. If I wish to sleep an hour later in the morning, it is clearly up to you, as a Daylight Saver, to get up and get your own breakfast. Suppose you attend a play that is not staged according to the Daylight Saving plan. You must miss the last act, in order to get home at the usual hour. I can foresee a general strike of milkmen if the Daylight Saving scheme goes into effect. It is hard enough for the poor fellows to get up at 3 o'clock now, and if they have to shove their clocks ahead in order to satisfy your whim about conserving daylight, they are apt to turn bankers in order to get the benefit of better hours."

"The maintenance of a controversial attitude in the face of testimony that is absolutely overwhelming is essentially feminine," said the colonel wearily. "I see that you are unalterably opposed to setting the clock ahead, but I know of one thing which you seem to be determined to set back at all times."

"What is that?"

"My pocketbook."

RIPPLING RHYMES.

LOST YOUTH.

"If I were only young once more,
how I would wade in Prussian gore!
If I were only twenty-three, or thirty,
as I used to be, how I would wield my flashing sword and paralyze the German horde! If I were not of failing sight, and if my whiskers were not white, and if I had no housemaid's knee, how eagerly I'd cross the sea, with my large double-action lance, and drive invaders out of France!" Thus every day I hear old men bewail their age and weep again. Cheer up, oh, venerable jays! You still may help in forty ways. The rolls of cash we see you hoard may do more service than the sword. Great whiskers!
how your faces fall when barking to that sort of call! "Our lifeblood we would freely lose until it rose above your shoes," you grand old fellows seem to say; "we'd bleed and die day after day, but when you'd touch our pocketbooks that is another thing, gadzooks!" Oh, how the children must admire the grown-ups filled with martial fire, who tell all day what they would do if they were twenty-one or two, and who shrink up and fade away if asked to help Y.M.C.A., or any worthy army cause—those heroes battling with their jaws.

A love affair is entirely too sublime to be displayed in public. And when it is publicly displayed it appears ridiculous. So then, please part hands, you lovers spooning on the street cars and the benches of the public parks.

The object of all motion is rest. And in poise all things worth while are achieved and created.

Medical science has made no progress since the days of Hippocrates.

The most useless of all sciences is that of astronomy; for it teaches us only, to quote a philosopher and astromoner of the Chicago University, that this world is inhabited by sentient beings—a thing we already knew.

The new German Chancellor is a mystic. Mysticism is playing a tremendous role in the war. Maybe there is no war at all—maybe it is all a dream within a dream.

All love affairs are electrolytic processes. Thus a man should be quite sure that the electrical processes are functionizing healthfully before he flirts with a woman. Otherwise she may slap him in the face. A man should carry a galvanometer, rather than a watch, when in the company of a woman. She never inquires the time. It is only he.

Besides, no two watches ever indicate the same time; and no watch ever indicates the correct time. And, in addition to all that, watches merely acquaint you with the terrible fact that "youth grows old and spectre thin and dies," as Keats says.

All knowledge and science are founded on feeling. Thus we should cultivate the feelings more. There is certainly a dearth of good taste in the world. The complaint recites that the automobile, driven by Mrs. Fleming, was on the car tracks on Maple avenue while crossing the intersection. A car, coming from another direction, crashed into it, throwing Mr. and Mrs. Fleming to the ground and injuring the former permanently, it is said.

Bill Covering Five Per Cent. Quota Sent to Supervisors.

The forms covering the 5 per cent. bill were forwarded by the State Board of Equalization to the Board of Supervisors yesterday. In order to conform to the statute, Chairman Hahn referred the matter to Superintendent Woodley of the finance department.

The law prohibits a levy of more than 1 per cent. over the levy for the previous year. Opposition to the new regulation has developed and its constitutionality will be tested. Under the provisions it is stated that counties must consult the State and secure permission before providing for extensive building improvements.

They are crowded out because they have no funds.

Supervisor Brown, in my opinion, has done more than almost any one man to increase the use of home products. He has made private gardeners grow $1,500,000 worth of goods that were not in existence before. Using goods out of your own back yard is the home industry principle in perfect form—absolutely no transportation is required. Home canning and home preserving have the same principle. It is absolutely essential that the tremendous strain upon our railroads should be slackened down immediately, and that every freight car in the country should be put to its best use. Otherwise, the United States will be greatly hampered in winning the war."

"Many eastern people have moved from to Los Angeles and instead of using eastern products should be overlooked in the interests of patriotism. The only definite means of identification was the serial number on the Automobile Club emblem carried on the radiator cap.

Seeks Alimony from Ex-Pugilist.

Mrs. Tom Sharkey,
Snapped as she was leaving court yesterday with two of her friends.

Thirteen a Week.

SHARKEY BLAMES WOMAN FOR HIS WIFE'S WOES.

"I AM NOT trying to keep anything from the little girl. There's another woman in the case, Mrs. Ridgway. She has ruined my little girl; taken her out at nights until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning."

This statement from Tom Sharkey, former heavyweight pugilist, brought an indignant flush to the cheeks of Mrs. Florence Camille Sharkey, who was in Judge Wood's court yesterday seeking alimony.

But the court preferred to hear from Mr. Sharkey when his wife's suit came on trial. The judge was more interested in knowing the sturdy man's financial resources, which latter were found to be not very good.

Mr. Sharkey is manager for Jim Jeffries's saloon, and said he received $50 a week. Although he admitted he had gone through bankruptcy, he did not claim exemption from certain personal debts amounting to $3000. These were loans to tide him over a financial depression and for medical services.

Mrs. Sharkey is her husband's junior by about twenty-three years. She is his second wife, and the testimony showed she looked after the details of a handsome tombstone for the first Mrs. Sharkey. In her complaint she charges Mr. Sharkey with cruelty, consisting of blows and alleged attempts on her life. She says he was jealous, and characterizes his tirade anent Mrs. Marion Ridgway, her friend, as "bunk."

"I am white, free and over 21; I don't need anyone to take me around," she hotly declared in the corridor of the Hall of Records.

"You can have Mrs. Ridgway now," as hotly declared Mr. Sharkey.

Mrs. Sharkey declared she had pawned a locket set with fourteen diamonds for $65 in order to live since her separation from Mr. Sharkey. She admitted the money had been given her by Mrs. Ridgway. The court ordered Mr. Sharkey to redeem the locket and bring it into court to determine the ownership. The wife says it was a gift from her husband.

"Are you superstitious of the number 13?" the court asked Mr. Sharkey.

"No, Your Honor," was the reply. "Well, I make the order $13 a week." The first week's alimony was paid in court. Mrs. Sharkey wanted $20 a week in order to fit herself for a business career. She is a book-keeper.

The marriage was a romance of New York. Mrs. Sharkey has known Mr. Sharkey since she was 3 years old. He claims he reared her. She denies that she or her family ever received anything from him. They were married in San Francisco about two years ago. The separation was last July.

TO BE PAID DAILY.

Under the law recently passed, jurors in the Superior Court are paid daily. Heretofore they did not receive their stipend until the determination of the action they were trying. The daily payment is a convenience to jurors who are forced to leave their work and lose their pay. It also relieves the clerks of the court the responsibility of guarding a large sum of money. Not long ago one of the clerk's desk was pried open and more than $400 in gold stolen. There was no clew to the thief.

Doctrine.

CALLS ETERNAL HELL MYTHICAL.

Adventist Says Wicked will be Burned Quickly.

And this World is Only One Where Sin Exists.

Today's Programme at Local Gathering Announced.

That the orthodox view of hell fire and purgatory, as a lake of seething brimstone in which the wicked are tormented forever, is a myth and has no real existence except in the imagination, was the statement of Pastor George B. Thompson of Washington, D. C., secretary of the North American Division Conference of the Seventh-day Adventists, in his discourse at the Adventist camp ground at West Washington and Orchard streets last night. Mr. Thompson told of the origin of the devil, as an angel in heaven, first perfect, but later rebellious against his Creator and seeking to secure to himself the honors claimed by the Deity.

Strange as it may seem, Mr. Thompson said, war originated in heaven with the being who, next to Christ, the Son of God, was most honored by the angelic host. He said:

"How did sin and death originate, and if God loves men, why was sin permitted? Why did God not kill the devil as soon as he sinned, and thus save all the pain, misery and death in the world? These questions are asked by thousands.

THE DEVIL SPARED.

"God could, by a command, have blotted this wicked angel out of existence, with all his disloyal followers. But had this been done a question would have remained unanswered in the minds of the loyal angelic hosts. Inhabitants of myriad planets that swing in space had learned of Satan's accusations against Christ. With eager interest they watched the outcome.

"Bear in mind, my friends, that the universe never had seen sin. None but the Creator realized its awfulness. Heavenly intelligencies had not witnessed its fruits. Had the Creator withdrawn Satan's life, the inhabitants of myriad worlds afar would have said: 'Lucifer told us God was domineering. This seems to be evidence of it.' Sin is the transgression of God's law, and Satan is the father of sin.

"God did not create sin, but he foresaw its existence. In the councils of eternity he planned to meet the terrible emergency. With Christ, His Son, He arranged that if sin should enter the world, the Son would die on the cross to meet the claims of the law. God had an eternal purpose in view.

"This earth is the one 'lost sheep.' The scripture says the nations are as a drop of a bucket, compared with the immense universe. The great ocean of life is on worlds that have never sinned. Planet after planet is inhabited by millions of intelligent beings, but among them all, man alone has come under the dominion of sin.

"God has so arranged it that sin must come to an end. Christ was manifested to put away sin, by the sacrifice of himself. I know many people think man has an immortal, never-dying propensity, and that he never can cease to exist in wickedness. We are told that there is no such thing as death, that the immortal soul lives on and on, when what we call death takes place. This belief is based upon Satan's lie in Eden, when he told Eve, 'Ye shall not surely die.'

FATE OF THE WICKED.

"The Bible plainly shows that the dead are unconscious.

"My friends, the doctrine of eternal torment in hell fire, has made more infidels than Ingersoll ever did. It is a mistake to suppose God is such a tyrant. The doctrine of everlasting torment is not in the Bible.

"What, then, will become of the wicked? They will be brought to life at the second resurrection. Revelation xx:9 says they 'went up on the breadth of the earth, and compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city; and fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them.' They will be burned up, root and branch—Satan the root, and his followers the branches."

Yesterday afternoon Pastor Arthur G. Daniells, president of the General, or World Conference of the Seventh-day Adventists, spoke at the camp meeting on "Missions." F. E. Painter of Glendale, field missionary, spoke yesterday morning. Pastor E. E. Andross, president of the Pacific Union Conference, spoke at the 9:30 hour yesterday morning. Dr. A. W. Truman of the Loma Linda College of Medical Evangelists spoke at 4:30. A parents' meeting was held at 2 p.m. yesterday and stereopticon views were shown in the big pavilion at 7 p.m. Young people's meetings and children's meetings were held both morning and afternoon.

Pastor J. L. McElhany of Oakland, president of the California Conference, will speak in the pavilion at 11 o'clock this morning. Secretary Thompson will speak at 3 p.m. today, Dr. A. W. Truman at 4:30, and President Daniells at 7:45 p.m. on "The Judgment Hour and Its Message."

Woman Wants Large Damages Because Car Hit Friend's Auto.

Miss Genevieve Hart, through her attorneys, Ralph and Russell Graham, filed suit for $30,000 damages in the Superior Court yesterday against the Los Angeles Railway Corporation and Louis Rosenthal and Max Rubenstein of Los Angeles.

It is alleged that Messrs. Rubenstein and Rosenthal took Miss Hart for a ride in an automobile some weeks ago, and while driving "recklessly" across Eleventh street along Hill street, collided with a trolley car of the defendant company. The woman charges that she was cut and bruised about the body and head and injured permanently.

ACTIVE ISSUES IN DEMAND; WAR GROUP SCORES GAINS.

Renewal of Trading After Market's Double Recess is Characterized by Relative Broad Demand—Gold Imports Continue, a Total of Eight Millions Being Received from Canada—Bonds Irregular.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Renewal of trading after the stock market's double recess was characterized by a relatively broad inquiry for active stocks. Pools also found it easy to advance various specialties, tobaccos, oils and sugars being particularly responsive at extreme gains of 2 to 6 points.

Steels and associated shares were higher. The war group in general augmented last week's gains, with coppers, motors and utilities.

United States Steel made a maximum advance of 1¾ points, to 127⅞, its top quotation in almost a month, and allied equipments rose 1 to 3, although Bethlehem Steel denoted pressure.

Rails and shippings were apathetic aside from the activity of secondary transportation issues, Missouri Pacific preferred scoring a gross gain of 3¾ points on extensive accumulation.

Foreign exchange was not materially altered. Gold imports continued, a total of $8,000,000 being received from Canada since last Friday.

Bonds were irregular. Liberty 3¼s, which are being quoted in fractions of hundredths instead of fiftieths, were fairly active at 99.64 to 99.76. Total sales, par value, aggregated $1,675,000.

United States bonds, old issues, were unchanged on call.

PORT ITEMS.

One of the first of the thirty navigation schools to be opened by the United States Shipping Board will be located at the San Pedro branch City Hall next Monday morning. This was decided upon here today by Winfield M. Thompson, field agent for the recruiting service of the board, and Captain F. Griffiths, who will have charge of the work at California ports. They left today for San Diego, where a similar school will be opened. The school here will be only for deck officers. The engineering school for the Pacific Coast will be located at Seattle.

Industrial rates for natural gas in the harbor district as well as those given Torrance and other industrial centers will be a condition upon which an application for a franchise to cross the west basin channel with a new main will be granted by the Harbor Commission, according to an announcement made here today by Secretary Matson of the commission.

The San Pedro Chamber of Commerce has been requested by the State Railroad Commission to bid all work which will come under the jurisdiction of the act effective this month by which rates for passenger and freight carrying will be fixed by the commission. All pleasure, sailing craft and barges under twenty tons and power boats under five tons will be exempt.

Coincident with the announcement that the railroads are to be permitted to abolish terminal freight rates and increase transcontinental tariffs to comply with a strict injunction of the long and short haul clause of the law giving the Interstate Commerce Commission jurisdiction over rates, comes the news that the government is for the first time to go into the steamship business and operate government-owned ships through the Panama Canal from the Pacific Coast to New York.

The announcement comes from Williams, Dimond & Co., Pacific Coast agents for the American-Hawaiian line, who will act as loading agents for the former German steamer Elsass, which will sail from New York about September 1. The steamer will not continue in this trade, however, but will resume her old route, Atlantic waters. She will be followed, however, by other German vessels on the Pacific Coast taken over by the government.

The first steamer will call at this port, provided 1000 tons of California products is offered by Los Angeles shippers. Provided a minimum of 3500 tons is secured, the steamer will also call at Norfolk, Va.

RIVERSIDE'S TAX RATE IS LOWERED.

STEP TAKEN IN VIEW OF LOSS TO CITRUS GROWERS.

Ten Thousand Dollars Transferred from the Municipal Lighting Profits to the General Fund in Order to Permit of Lower Charge Being Made.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 6.—The lowest tax rate in ten years, with one exception, was determined upon by the City Council today, when the Board of Public Utilities adopted a resolution authorizing the transfer of $10,000 from the municipal lighting profits to the general fund. The rate for a number of years has hovered around the $1.80 mark, and last year it was $1.58. This year a rate of $1.48 is assured, as a result of the reduction in the amount necessary to be raised by taxation. The $10,000 transfer is in recognition of the stroke suffered by the citrus fruit industry during the June hot spell.

RADICAL STEP.

A radical step was taken by the City Council today in the passing of an ordinance placing the care of street trees under the jurisdiction of the street department. Ever since the adoption of the present charter in 1907 the Board of Park Commissioners has had full authority over street trees, the city being the first in the West to assume municipal control of street trees. The action of the Council will vest the duties heretofore performed by a tree warden in the Superintendent of Streets. Economy is the motive moving the Council, according to the declaration of its members.

Exemption Ratio.

ence of the board and asked if he wishes to claim exemption. If not, he is listed for service, if physically fit; if not he is discharged. If he desires to claim exemption he is given the proper blanks and instructed as to filling them out.

The board will endeavor to pass on all claims for exemption each night so that those whose claims are rejected may be duly listed for service. The names of all those listed for service will be posted on a bulletin board in the downstairs office of the board each day and the men whose names appear on this list will hold themselves ready for the call to service.

One of the principal handicaps which this board has had to contend with is a lack of the proper blanks. While the board will examine 1600 men during the week, its supply of medical examination blanks was practically exhausted yesterday and a new lot had to be printed at the expense of the board members. This complaint of a shortage of supplies is pretty general throughout the fifteen boards. Nof 16 was short 700 notices, which must be sent to men asking them to appear for examination. Other blanks, such as transfer forms and various affidavits, are also short.

ON TRANSFERS.

Men who are in Los Angeles, but who have registered in other cities, should wire their boards, giving their card number, precinct number, and, if they have it, their red ink number. This will enable their local board to send them the proper information and effect their transfers without delay and confusion. They should also give the district number and address of the district board in this city at which they will appear for examination.

GOOD RECORD.

City District No. 13 came forward yesterday with a comparatively high record. Only a little more than 10 per cent. of the number examined failed to pass the physical tests, and a little better than one out of two of those that passed it did not ask for exemption.

The Hollywood call for yesterday carried the name of E. M. Cook of No. 1422 Iowa avenue, who was killed in a motorcycle accident about three weeks ago. This is the fourth instance during the course of the draft in this city where the name of a deceased person has been called. They are listed as exempted.

The board in District No. 14 has been compelled to issue an additional call for 170 men. The original call was for 224 men, double the number of the necessary quota of 117. Voluntary enlistments in this district had cut down the number of men available on the first call.

Only partial reports have been made by city departments to the Council as to the men in each department whose numbers have been called in the first draft for the national army. Those so far reporting are the City Prosecutor's office, the City Clerk's office, the building inspector's department and the fire department.

In the City Prosecutor's office the men with draft numbers are E. W. Widney, W. V. Kroule, Harold G. Ferguson, Frank W. Richardson, J. Friedlander and E. J. Delorey, Jr. In the office of Building Inspector Backus the men whose numbers are drawn are Philip S. Low and David W. Castle.

In order to answer a multitude of questions that have been asked of the exemption board for the Los Angeles county district No. 3, including Santa Monica, Venice, Sawtelle and near-by country, a meeting of the board will be held today in the City Hall, Santa Monica. The first physical examinations for the precinct will be held Thursday.

SESSION OPENS.

Veterans of Southern California Gather at Huntington Beach for Their Annual Encampment. Attendance is Up to the Average.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—The Southern California Veterans' Association will convene tomorrow on the camp grounds for the thirtieth annual encampment. Judge W. D. Seedy, manager of the Tent City Company, reported today that 102 tents were either engaged or occupied, which indicates that the attendance this year will be equal, if not greater, than past years.

Quartermaster A. P. Paul of Santa Ana was one of the first officials to arrive on the scene, with the big registration book that is always of great interest to all who attend the encampments. The first old comrade to register was J. E. West, Norwalk, who enlisted in Co. C of the Second Nebraska Cavalry, and the second was Quartermaster Paul, who was a member of the One Hundred and Twenty-second Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry.

This is the thirteenth consecutive year the veterans have met in Huntington Beach. One of the early arrivals was Comrade Tom Hull of Los Angeles, Senior Vice-Commander, who will probably be chosen as Commander at the election next week.

LYNCH NAMED OVER PROTEST.

But Irrigation District War is Only Commenced.

Ouster Action to Follow, Says Protestants' Attorney.

Llano del Rio Secretary's Word Sways Decision.

By a vote of three to two, the Board of Supervisors yesterday appointed James M. Lynch a director of the Big Rock irrigation district, representing division No. 4. The appointment was made over the protest of former Judge Kendrick, who contended that Mr. Lynch is not a land owner in the district.

Mr. Lynch was favored by W. A. Engle, secretary of the Llano del Rio colony. It was his testimony, under oath, that Mr. Lynch has a deed to land, although the deed is not recorded. Attorney Kendrick called a searcher as a witness, who testified that the land involved is portion of an estate in process of administration; that it was deeded to the Socialistic colony and later deeded to Mr. Lynch, but that title did not pass owing to certain technicalities. In his opinion, Mr. Lynch did not have title to the land, the title being vested in the heirs of the estate.

Although the opinion of the County Counsel was sought and one written by Deputy County Counsel Bishop, holding that it would seem there is no fourth division and only a de facto district, and advising that no appointment be made until a decision has been reached by the courts, a motion was put to appoint Mr. Lynch.

Chairman Hamilton, Norton and Dodge voted for the appointment; Supervisors McClellan and Woodley voted no. The former stated he was inclined to follow the County Counsel's advice. Mr. Woodley held that as there are already four members on the board of directors of the irrigation district, no harm would follow by waiting. Mr. Engle contended that a full board of directors was necessary.

Attorney Kendrick intimated strongly that steps would be taken to oust Mr. Lynch, and predicted litigation.

The campaign in Claremont for funds to aid the Armenians and Syrians, conducted by the Armenian-Syrian Relief Committee for Southern California, has closed with the required quota for Claremont fully raised.

A statement by M. G. Frampton, the chairman, says that it was the large number of small subscribers who achieved this result, and that of the 340 families canvassed subscriptions were received from 185, thus showing that more than half the households of Claremont have contributed to this relief work.

The cash and single-payment pledges amounted to $1033.55, and the monthly pledges to $155.63.

THE WARRIOR SOUL.

TO THE MEMORY OF GEN. OTIS.

Aye, ever a fighter, and now from the rack
Of the tumult and strife
The sword that ne'er faltered or paused or turned back
In the battle of life
Is laid on the shield, and the banners are furled
And the victory won;
And the warrior has met the arch-fiend of the world
With his face to the sun;
No "finis" for him the dark scrivener writes
Whose life purpose was high—
The captain still leads and the soldier still fights,
For the brave never die.

Aye, ever a worker—Los Angeles still
As a monument stands
To the wealth of his heart and the strength of his will
And the work of his hands;
There needs no inscription, no tablet of stone,
Added honor to give,
In the life of the land he loved more than his own
Will his memory live.
His standard of loyalty, lowered for none,
The true gauge of his worth,
The plain, simple record of what he has done
His best poem on earth . . .

And a voice from the stars to the warrior saith
At the Gates of the West:
"Thou hast fought the good fight, thou hast finished the faith,

SEEKS FRANCHISE IN HARBOR DISTRICT

APPLICATION BY SOUTHERN COUNTIES CONCERN.

Gas for Industrial Purposes at a Cheap Rate Being Sought by Secretary Matson of Port Commission and Subject will be Discussed Next Thursday.

Gas for industrial purposes in the harbor district may be provided through a movement started at the City Hall yesterday.

The Southern Counties Gas Company filed with the Harbor Commission an application for a right of way franchise across city tidelands and other properties not included in public streets, so that it may extend its gas distributing systems through the harbor district.

The company asks a forty-year franchise over these lands, but thirty years is the limit provided by the charter. It is in possession of a franchise for the old town of San Pedro, acquired when it purchased the gas properties of the Southern California Edison Company, just prior to the consolidation which that company effected with the Pacific Light and Power Corporation.

At that time the Southern Counties Gas Company secured all the Edison gas systems in the outside towns. Considerable of the volume of gas supplied to the various systems under its control is secured from the Fullerton-Whittier oil fields.

Immediately after the filing of the application, Secretary Matson of the Harbor Commission drew the attention of the members of that body to the necessity of requiring that, if a franchise is granted, it provide a cheap rate for gas for industrial purposes. This subject will be discussed at a conference between the Mayor, the Harbor Commission, Public Utilities Commission, and the chairman of the Council's Harbor Committee and Public Utilities Committee, at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Mayor Woodman stated last evening that he has good reason to believe that the company will not object to the provision for a rate of 14 or 15 cents per 1000 cubic feet for gas for industrial purposes.

LEAVES CEMETERY LOTS TO FRIENDS.

QUEER PROVISION IN WILL OF LONG BEACH WOMAN.

Bulk of Sizable Estate Goes to Persons not of Kin—Mother, Brother and Other Relatives are Given Pittance—Assures Self Place of Sepulcher.

An interesting legacy came to light in the Superior Court yesterday, when E. W. Case of Pasadena, administrator of the estate of Mrs. Eliza Bereis, filed the will for probate. Mrs. Bereis's mother is to receive $25 under the will; her brother and six other relatives are to receive $10 each. To six friends Mrs. Bereis left more than $10,000 in cash, and made provisions in the will for the purchase of four cemetery lots, one to be used for her remains and the other three for those of three of the six remembered in the will.

Mrs. Bereis, prior to her death August 1, was a resident of Long Beach. She was 55 years of age. To Mrs. Nellie Sheahan of Long Beach the sum of $500 was willed; $2000 was left to Mrs. Mary Sullivan, also of Long Beach; $500 to Miss Sadie Eddington of Berlin, Wis.; $1000 to Miss Emma Dependahl of Pasadena, $500 to Mrs. Blanche Simens of Chelen, Wash., and the balance of her estate, both real and personal, to Miss Maggie Steeps, of Berlin, Wis.

Her estate is valued at more than $10,000.
